Coal Bins of City Schools Dwindle

DEALERS SEEK PAY; THREATEN TO STOP SUPPLY

Confer Today on $480,000 Bill.

The dwindling coal bin is the weak spot in the continuation of municipal service in Chicago which public officials are anxiously watching. If a breakdown comes, which some fear and fewer talk about, many think it is most likely to start with a lack of coal.

The most threatening coal situation among the local governments is in the public schools. President Caldwell of the school board is scheduled to meet the board's three coal dealers today in an effort to convince them that they should continue to deliver fuel despite the lack of cash and the fact that the board now owes them about $480,000.

Coal Men Dissatisfied.

The coal men declare the school board has played fast and loose even when there wasn't a stringency of funds. This year the board has appropriated $1,111,017 for fuel as compared with $1,169,150 in 1929. Even last year when the board had a tax rate of $1.47, as compared with $1.35 this year, the board held up bills totaling approximately $280,000.

A year ago this winter the coal men had to threaten to shut off deliveries unless the board came through with some cash. The coal men say they do not see why they should lend money to the school board continually, which they contend they are doing under present circumstances. They claim that other supply men are paid.

Can't Continue Deliveries.

The Reiner Coal company, which holds the contract to deliver coal in District No. 5—roughly the area between 35th and 69th streets — has notified John Howatt, chief engineer for the school board, that it cannot continue to deliver without some money. This firm is delivering to all the public schools in the Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Twelfth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Fifteenth and Sixteenth wards, and to some of the schools in the Second, Seventh, Eighth, Seventeenth and Eighteenth wards. The number of schools, children and teachers served by the Reiner company may be summarized as follows:

	Pupils.	Teachers.
Normal college	1,343	74
Junior highs	26,562	686
Senior highs	8,135	325
Elementary	68,502	1,754
Totals [77]	98,382	2,833

In this group are four special schools for the deaf, one for cripples, one for the blind and six for anemic children.

The schools involved in this coal contract, and the number of pupils in each are as follows, in addition to the normal college:

SENIOR HIGH SCHOOLS.

While the bills of the Reiner concern are not available, the school population it serves indicates that it has more than $90,000 coming from the board.

President Caldwell has said to friends that he will do everything possible to keep the schools in operation. Mayor Thompson is also anxious to keep the schools going in preference to certain other municipal services. A political friend of the mayor was reported to have made inquiries on Saturday which indicated that the administration

2 BANDITS ROB CASHIERS OF 3 MOVIE THEATERS

Bandits last night held up and robbed the cashiers of three south side movie theaters of a total of $600. The police believe the same two men committed all three robberies, the descriptions of the robbers being similar in all cases.

The Chelten theater, 7935 Exchange avenue, was the first victim. Two men drove up to the front of the place and while one remained at the wheel the other ordered Miss Edith McBride, 22 years old, 6404 Dorchester avenue, to hand over the receipts. He took $200 and the pair fled in their car.

A few minutes later the procedure was repeated at the Grove theater at 7620 Cottage Grove avenue, where the gunmen took $400 from Miss Anna Schneider, 7731 Langley avenue, the cashier. A half hour later the two men stopped at the Harvard theater, 6312 Harvard avenue, and while his companion waited in the car, the gunman took $25 from the cashier, Miss Ann Lubes, 7526 Eberhardt avenue.

BOOK SELLER ROBBED BY BOY HE LIKED BEST

Henry Liberacki, 50 years old, keeps a book store at 2859 West 24th place, just around the corner from the Harrison High school. His shop has been a rendezvous for Harrison boys since the school was built. The boy he esteemed most was James Vanek, 17 years old, 2626 West 23d place, who was graduated with honors last June and started his professional studies at Chicago Technical college in the fall.

Yesterday afternoon Liberacki locked his store and went to a movie. While he was away some one jimmied the rear door and was filling his pockets with cash and fountain pens when the upstairs tenant, Joseph Strek, entered and caught the thief. It was Jimmie Vanek.

Liberacki was sad at the Lawndale police station last night as he identified the boy and signed a complaint against him.

MILD WEATHER WITH SNOW IS FORECAST TODAY

The moderate cold wave which sent the temperature down to zero in Chicago and to 5 or 6 below in the suburbs early yesterday moved eastward during the forenoon.

In its wake came a snowfall that gave promise of lasting through this morning. Flakes began to fall in Chicago as the mercury climbed to 14 degrees in midafternoon. At 6 p. m. the temperature had reached 20.

The weather forecaster, C. A. Donnel, predicted the temperature would not go below 14 degrees all night, with a rise to 25 or 28 degrees today.

Chicago Broke, London Gives Us a Razzing

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 27.—[Monday.]—The press has been supremely Chicago conscious ever since "Big Bill" Thompson loomed on the city's horizon and the financial troubles of Chicago today are attracting no less attention than yesterday's crime stories and day before yesterday's attacks on King George. City finances were the inspiration for an article on Chicago filling a column in this morning's Daily Telegraph, in which due credit is given the city's fine boulevards, lake front development, and new opera house, but just the same it was pointed out that "Chicago news always refers to corruption or crime."

Giving the amount of Chicago's "bankruptcy," the Telegraph comments that "on such a magnificent scale as this, it is the sort of news that can come only from Chicago. There is but one simple explanation of it—political graft. Nowhere has there been graft to such a fantastic extent as in the metropolis of the middle west."

"Chicago's Warning to World."

"In contemplating Chicago, all the rest of America has a comforting glow of virtue," the article continues. "It is a fact that when the business men of other cities go to Chicago their wives feel somewhat anxious."

"Chicago is universally regarded as a warning and as a menace and as the home of mass corruption and organized crime. Big Bill Thompson is a by-word all over the Union and in thinking of the risks on Chicago's streets and of its terrible gang wars, with fantastic liquor profits as a prize, every other city feels pretty good."

"Boss" Tweed's reign of graft in New York was nothing compared with the effect of Thompson's rule on Chicago, the Telegraph continues.

Refers to Days of Nero.

"It may be that April will see another clean up and that Big Bill will not be mayor in 1933," the article says. "But he may win again, for it is certain that within the civic magnificence of the world's youngest metropolis, there will still be flourishing the greatest and best organized system of crime, vice and corruption that the world has ever seen, not even excepting the spacious days of Nero."

Baby Dies of Burns; Crib Set on Fire by Brother

Agnes Kelly, 15 month old daughter of Mrs. Mary Kelly, 2234 23d place, who was burned on Saturday when her 3 year old brother, William, set fire to her crib while playing with matches, died last night in St. Anthony's hospital.

WOMAN VICTIM OF MYSTERIOUS ACID ATTACK

Miss Bertha St. Claire, 40 years old, 27 East Bellevue place, was burned severely last night when an unidentified, elderly man threw mustard oil into her face as she was walking along Cass street near Erie. Miss St. Claire was taken to the Henrotin hospital where specialists were called in an effort to prevent the oil from scarring her face.

Miss St. Claire, who is owner of the Mimeograph bureau in the Capitol building, was on her way home from visiting friends when the man suddenly stepped out of the shadows and threw the oil at her. She could offer no reason for the attack and said she could not identify the man. Her screams attracted Frederick Chellgren, 3312 Clifton avenue, a taxicab driver, who took her to the hospital.

Drys Fatally Shoot Man as He Flees from Still

Texarkana, Ark., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Oscar Call, 26, of Garland City, was fatally shot during a raid on a large whisky still about 15 miles south of Lewisville, early today. He died in a hospital tonight.

Call, who was found in a dying condition in a house near the still several hours after the raid, was said by Sheriff R. H. Duty of Lafayette county to have been shot when he fled from the still with two other men under a volley from the guns of the raiders. The two men with Call had not been captured tonight.

GANG ARRESTED AS TERRORISTS OF NORTH SIDE

Asst. State's Atty. Is Questioned.

Assistant State's Attorney Harry Busch was questioned at the detective bureau early this morning and twenty-two other persons were in custody after Chief of Detectives Stege and Chief Investigator Patrick Roche of the state's attorney's office had sprung a trap designed to clear up a long calendar of robberies and crimes of violence. Among the prisoners were a number of women.

Busch, a political leader in the 42d ward, was taken to the detective bureau on orders by Stege and Roche. According to Stege, the assistant prosecutor had been overheard in several conversations with Thomas Abbott, reputed head of a robbery and narcotic gang. Abbott was also in custody.

Women Among Prisoners.

Abbott and his wife, Lillian, were taken from their apartment at 619 Melrose avenue. At 844 Leland avenue Jimmie Houston, alias Emmerman, his wife, a man called Friday, and six others were taken. Other prisoners came from 1117 North Dearborn street.

The arrests were made as the result of the robbery on Jan. 6 of the home of Charles M. Richter, 1418 Lake Shore avenue, where gems valued at $25,000 were taken. Several suspects were taken after the holdup but were not identified.

Stege and Roche were certain that Abbott, known as a dealer in narcotics, and his companions were involved. Abbott and Willie Francisce, who was among last night's prisoners, were arrested following the robbery, but were later released. Then their home telephone was connected with a police wire and the police, according to Stege, heard Mrs. Abbott call Assistant State's Attorney Busch, telling him "Tommy and Willie are pinched."

Phone Conversation Told.

According to the police, Busch replied that there was no cause to worry, that "Roche is a big, dumb Irishman who could make a lot of money but didn't know how." The prosecutor was also alleged to have claimed to know everything going on in Roche's office.

Other calls came from another man, and they were traced to a poolroom at 944 North Wells street, owned by Lollie Nelson. From what conversations were reported, Roche said he believed the gang committed twenty-five or fifty robberies in the last few months and were planning to go to Detroit last night on a "$20,000 job."

Says Prosecutor Telephoned.

Last night, while the police were in Abbott's home, Stege said, a call came from a man who said he was Busch. Stege invited him over, but the caller stopped talking at once, Stege said.

Later Stege had one of his aids call Busch's home and say, "Tommy and Willie are pinched. Can you take care of them?"

According to Stege the reply was: "I can't do a thing. I'm in a bad spot myself."

Some of Others Seized.

Among the others held at the detective bureau were Dave Rose and Mike Hoffman of the Lurbana hotel, 1232 North La Salle street; Nicholas Knaub, Allen Sweiander, William Ward, Betty Thorn, Frances Sterling, Marjorie Jackson, and Evelyn Emmerson.

At the home of Houston, who was discovered to have been in communication with Abbott, four revolvers and a sawed off shotgun were found. In the cushion of Houston's automobile a zipperlike arrangement made it possible to pull a corner of the cushion open and to reach a revolver kept there.

Several other members of the gang were sought, among them a man named Eddie Scholz, who was reported to have been the one who made the telephone calss at the Nelson poolroom.

Raids Planned for Saturday.

Last night's captures were planned for Saturday night. Until early Sunday morning squads of policemen lay in wait for the members of the gang after intercepted telephone messages had indicated that a near north side hotel was to be robbed. The police had orders to shoot on sight when the members of the gang emerged from their rendezvous.

The robbery at the home of Mr. Richter, who is vice president of the Consolidated Magazines corporation, was committed by five men. They entered the gold coast home during the dinner hour, held up Mr. Richter, his wife, and four servants, and walked out with the jewels.

Eielson Dead in Arctic; Scan Snow for Body

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Flyers and a dog team tonight are searching a bleak, snow covered district of Siberia for the bodies of Carl Ben Eielson, hero of many arctic flights, and his mechanic, Earl Borland.

Eielson's plane, with its cabin split wide open and wreckage strewn over a wide area, was found yesterday on the coast of Siberia, 90 miles east of North Cape, the ice bound steamer Nanuk radioed the Seattle Times today.

Aviators Rush to Scene.

Pilots Joe Crosson and Harold Gillam, carrying a representative of Gostorg, a Russian trading agency, and a sailor from the Nanuk, took off from North Cape at 10 o'clock this morning. Seven hours earlier dog teams were sent out from the Nanuk.

The aviators, who discovered the plane while making exploratory flights from their base at the Nanuk, planned to make a further search of the wreckage and of snowdrifts, which all but obscured the broken parts of the plane, for Eielson and Borland. Crosson and Gillam expressed convictions after viewing the demolished plane, that both Eielson and Borland, who have been missing since Nov. 9, were instantly killed when their plane crashed.

Motor Torn from Plane.

The motor was torn from the fuselage of the plane, testifying to the violence of the impact of the ship with the earth.

Provisions in the plane were untouched. The door of the cabin was jammed and a slab of bacon fell out when Crosson and Gillam explored the wreck.

The scene of the wreck is in the Amguyema river valley, the region where native reindeer herders reported they heard a plane circling on Nov. 9, the day Eielson disappeared on a flight from Teller, Alaska, to the Nanuk at North Cape.

Believed Instantly Killed.

Crosson and Gillam said they were convinced Eielson and Borland were instantly killed. The motor had been flung 100 feet from the cabin. The left wing was undamaged, but the right wing was demolished and the tail was broken off.

Crosson had flown over the region before, but had not been able to see the wreckage because of low visibility. Yesterday he took off about 9:30 a. m. and had flown about an hour and a half when he found the plane.

Eielson's plane had been headed southeast when it struck. Crosson said he did not think Eielson was attempting to land when the crash came. The wreckage was about ten miles inland on what Crosson believed was a small island in a lagoon.

Flyer's Wife Calm at News.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The calm with which Mrs. Irene Borland, wife of Earl Borland, has borne the strain of the more than two and one-half months' waiting while the Siberian wastes held secret the fate of her husband remained unbroken today. She was informed in a radio message from Pilot Harold Gillam that the Eielson plane was found wrecked near North Cape, Siberia.

"Crosson and Harold will give me the truth tomorrow," she said.

Mrs. Borland had lived here with her two children since her husband was employed as a mechanic for the Alaska Airways, Inc. The company had contracted to transport passengers and furs from the fur trading ship Nanuk, icebound at North Cape, to Nome. They had made one round trip and were attempting a second trip on Nov. 9 when lost. Borland had intended to return to the States next spring to begin preparing for a pilot's license.

U. S. Delegates Face First Test Today.

Naval Dickerings

Correspondents of the Tribune reported the following developments yesterday in the five power naval reduction conference in London:

Mr. Henning finds U. S. delegates confident they will win the first clash over their demand that limitation of cruisers be considered before taking up any other classes of warships.

Mr. Steele tells of Secretary Stimson's visit with Prime Minister MacDonald, at which the program for the conference was discussed.

Mr. Wales reveals the extensive social program arranged for the American delegates and their wives.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The American delegation, it was learned tonight, is supremely confident of winning a decisive victory in the contest over the program for the five power naval conference. Chiefs of all delegations meet tomorrow for the first showing of their hands. All eyes are on this preliminary maneuvering, the outcome of which will reveal the capacity of Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson for diplomacy in international conferences.

Mr. Stimson aims to procure the placing of the cruiser limitation at the head of the limitation agenda, or at least in a position for consideration and settlement prior to the consideration of the question of reduction of battleship fleets.

Mr. Stimson's strategy is planned to checkmate the clearly disclosed aim of Great Britain and other powers to reduce the strength of capital ships, which are more necessary to America than to them, while retaining or even increasing the strength of cruisers, which are more useful to them than to the United States.

A 100 to 1 Chance.

If Great Britain is able to procure an agreement to reduce capital ships prior to consideration of the cruiser question, the chances are 100 to 1 there will be no reduction at this conference except of battleships, just as the tumbling of Charles Evans Hughes into a similar British trap at the Washington conference resulted in no limitation except of capital ships, which was in consonance with the original British aim to encompass the scrapping of the new American navy in the course of construction in 1921.

The British policy is the same today as then, and in the hands of statesmen no less able and gifted in persuasive public presentation of their thesis than Lord Arthur James Balfour, who won his earldom from the grateful monarchy for Great Britain's second Trafalgar, in which he "sank" the new American navy without firing a single shot and preserved his nation's mastery of the seas.

Stimson Realizes Situation.

But if Great Britain is up to the same old tricks, there is abundant evidence that the American delegation is determined not to be taken in by them this time. Mr. Stimson's moves, up to date, indicate that he realizes America holds the potential whip-hand in this conference, and is therefore in a position to force that general reduction in all classes of warships upon which President Hoover is bent.

America, needing a strong battleship fleet more than Great Britain, because of its lack of outlying naval bases, and being able to financially outbuild other nations in battleships, is in a position to compel concessions to American demands with an actual reduction of British cruiser strength, now the greatest in the world, under penalty of refusal that America otherwise will not agree to a battleship reduction. America can win this argument if its delegation stands pat on its insistence.

Members of the American delegation refused to discuss the basis for their confidence in winning the initial round of parley negotiations by procuring the priority consideration of cruiser to battleship reduction. Presumably the foundation for this confidence is the support for the American contention Mr. Stimson has won from other delegations, much as the French, Japanese, and Italians incline to side with Great Britain by favoring drastic reduction and eventual abolition of capital ships.

That there is room for such give and take in the bargaining is indicated by the differing aspirations of the various delegations as to the agenda. France wants the conference to settle the method of limitation before proceeding with the limitation. If France has its way the limitation method will be placed first on the agenda, thus requiring the conference to decide, first of all, whether the limitation is to be made by global tonnage or by categories, or by some compromise of these two extremes, to which France has already consented in principle.

While Mr. Stimson is proceeding in the preliminary maneuvers along the line dictated by the interests of the United States, and, with a wariness, born of the unfortunate experience of America in the Washington conference fizzle, the American delegation's mode of public presentation of its cause arouses apprehension over the final outcome.

British Plea Plausible.

The British have made a plausible plea for a reduction in the number and tonnage of battleships as a means of accomplishing the greatest economy in the expense of national defense. At the same time the British dwell on the necessity of maintaining a large cruiser fleet to protect the sea lanes, over which are borne cargoes of food and other necessities of life for inhabitants of the British Isles.

One of the finest examples of British talent for lending solemn impressiveness to the platitudinous argument was Mr. MacDonald's address to the last plenary session of the conference, when he said:

"The British government's problem is to satisfy the will to live, which lays at the foundation of our naval problem."

As if the will to live was not the fundamental naval problem of every power represented at the conference! But Great Britain's adroit prime minister, with that solemnity and impressiveness for which British statesmanship is famed, threw this profound observation into the discussion to explain why Great Britain, while yielding to no one in ardor for disarmament, cannot be expected to disarm too much.

Silent on American Position.

That this sort of propaganda has won great sympathy for Great Britain in America is apparent from the reaction of American newspapers and public men. On the other hand neither the American delegation nor the Hoover administration have explained the peculiar position of the United States, nor shown up the speciousness of the British argument that a big cruiser fleet is necessary.

The fact is that Great Britain would not be cut off from its food supply in time of war. If involved in an European war, the British Isles would be supplied with food from America. If involved in a war with United States, Great Britain would have unhampered access to European food supplies. Likewise, America's greater need for battleships than Great Britain's goes unexplained by the American government.

With 27 outlying naval bases, the British navy is never far from fuel, repairs and supplies. With only seven outlying bases and only three of these properly equipped, America is compelled to make its battleship fleet a floating naval base. The American fleet must be equipped to go far from the home shores, carrying with it, under battleship protection, fuel, repair and supply ships ready to render all assistance to the fleet that the British fleet obtains from its land bases. For this reason it is contrary to the national interest of America to reduce the battleship fleet to the extent proposed by Great Britain.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—A Sunday calm overshadowed the five power conference today. Prime Minister MacDonald was at Chequers, where he entertained dominion delegates, and American Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson was at Stanmore, where he had Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, and Hugh S. Gibson, ambassador to Belgium, as his guests.

In the morning Mr. Stimson attended services in the Stanmore parish church and in the afternoon motored to Chequers, where he had tea with Mr. MacDonald and, presumably, talked over the tentative agenda which will be discussed by the "big five" when they meet tomorrow morning at 10 Downing street.

Keep Away from Figures.

A tentative compromise by the French of adopting categorical limitation within the global figures with a modification, giving the right to a limited transfer of tonnage from one category to another, is approved by the British. The American attitude is not yet clear, although it is assumed that America will agree, as this principle is slightly different in form from that first suggested by Admiral Hilary P. Jones at Geneva. It is expected this week's work will straighten out these preliminaries and the conference will be able to open discussion of actual limitation.

As yet no figures have been mentioned. Every effort is being made to avoid mentioning them, as Mr. MacDonald has taken the attitude that some measure of a general agreement in principle must be reached before it is possible to discuss details.

All delegations profess themselves as pleased with last week's progress. They argue that public impatience at the appearance that nothing was done is not justifiable. They say the time apparently wasted now will be saved later on, when the delegates begin to discuss details with a better understanding of each other's general viewpoint. It is not expected that this stage will be reached for at least another week.

FRANCE REVISES PLANS

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Hugh S. Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium, today called at the French naval headquarters and held an hour's conversation with Count Rene Massigli, Premier Tardieu's chief expert, relative to the agenda question tomorrow. The ambassador and the French declined to comment after the visit.

Premier Tardieu tonight, however, indicated that a compromise may be reached as to whether capital ships or cruisers will be discussed first. He suggested that subcommittees begin examination of all classes simultaneously and relegation chiefs withhold final decisions on any specific category until the several results of the other types and problems are nearing solution.

The new revised French platform, which will be offered at the executive meeting tomorrow, suggests the classification of five categories of warships: first, capital ships; second, aircraft carriers; third, surface craft of 10,000 tons; fourth, all other surface craft; fifth, submarines.

Tardieu Yields to British.

Under British pressure Premier Tardieu yielded to differentiating between maximum size cruisers, carrying eight inch guns and smaller types, carrying six inch guns, but insisted on lumping light cruisers with destroyers on the ground that the latest models of flotilla leaders could be developed into cruisers.

Premier Tardieu no longer insists on the right to transfer tonnage from one category to another, but instead only to shift tonnage from any category to smaller units.

Premier Tardieu is standing pat for the fixation of global tonnage before entering into details of the strength of the various categories. France intends to devote all its capital ship allowance into other classes, and with eight 10,000 ton cruisers built or building, two more appropriated for, and others projected, will bring it perilously near a parity with Great Britain if Prime Minister MacDonald stands by the maximum of 15 cruisers accepted at Washington.

Coupled with Italy's modest cruiser program, this already shatters the traditional British policy of maintaining a fleet equal to the strength of any two European powers, without counting Germany's projected new navy.

Naval Delegates to Dine on Lord Mayor's Gold Plates

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The ultra-society campaign to entertain and impress the delegates to the naval conference and their wives and families begins in earnest this coming week with a series of teas, musicales, and receptions for the women in the afternoons while their husbands are busy sinking ships and such evenings as their spouses attend numerous dinners and banquets.

Tomorrow Mrs. A. V. Alexander, wife of the first lord of the admiralty, entertains the women of the various delegations at a tea in the Admiralty house, whose "fish furniture" is modeled in the shape of dolphins.

Tuesday Mrs. Charles G. Dawes, wife of the American ambassador, and Isabel MacDonald, daughter of the prime minister, are giving dinners to the wives of the delegates while their husbands attend the Pilgrims' banquet. Afterwards Isabel is taking her guests to the American embassy where a private movie show has been arranged.

Will Sup Off Gold Plate.

Wednesday the lady mayoress—the wife of the lord mayor of London—entertains the gentlemen and their wives at a musicale in stately, historic Mansion house. The delegates must attend wearing high hats, spats and frock coats.

The guests will be received in the Egyptian gold and cream hall and for the special occasion a good deal of the city of London's gold plate will be seen at the tea tables. For many years the 22 carat gold plate was hung on the walls for exhibition, but recently it was taken down for practical use in state affairs.

There are salt and pepper shakers, plates, saucers, huge salvers for sandwiches and cakes, as well as teapots, cream pitchers, sugar bowls and knives, forks, and spoons made of heavy gold and bearing the marks of some of the most ancient goldsmiths in London.

Every piece is counted and checked as used, and luxuriously liveried flunkeys and waiters in highly decorated coats, plush pants, silk stockings, and silver buckled pumps are responsible for every article they use in serving.

The marquess and marchioness of Londonderry are arranging a formal reception the week after next at Londonderry house, Park lane, in honor of the conference delegates.

A Home of Tiaras.

Lady Londonderry, a tall, beautiful, witty hostess, with the regal carriage of a queen, is the possessor of some of the most famous heirloom diamonds and emeralds in the United Kingdom. Here, on the eve of parliament receptions for the Conservative party, is one of the few occasions when tiaras appear in abundance, "with stately titled ladies putting on everything but the kitchen stove. She and Lord Londonderry frequently entertain Queen Victoria of Spain, Princess Mary, the countess of Harewood, the duke and duchess of York and the prince of Wales and his brothers.

The reception will take place in the long ballroom of Londonderry house, hung with family portraits and illuminated with electric lamps concealed in alabaster bowls along the walls. Some of the tapestry covered chairs were embroidered by disabled ex-soldiers and sailors.

FASCIST CAUSE IN LITHUANIA DEAD, FOES DECLARE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KOVNO, Jan. 26.—The Lietuvas Aidas, the official newspaper of the Lithuanian government, which for more than two years praised the policies of Prof. Augustinas Waldemaras, the recently deposed dictator, now reports that he failed to establish a Fascist form of government in Lithuania because he lacked so many of the qualities of Benito Mussolini. This paper also says that Fascism chance in Lithuania is lost.

The Lietuvas Aidas, acting under the orders of Prof. Waldemaras' successor, Premier Jonas Tubelis, has been publishing frequent attacks against the dictator, who still has a strong following among the youth of the nation.

Prof. Waldemaras was recently evicted from his home by the government. He is now engaged in writing a book concerning the Memel problem, the territory between Lithuania and East Prussia, which is under control of the allied powers in accordance with the terms of the Versailles treaty.

PARENTS CHARGE RAILROAD PERIL AT NEW SCHOOL

150 Children Must Cross Sixteen Tracks.

Parents of 150 school children yesterday joined in a protest against an order of the board of education under which the children must pass an unprotected railroad crossing at Mobile avenue, near Dickens street, in order to attend the new Burbank Junior High school. There are sixteen tracks at the crossing, but no gates.

Their School Is Changed.

The children have been attending the seventh and eighth grades in the Joseph Leavitt school at Bloomingdale and Mobile avenues. The order makes it necessary for them to attend the Burbank school three blocks north, and the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad crosses the route which the children must take.

"It will be dangerous to send those children along this route" declared Joe J. Newlove, 1745 North McVicker avenue, one of the protesting parents. "There are four spur tracks, nine switch tracks, and three tracks for through trains. The railroad has promised to install a watchman there, but what good can one watchman do to protect 150 children crossing the many tracks four times daily?

Charges Politics in Site.

"Moreover, there are no sidewalks there, and the children must walk in the middle of the street, further exposed to the danger of automobiles. We complained to the principal of the school, William Anderson, and he said there was no danger in the situation. Then we wrote a letter to Mr. Caldwell, president of the board of education, but received no reply."

BYRD CONFIDENT OF LEAVING ICE PACK SOON--RADIO

Long Beach, Cal., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Don Wallace, amateur operator of radio station W6AM here, said he was in touch with the Byrd expedition near the south pole between 1 and 2 o'clock this morning and that the expedition is showing no concern over the possibility of being icebound through the winter.

Informed by Mr. Wallace of newspaper reports that there was some alarm felt in America for the expedition and that other nations had been asked to aid in reaching the group near the south pole, the operator answered:

"Much ado about nothing. We expect to be out of cold storage soon. Evidently there is more worrying in the United States than here at the pole. We are taking all precautions. It is true we are not alarmed."

SCHOOL BOARD FACES COAL BILL SHOWDOWN

Owe $480,000; Seek to Keep Buying.

istration is unusually anxious to keep the school rooms heated.

The county government owes for more than a year's coal at present. This year the county board appropriated $360,000 for light, heat, and power. Its bills for coal alone outstanding totaled $358,634 at the end of its fiscal year, which was last Nov. 30. Since that time the county has added about $60,000 to its coal debt.

Of its last year's bills the county owes $116,984 for coal delivered to the county hospital. All but $806 of that amount is due the Consumers company. This is the same concern which it is estimated the board of education owes about $323,000. The company has asked President Caldwell when he will pay, and Caldwell is to give his reply today.

Last year's unpaid coal bill at the Oak Forest infirmary of the county totals $46,550 and eight coal dealers are carrying the county for $66,100 worth of coal distributed through the welfare bureau.

Has Claim Against City.

The county government does not heat either the courthouse or the jail and Criminal Court building. It buys this heat from the city, which has a claim against the county for approximately $130,000 to compensate for this service.

The city is a large coal user in operating its water pumping stations, but cash with which to pay for the fuel is obtained from the water users. There is ample cash with which to buy this fuel. For other heating purposes the city is cramped for cash. One member of the council finance committee said that he will ask at the next meeting for a statement of the city's unpaid coal bills.

SISTER CAUSES YOUTH'S ARREST TO REFORM HIM

Because his sister feared that he was becoming a criminal, Charles Yakal, 18 years old, 4544 Christiana avenue, was being held yesterday with three other youths on a charge of breaking into the office of the Western Union Telegraph company at 2641 Milwaukee avenue. The boy's sister, Marie Yakal, told the police he and his companions had broken into the office three times, once stealing a bicycle. Those arrested with Yakal are Angelo Ferraro, 19 years old, 2500 Linden place; Ferraro's brother, Louis, 16, and William Rinkowski, 18 years old, 2501 North Monticello avenue.

OWNER OF STORES ROBBED.

Solomon Schnitz, owner of clothing stores at 207 East 43d street and 1505 East 63d street, was robbed of $343 early yesterday by two men who stopped him at 53d street and Maryland avenue, as he was on his way to his home at 5400 Ingleside avenue.

U. S. ANTI-RUM FLEET FIGURES IN LONDON PARLEY

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 26.—It would not be fair to say the American anti-rum fleet constitutes a major problem at the London naval conference, yet it is a problem. In British official navy lists this year America is credited with 309 destroyers.

But this number includes 25 assigned to prohibition duty. The Americans argue these ought not to be counted, because they are not on duty for the navy department.

The seriousness of the issue created for the American delegation may be shown by the fact it never knows when prohibition officials may wish more destroyers, which places upon our delegates the task of providing more, unless our combatant strength in destroyers is to be weakened in order to increase the anti-rum squadron.

But it is more than that. The rum chasing destroyers have been so busy they are reaching the limit of usefulness, American experts say, and must soon be replaced. If replaced, it would be out of our reserve of destroyers, on which the admirals of other fleets have their eyes.

CITY HALL CREW WOULD DO OWN TAX COLLECTING

Caldwell Plans Committee to Oust Strawn's.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The city administration started to make faces yesterday at the Strawn citizens' committee. The mayor's crowd desires to evade the thumbscrews which the Strawn committee has announced its intention of placing on reckless spending, waste, and extravagance in the city's financial plight.

H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the school board, was the first one to turn up his nose at the Strawn committee. He came out with a plan to form a new committee to deal with the situation. He would have it supersede the Strawn committee, according to the written outline he gave out.

Wants Simpson as Head.

This outline urges James Simpson, head of Marshall Field & Co., as the chairman of the new committee. Mr. Simpson happens to be a member of the Strawn committee. He did not know in advance that Caldwell had selected him. When informed of Caldwell's plan, Mr. Simpson said he had no statement to make at the moment. He indicated that he would probably comment today after he has had time to consider the proposition.

Four members of the proposed committee would be Caldwell, President Elmore of the sanitary district, President Cermak of the county board, and Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the council finance committee.

Mr. Elmore has said that he approves heartily of the Strawn committee, which Caldwell is seeking to displace.

Cermak Backs Strawn.

Mr. Cermak has announced that he "will be glad to go along with the Strawn committee 100 per cent."

Ald. Clark has said that "the city must coöperate with the Strawn committee."

Caldwell also proposes to have four private citizens on his committee. They would be appointed by the chairman, he says, but their identity has not been revealed. None of them, however, as Caldwell described them, would be likely to be certain members of the Strawn committee, who believe "there is graft and corruption in public offices."

One objection of Caldwell to the Strawn committee is that it is composed of private citizens. He opines that if the Strawn group handles the disposition of its proposed pool of perhaps $20,000,000 to grant emergency relief to the most urgent of public services, the public may distrust public officials. He said that this lack of public confidence he regards as detrimental.

Believe Waste Responsible.

Members of the Strawn committee believe that padded pay rolls and other waste contributed to the city's financial difficulties. They want to be certain that not a dollar of the $20,000,000 pool shall be wasted. Their plan is that three members of the pool shall decide where the money shall be spent and how much. They will not trust public officials to distribute the money as they see fit.

In addition, before the $20,000,000 is handed out, the Strawn committee insists upon full coöperation from public officials. That includes active aid in getting new laws which will curb excessive appropriations and lavish expenditures so that there cannot be a recurrence of present conditions.

Caldwell Wants Veto.

Caldwell's suggestion is that his committee shall have a veto power over expenditures of the $20,000,000 to be raised by the Strawn committee. This is the way Caldwell puts it in his prospectus.

"No expenditure of funds now offered by the Strawn committee should be made for any purpose without the recommendation of this [Caldwell plan] committee."

Caldwell's statement says that the board of education stands ready to coöperate 100 per cent with the above program."

Outline of Caldwell Plan.

His statement outlines the function of his proposed committee as follows:

"This committee would obtain at once audited statements of finances of each of the four bodies—city, county, schools, and drainage district. It should receive detailed statements of pay rolls and other obligations.

"By agreement, no information or any facts possessed by these bodies individually should be withheld from this committee. The actual financial requirements of each should be studied with an idea of eliminating every nonessential activity and waste and reorganizing each body on a basis of business efficiency.

"The committee should immediately appoint a group of legislative experts to observe and advise the committee. Their assignment should include the preparation of a legislative program designed to modernize the obsolete tax laws and place proper safeguards around tax spending bodies, in order to prevent future waste and extravagance with public funds."

That is almost an exact duplicate of the plan of the Strawn committee, which has its legislative plan about ready.

Among the advantages claimed by Mr. Caldwell for his committee are the following:

"It should command the respect and confidence of all citizens.

"There would be eliminated any suspicion of either group of the other as to their motives, and only by laying all cards on the table can there be any hope for acceptable relief.

"The governor has rightfully demanded that a program similar to the above be carried out before he will call a special session of the legislature."

"Has Mayor Thompson approved of your program?" Caldwell was asked.

Says Mayor Will Approve.

"No, he has not seen it," he answered.

"Will he be opposed to it?"

"No, he will approve of a plan of this kind."

"Isn't your plan much like the Strawn plan?"

"It is different. There are public officials on my suggested committee."

"Why a new committee of the same kind?"

"The public officials will never get together with Strawn," Caldwell replied. "They will not stand for creating a lack of confidence in the elected officials. It is improper that a public distrust of public officials should be built up. I question whether Strawn is the right man to be directing his committee and some of its members believe there is graft and corruption among public bodies. All those things prevent coöperation."

Expect Committee to Balk.

Although Mr. Strawn is in the east until next Wednesday, it can be said on authority of another member that it is highly improbable that his committee will turn over any part of the $20,000,000 pool for the Caldwell committee to spend, or will submit to a veto power of that committee.

"This Caldwell scheme," said the Strawn committeeman, "only retards and delays emergency relief, later temporary relief, and legislative curbs which will give permanent relief. It is meddlesome to say the least. It has more advantages as politics than as an effort to get out of the mire.

"I am not authorized to speak for our committee, but that is my personal view. I am glad that the opposition got out in the open so that every one may see who will block progress. We will have to see what we can do without the blockaders."

Ald. Clark said yesterday it was his view that if the Strawn committee digs up the $20,000,000 its members should decide how it shall be spent.

William H. Malone, chairman of the state tax commission, said that he will write a letter today to Mr. Strawn in which he will say that the plight of the city is not due to the reassessment, but to the "wastefulness of the demagogue and his associates."

POLICE GUARD BAKER WHO GETS DEATH THREAT

A police guard was established last night over the bakery of William Wick, 237 West 47th street, after he had been threatened with death if he prosecutes three men whom he identified on Saturday night as bandits. Wick told the Stockyards police that two men entered his place last night and, displaying revolvers, told him that he would be "bumped off" if he appeared in court.

Wick was robbed of $16 on Saturday afternoon by three men who leaped from an automobile at 33d street and Wentworth avenue and covered him with guns. Later in the day the police arrested Harry Olson, 2808 Archer avenue; Phil O'Connor, 3519 Congress street, and Frank Russo, 3235 Wentworth avenue, and Wick identified them as the robbers. They are to be arraigned today in Felony court.

WOMAN KILLED ON WAY TO AUTO SHOW IN CHICAGO

Frankfort, Ind., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Harold Howard was killed, and her husband, vice president of the Martin-Parry company of Indianapolis, was seriously injured today when their automobile was struck by a train near Colfax, Ind., southwest of here. The couple was driving to Chicago to attend the automobile show.

Howard came to Indianapolis several months ago from York, Pa. He formerly was advertising manager of a wire wheel corporation at Buffalo, N. Y.

Children Draw Rum Sleds on Ice on Canadian Border

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Rum runners are enlisting children with sleds to transport liquor across the river and lake ice. At Prescott several boys, all under 12 years of age, escaped American border patrolmen on the water front when they were discovered hauling bags of beer from the city dock at Ogdensburg to waiting automobiles. Some of the boys were dragging the bags, while others were drawing them on sleds.

BODY FOUND ON TRACKS.

The body of a man tentatively identified by a $1,000 cashier's check in his pocket as Henry Puth, 45 years old, a gardener of Bensonville, was found on the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad tracks west of Lake Forest yesterday. Lake county deputy sheriffs believe he was run over by a train.

SCHOOL HEADS GIVE VIEWS ON THEIR DILEMMA

Five Members of Board Asked for Suggestions.

While H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the board of education, was offering a plan as an attempted solution of the local government's financial plight, five of the nine school trustees were asked yesterday to give their views on the school board's troubles. Four trustees could not be reached.

Each trustee was asked the following question:

"Have you any ideas, opinions or suggestions regarding the school situation which you believe might be helpful in the present crisis?" The following answers are quoted as they were given:

James A. Hemingway — Really, I would rather not mention anything on that subject until I have a chance to get together with the other trustees and discuss matters. We haven't done that as yet, and the teachers haven't expressed themselves yet as to what they want. If they want to be paid in scrip [I speak only for myself, of course] we'll give it to them, we'll accommodate them.

Later Mr. Hemingway called back to add the following: "I was eating dinner when the question was asked the first time and I was taken by surprise. I want to say now that I don't favor closing the schools under any circumstances. What good would it do? It would not be wise to turn out the children into the streets at this time of the year. If the teachers have any civic pride, they will carry on to the last ditch. We ought to find out what the teachers think about scrip."

James Mullenbach—I just got back from the country this morning and I haven't any ideas on the subject. I know only what I saw in the papers this morning. I can't give you any words of wisdom on the subject.

John A. English—The thing to do is to raise the revenue. The schools can't operate without revenue. I'm not sure that tax warrants can't be sold, and, of course, we can't pay the teachers until we get some money. Or we might get some relief from the legislature. The whole thing lies in the payment of taxes. If people would pay their taxes there would be no trouble. But I think all this has been said before.

Mr. English also called back later to add: "It might be possible to sell tax warrants over the counter to the people of Chicago. I have faith in the people of Chicago and if they were given a complete financial statement of present conditions, I believe they would buy the warrants as they buy bonds."

Oscar Durante—Nothing has been decided yet, has there? I couldn't say anything now. We may meet again tomorrow and it wouldn't do for me to say anything. It wouldn't be safe. It wouldn't be ethical. I would rather wait till we meet again.

Theophilus Schmid — I haven't any ideas. I don't care to express myself. We haven't had a meeting for several days but there probably will be a meeting tomorrow or the next day. Maybe we'll take some action then, but I don't want to talk about it now.

Trustee Carter Blatchford could not be reached, since he had left orders at the board of education that his address and telephone number should be kept secret. Trustee Walter H. Brandenburg's telephone had been disconnected. There was no response to calls at the home of Mrs. W. S. Hefferan and the rooms of Trustee Lewis E. Myers in the Blackstone hotel.

LONDON NEWSPAPER RENEWS ATTACK ON U. S. LAWS ON ALIENS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Continuing the campaign against the alleged brutal treatment by U. S. officials of British subjects who have overstayed their time in America, the Sunday Chronicle today goes to unusual length in addressing an open letter on the front page to Foreign Minister Arthur Henderson.

The paper demands that the British government take steps to protect its citizens against the "serious violation of the rights of the individual" and "the callous, brutal treatment of men who have not committed a crime."

"THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, one of the most important newspapers in America," the Chronicle continues, "after thanking the Sunday Chronicle for drawing attention to these matters, goes on to urge our own foreign office to make strong representations to Washington."

BISHOP ANDERSON IMPROVES; BLOOD PRESSURE RISES

The first report of an improvement in the condition of the Most Rev. Charles P. Anderson, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church in America and bishop of Chicago, since he was stricken with heart disease last Tuesday was issued yesterday by Dr. Howard Wakefield, his attending physician. Dr. Wakefield said the bishop's blood pressure, which had been dangerously low for several days, rose considerably yesterday.

During the last two nights Bishop Anderson has slept well, an indication that his general condition is better. He has been in bed at his home at 4512 Drexel boulevard since Tuesday, and has been critically ill since Thursday.

Light of Huge Meteorite Seen for Miles in Siberia

CHITA, Siberia, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Reports reached here today that a huge meteorite with a thunderous roar and a dazzling light that extended for many miles yesterday fell into the woods near the Mongolian border.

EXPLAINING WHY TRANSIT FUND IS SO HARD TO FIND

No One Knows How Much of It Is Cash.

One of the questions that crops up repeatedly in Chicago concerns the disposition of the transit fund which totaled $57,175,224 on Dec. 31, 1929. The question is, "How much of the traction fund is in cash and how much is represented by securities?" It was propounded last by a group of northwest side civic clubs which adopted a resolution requesting an audit of the fund.

Many aldermen seem confused when the question is thrown at them by their constituents. Their answers vary from the statement that it is all in cash to one that it is all invested. Financial officers of the city say that the question is unanswerable due to the method of making investments.

Why It's So Puzzling.

The explanation for the inability to account for the condition of the fund follows:

In 1907 the fund was established following the grant of a franchise to the surface lines to operate on city streets. The compensation was fixed at 55 per cent of the net profits of the different surface line companies. Their payments plus interest on the money have accumulated until the total is $57,175,224.

Any investment made with transit money was credited to the transit fund and the interest was placed there. As the investment was credited to the fund an aswer then could easily be given to a question regarding its condition.

In 1918 the corporate fund of the city ran into difficulties. Some of the employes had not been paid and all were demanding wage increases to meet the increased cost of living in war time. War time prohibition had caused the loss to the city annually of $7,000,000 from the sale of saloon licenses.

All Funds Lumped Together.

The legislature authorized the city to invest its special funds, not needed for immediate purposes, including the transit fund in city bonds and tax anticipation warrants or other city securities. The borrowing for corporate purposes from the special funds was restricted somewhat by the fact that enough money had to be left in each fund for use.

On March 14, 1918, the city council passed an ordinance authorizing the city controller and city treasurer to lump all city funds together into an "aggregate" of funds for investment purposes. The money invested was not taken from any special fund but from the total of all, which allowed the aldermen a greater freedom in the amount to be invested.

REDS CLASH WITH NATIONALISTS AT FREE INDIA MEET

Tear Down Flags Hoisted for 'Independence Day.'

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Three hundred communist mill workers rushed the platform at Chowpathy sea face today while a great crowd was holding an Independence day meeting, pulled down the Independence flags and sought to hoist the Red flag in its place.

A disorderly scene followed. Communists denounced Mahatma Gandhi for his "lukewarm congressional program." Eventually the communists were ejected. A number of women seated around the platform, among them the wife of Jawaharlal Nehru, president of the Nationalist congress, were rescued from their precarious position by adherents of their faction.

Prepared for Riots.

This clash was the only serious one reported up to late tonight. British officials had awaited the Independence day celebration with some trepidation and police everywhere had been greatly reinforced as a preventive of trouble.

Huge processions were held here and in New Delhi, Calcutta, Lahore, and Ahmadabad to celebrate Independence day, in accordance with the decision of the all-Indian congress at Lahore last Christmas, but the police had a comparatively easy task in confining the demonstrations to raising the national flag and shouts of "Down with the Union Jack."

Moslems Told to Abstain

At Ahmadabad, a walled city 310 miles north of here, Vallabhai Patel, leader in the Bardoli no tax campaign last year, presided at the ceremony of hoisting the national flag, exhorting his audience to be ready to die for the honor of their ensign. Before the meeting leaflets were distributed urging Mohammedans to abstain from the Independence day celebration, as they had suffered by participating in the noncooperation campaign.

At Bangalore the district magistrate prevented demonstrations. He issued orders yesterday under the Mysore police regulations prohibiting the carrying of weapons, including cudgels, and the collection of stones or other missiles. The order also forbade street speaking and singing.

Bomb Injures 4 Children.

NEW DELHI, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Four children were injured by explosion of a small bomb at the free school in Shrigandha, 50 miles from Poona. The explosion occurred on Friday, but official announcement was made only today.

Irish Cable Gandhi.

DUBLIN, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The acting president of Fianna Fail—Eamonn De Valera's party—today cabled Mahatma Gandhi and the president of the Indian national congress committee at Lahore expressing sympathy for India's struggle for independence.

ENDS LIFE BY HANGING.

The body of Tony Zelis, 70 years old, a laborer, was found yesterday hanging from a rafter in the wash room of a Santa Fe railroad camp at 45th street and Archer avenue, where Zelis lived.

Army of Starlings Peril Washington City at Night

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Ask a native Washingtonian what, in his judgment, is the outstanding issue in the national capital today and his answer would not be prohibition, disarmament, or the tariff. The chances are it would be, "Can we get rid of the starlings?"

Strange as it may seem, it nevertheless is true that for the last three or four months, inspired by a newspaper campaign, the thinkers of Washington, including the city fathers, have been cudgeling their brains over the starling problem, but in vain. It grows more perplexing every day.

Cousin of Blackbird.

It should be explained, for the benefit of outsiders, that the starling is a bird—a noisy and pestiferous bird—a first cousin of the ordinary blackbird, and with all his untidy habits. Not even the bird lovers and humane society enthusiasts hold any brief for him. His only friends, in fact, are the hat and suit cleaners and the automobile washers.

The charge against the starling really would not be so bad if he would spend his nights in the country, but he does not.

Instead, every evening at sunset he comes to town, bringing with him several thousand brothers, sisters, cousins, uncles, and aunts, and the entire flock flutters to its favorite roosting places in the sycamore trees which line Pennsylvania avenue, that historic capitol to White House thoroughfare of which every Washingtonian is proud. And there, all night, the feathered pests cheep and squawk and otherwise make themselves a thorough nuisance.

Pay for Anti-Starling Plan.

What to do? One enterprising newspaper offered $50 for a successful anti-starling plan, and thereupon all Washington began plotting against the unwelcome visitors. Some proposed shotguns; some a gas attack; others poisoned grain, and still others, scarecrows. But it remained for Clifford Lanham, superintendent of trees and parkings in the District of Columbia, to make the first real onslaught.

At his order, dozens of evil smelling smudge pots were hung in the trees around the District building, but the starlings didn't mind them in the least. On the contrary, every now and then a good breeze tilted the buckets and pedestrians beneath were showered with the contents.

Park on Cozy Theater Ledges.

But Mr. Lanham was undismayed. The next day he had the top limbs trimmed off the trees, and when the starlings arrived they found their favorite roosts decapitated. Most of them merely hopped down to the bigger limbs, but part of the tribe betook themselves to the District building eaves and ledges, while a few parked in a cozy theater lobby around the corner. And so the nuisance is worse than ever.

Superintendent Lanham hasn't given up, but he has admitted that he is stumped until he can hatch another scheme. To date, however, neither he nor any of the newspaper contributors have solved the problem. One of the contributors suggested that it may be necessary for congress to take drastic action and pass a law ordering the birds to reform or leave the city.

EX-PUBLISHER TRIES TO END LIFE IN CISTERN

H. P. Sanders, 74 years old, a retired publisher, attempted to commit suicide yesterday by drowning himself in an abandoned cistern in the rear yard of his home at 331 South Euclid avenue, Oak Park. He was found unconscious in four and a half feet of water at the bottom of the well and revived by an inhalator squad, but was reported in a critical condition at his home last night.

A note found in the pocket of his coat said that he had been lonesome and nervous since the death of his wife last summer.

Mr. Sanders' absence from the house was discovered by a caretaker, Arnold C Miller, who went to the garage in search of his employer. As he passed the cistern he saw that several boards had been removed from the cover, and found Mr. Sanders' coat and vest lying at the edge of the open well. While Miller attempted to rescue Sanders his wife, Mrs. Mary Miller, summoned the fire department inhalator squad, with whose aid Miller brought Sanders to the surface.

Sanders was formerly the publisher of the Breeders' Gazette. He retired about eight years ago.

FATHER OF FOUR DIES AS TRAIN CRUSHES AUTO

Des Plaines Crossing Is Scene of Crash.

Four persons died yesterday of injuries suffered in Chicago traffic and another Chicagoan was killed in East Chicago, Ind. The four deaths here increased Cook county's motor toll for 1930 to 45.

Albert Raack, 52 years old, 927 Lee street, Des Plaines, was killed yesterday when he drove his car into the path of an inbound Chicago and North Western passenger train at Pearson street, Des Plaines. The snow falling at the time is believed to have obscured Raack's vision. He was a carpenter employed by the forest preserve system and leaves a widow, three daughters and a son.

News Vendor Killed.

David Atkes, 48 years old, a news vendor of 1251 South Sawyer avenue, died in Mount Sinai hospital of injuries inflicted last Friday by a motorist, Jack Leving, 1938 South Troy street, whose car struck Atkes at 13th street and Kedzie avenue.

Joseph Gregory, 65 years old, a junk dealer of 4315 Wesley terrace, died in the Chicago State hospital of injuries Saturday. He was struck by a bus of the Wilcox Transportation company at 76th avenue and Irving Park boulevard. The bus driver, Lee Van Duzee, was released on a $1,000 bond.

Crushed by Truck; Dies.

Clayton Ayres, 21 years old, 5416 Maryland avenue, died in the Illinois Central hospital of internal injuries suffered Jan. 10 when a delivery truck of the Morgan Grocery store, 1518 East 53d street, crushed him between the rear of the truck and a rear wall of the grocery. The driver, Earl Lewis, 4516 Prairie avenue, is held.

John Wintowski, 40 years old, of Hegewisch, died in St. Catherine's hospital, East Chicago, of a skull fracture suffered when he stepped in front of a car driven by Walter Gall, 3944 Alder street, East Chicago. Gall was held by East Chicago police.

Mrs. Hattie Bunell, 45 years old, a Salvation Army worker living at 4857 Dorchester avenue, suffered a possible fracture of the left leg when she stepped into the side of a car driven by Joseph Bein, 5302 Cornell avenue, at Lake Park avenue and Hyde Park boulevard. Bein took Mrs. Bunell to the Illinois Central hospital. He was not held.

Hunt Cross Eyed Bandit for a Robbery in Loop

A cross eyed bandit was being sought by the police last night for the robbery of Miss Francine Fredericks, 3358 Jackson boulevard, who was held up early yesterday in an orange juice parlor at 70 West Randolph street, of which she is the cashier. The robber took $60 from Miss Fredericks in front of the store, she said.

LIST PROBABLE G. O. P. ENTRIES IN COUNTY RACE

Other Groups Await Choice of Deneen Slate.

Republican candidates for county offices were seeking information yesterday about their probable opponents. The organization headed by United States Senator Deneen was caucusing but did not complete its slatemaking and other Republican factionists were working time.

The county central committee, composed mainly of committeemen allied with Mayor Thompson and presided over by Bernard W. Snow, is not expected to offer a complete slate to the voters but will make indorsements after all entries are in.

Brundage Sponsors Two.

Former Attorney General Edward J. Brundage so far has sponsored but two candidates. Reviewer Charles V. Barrett, now allied with the state administration, has not announced whom he will support and former State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe is said to be interested in but one or two candidates. Fred Lundin is centering his forces on the county treasurership.

Republican ex-service men will indorse a few candidates and several civic groups are supporting candidates who may be put on some of the factional slates.

Candidates Are Listed.

The candidates who survived several elimination movements during the week and who are still tentatively in the race, some being doubtful about which office they will seek, are as follows:

SHERIFF—William Busse [Deneen]; Carter Ames [Thompson and Service Men's group]; Gen. John J. Garrity [People's and Service Men's league]; William H. Feigenbaum [Thompson]; Charles J. Peters [Deneen].

PRESIDENT COUNTY BOARD—Axel Lonnquist [People's]; Arthur F. Albert [Deneen]; Otto Reich [Snow]; William Busse [Deneen].

COUNTY TREASURER — Walter Bacon Lindin]; Howard P. Savage [Service Men's league and possibly Deneen, Snow, Barrett, and Brundage]; Gregory T. Van Meter [Harding and Thompson and possibly Snow]; Harry A. Ash [Rummerson, Barrett, Holstrom, et al.].

ASSESSOR—Charles Krutskoff [Harding, Snow, and Thompson]; Francis L. Boutell [Brundage].

BOARD OF REVIEW — William Weber [Snow]; William Swissler [Independent].

PROBATE JUDGE—William D. Saltiel [Thompson and Snow].

PROBATE CLERK—Louis Nettlehorst [Brundage].

BAILIFF MUNICIPAL COURT—Bernard W. Snow [Snow]; Bernard Keller [Snow]; Harold C. Ridgeway [Snow]; Theodore R. Tiernet [Deneen].

CLERK MUNICIPAL COURT—James A. Sauers [Deneen].

CHIEF JUSTICE MUNICIPAL COURT—Harry Olson [Deneen].

CLERK CRIMINAL COURT—John H. Passmore [Snow and Crowe].

COUNTY JUDGE—William G. Greatman [People's].

COUNTY CLERK—No entrants announced.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS [city]—P. T. Sullivan, Walter H. Schenck, Edmund F. Kassera, Mrs. C. E. Lowenthal, Noble W. Lee, William J. Maresh, J. Louis Guyon, Albert O. Anderson, Louis W. Ferguson [Business Men's and possibly Deneen slate].

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS [country west]—Axel Lonnquist, Mrs. Gertrude C. Lieber, Charles H. Miller, B. J. Brumley [Business Men's and possibly Deneen slate].

SANITARY TRUSTEES—George B. McKibbin, Fletcher M. Durbin, Joshua D'Esposito, Arva Boal, Charles M. Moderwell [Association of Commerce and possibly Deneen]; Roland E. Wilcox, Joseph A. Rhein, William G. Ostmeier [Howard W. Elmore]; Mrs. Bertha Baur [Snow]; Patrick Sullivan [Labor]; R. Wilk O. Rance [nonfactional].

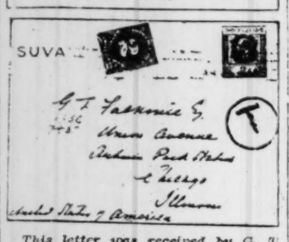
The Deneen people expect to complete their candidate picking today or tomorrow, and the coming week may bring out other Republican office seekers. Anton J. Cermak, chairman of the Democratic county central committee, said an agreement will be reached this week on the candidates to be supported by his organization.

THE TRIBUNE CONTEST OF INTERESTING LETTERS

Every morning The Tribune prints a photograph of the stamp and postmark and the name and address of the recipient of a letter from an interesting or little known place, with a map showing its origin and a brief word of description.

If you have received a letter from an interesting or little known place send the envelope to The Tribune. The sender of every envelope which is reproduced will be paid one dollar.

From Suva, Fiji Islands

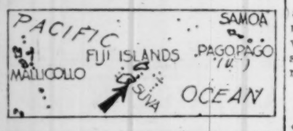


This letter was received by G. T. Falkiner, 7936 Union avenue, Chicago.

Fiji is another of Britain's far flung colonies. Lying in the Pacific on about the 180th meridian and between the 15th and 20th south parallels, it is a convenient station on the route between Australia and Panama.

Uncle Sam might have had the islands for the asking in 1871, when the white settlers offered the sovereignty to both England and the United States.

The labors of reconstruction after the civil war left no desire for expansion in official Washington. Not so in London, and in 1874 Britain gathered the cannibal islands to its fold.



This accretion can be directly traced to escaped convicts from Australia [then a penal colony] in 1804, who were the first white settlers to get a foothold and escape the local appetite for "long pig," as the favorite Fiji dish of human flesh was called on the island.

The total area of the islands, 250 in number, is 7,083 square miles and the population about 125,000. Suva is the capital on the south coast of Viti Levu, has a European population of about 1,800.

Congresswoman Ruth Hanna McCormick's campaign for the office of United States senator for Illinois will carry her into the southern portion of the state this week. She expects to complete a tour of the state and then come into Cook county for the campaign's close.

Today Mrs. McCormick will speak at Sparta, Pinckneyville, Du Quoin, and Murphysboro. Tomorrow she will go to Anna, Mounds, Mound City, and Cairo. On Wednesday she will visit Carterville, Herrin, Johnston City, and Marion. The next day her itinerary will include McLeansboro, Benton, Christopher, and West Frankfort. On Friday the campaign will take her to Mount Vernon, the home city of Gov. Emmerson; Nashville, and Belleville.

STATE TO TRY SERGEANT FOR KILLING OF BOY

Prosecution in Michigan Guard Slaying Planned.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Joseph Poggione, 28, sergeant of the Michigan National Guard, will be tried in a civil court for the slaying of Stanley Prusinowski, 16 year old guardsman, state authorities indicated tonight.

Gov. Fred W. Green, who is in Washington, said he thought it inadvisable that a military court handle the case. The governor made his statement after a telephone conversation with Col. John S. Bersey, state adjutant general.

"In view of the serious consequences of the shooting, trial in a civil court would bring speedy and firm disposition of the case," the governor said.

Prosecutor Will Proceed.

Informed of the governor's decision, Prosecutor James E. Chenot of Wayne county said: "On the face of the facts as we have them now, I can promise there will be a prosecution."

Poggione went to the Prusinowski home in Hamtramck, Detroit suburb, last night and shot the youth as he fled to avoid arrest for nonattendance at guard drill.

Poggione was at liberty tonight, but promised to appear before Prosecutor Chenot for questioning tomorrow morning.

The charges against Prusinowski, according to Maj. Frank Rine, commander of the 125th battalion, to which the victim belonged, were absence from drill and theft of government property.

Asserts Warning Shot Fired.

Maj. Rine said the sergeant apparently had conformed to regulations by firing a warning shot before he directed a bullet at the fleeing youth.

Members of Prusinowski's family said he was 16 years old, but Maj. Rine pointed out that he must have represented his age as 18 or more in order to enlist in the National Guard, last August.

The Prusinowskis said that when he began to work as a plumber's assistant, working thirteen hours a day, he stopped attending drill and did not resume it when he went back to a trade school three weeks ago.

Sigmund Kaczynski, brother-in-law of the dead youth, said that a National Guard sergeant had called at the house two weeks ago, pointed a revolver at him, and insisted on searching the house for the young guardsman.

KILLED BY FUMES FROM COKE.

Smith Ware, Negro, 23 years old, was asphyxiated yesterday by fumes from a pail of coke which he was burning beside his bed in his room at 2820 Calumet avenue.

LEITER BUILDING STORES QUIT AS LEASE EXPIRES

Failure to obtain a renewal of their leasehold on the building at Van Buren and State streets, which they have occupied since their inception in 1920, has forced the Leiter Building stores out of business, it was announced yesterday. Liquidation of the $3,000,000 stock will be started Wednesday. The store will be closed all day Tuesday to permit preparation of the merchandise for disposal in its entirety.

The leasehold on the building, which was formerly occupied by Siegel, Cooper & Co., one of Chicago's pioneer retail organizations, expired on Jan. 1, 1930. Repeated conferences with the trustees of the estate of L. Z. Leiter, from whom the lease was obtained, brought a ninety day extension, which terminates at midnight on March 31.

The concern was organized in 1920 as America's first cooperative department store, attracting wide attention because of the innovation in business method it represented. Starting with a nucleus of an annual gross business of $3,000,000, it had grown in ten years to its peak of $12,000,000.

FALLS DEAD ON STREET.

Joseph Krause, 64 years old, 3822 South Trumbull avenue, a stationary fireman, fell dead of heart disease yesterday in front of 3158 West 26th street.

VIOLENT QUAKES CAUSE PANIC IN TWO GREEK ISLES

ATHENS, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Reports from the islands of Psara and Anti-Psara, in the Aegean sea, said many houses had collapsed today in a violent earthquake. Other buildings showed big cracks. The inhabitants were panic-stricken and deserted their homes for the open country. No loss of life was reported. The shocks were continuing.

Psara, also known as Ipsara, is about five miles in length and nearly that broad. Anti-Psara, on the adjacent inlet, is much smaller.

HUNT EIELSON AND PAL'S BODIES IN ARCTIC SNOWS

Wrecked Plane Found by Searching Airmen.

Cape, Siberia, early in November, messages concerning his flights have been conflicting. It was reported here on Nov. 16 that he made his first trip to the trading vessel Nanuk on the day before. Within a few days it developed that on that date he had been lost several days and that on the days when he was supposed to be flying back and forth, ferrying furs and passengers from North Cape to Nome, no one knew where he was.

Since then the rescue efforts have been hampered by rumors and reports placing Eielson and his companion, Earl Borland, both on the ground and in the air at various points in an area containing thousands of square miles. Local flyers starting out on their own, planes of the Aviation corporation, whose representative Eielson was in Alaska, and, finally, expeditions sent out by the Russian government have been forced to waste days in investigating these reports.

Eielson Flew During War.

Eielson in his 34 years had seen much adventure. Born and educated in North Dakota, a graduate of the state university, he also studied at Georgetown and the University of Wisconsin. He enlisted in the aviation corps during the war and resigned after the armistice to become a gypsy pilot, barnstorming all over the United States.

Eventually he found his way to Alaska and in 1923 was employed there by the postoffice department to make some arctic weather flying tests. Flying out from Fairbanks he carried the mail through a region sparsely settled and entirely without landing fields. He later developed his own commercial flying service there, using Jennies at first and, as business increased, gradually replacing them with better craft. Associated with him was Joe Crosson, one of the pilots who discovered his crashed plane near North Cape

In Alaska Eielson met Capt. Sir Hubert Wilkins and it was to Eielson that Wilkins gave the major part of the credit for their famous flight from Point Barrow, Alaska, across the top of the world to Spitzbergen in April, 1928.

Braved Adventure with Wilkins.

That successful and brilliant flight came after a series of flying mishaps which Wilkins and Eielson faced together. On one occasion they traveled over 100 miles on foot over the Arctic ice, when their plane had been disabled, and returned without assistance to their base days after it was thought they were dead.

In December of the same year, Eielson and Wilkins, with Joe Crosson and Earl Borland as the ground crew, started their series of exploration flights from Deception island in the antarctic, which resulted in the discovery of a new coast line, making an island of Grahamland, which hitherto had been mapped as a peninsula jutting out from Antarctica.

Eielson was to have gone with Sir Hubert Wilkins on his present antarctic expedition, but gave up the project in order to return to Alaska and again take up his pet plan, to develop commercial aviation and map the northwest trade route to Asia.

Russian Flyer Speeds to Scene.

KRASNOVARSK, Siberia, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Soviet Aviator Ivan Chukhnovsky, after many previous unsuccessful attempts, today started on his long flight to Cape North, where the wreckage of the Eielson airplane was found yesterday.

He was accompanied by three assistants and the correspondent of a Moscow newspaper. Because of the weight of his passengers and the lack of snow on the flying field, the aviator was forced to unload some of his cargo of food supplies and extra fuel. He was reported at Tulun, Siberia, later in the day.

EIELSON PLANE FOUND IN ARCTIC

Flyers and dog teams are searching for the bodies of Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, American flyers, following discovery of the wrecked plane yesterday by Arctic aviators.

The cross marks the ostensible location of wreckage, found off the coast of Siberia, 90 miles east of North Cape, and in the Anguyema river valley. Eielson disappeared Nov. 9, while on a flight from Teller, Alaska, to the icebound ship Nanuk.

Los Angeles Prosecutor Candidate for Governor

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—District Attorney Buron Fitts today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor. The prosecutor and former lieutenant governor called attention to the record of his year in office marked by the trials of former District Attorney Asa Keyes and his assistants, and of Alexander Pantages and Mrs. Lois Pantages. Fitts is 35 years old and a wounded world war veteran.

MEN RESTRICT WOMAN'S CAREER, PHYSICIAN SAYS

Woman's reward—in fact, her place in her chosen career—is unfairly restricted, it was said last night at a meeting in the Covenant club.

Dr. Rachelle S. Yarros, physician declared:

"Biologically women are quite the equals of men, but in medicine and the law we as yet have the greatest difficulty, not only to get to the top of those professions but even to maintain a middle position, for men unite to exclude women. Women contribute vastly to hospital work in Chicago and are fully qualified to act on the staffs, but as to actually being on the staffs, that is a different thing. We cannot afford to waste these brilliant women, if the world is to progress

"Child bearing is no longer any bar to women in the professions, because intelligent women limit their families. In the United States today there are only 1.76 children per couple."

Mrs. Felix Levy, an attorney, said:

"The modern mother must be doctor, lawyer, dietitian, judge and psychoanalyst. How else could she risk a decision when six year old has to practice a piano lesson in the room where eight year old is busy on a violin exercise, while father is trying to get a special radio program and big sister wants to entertain her beau?"

Mrs. Alfred Hamburger, a member of nine women's clubs, declared:

"Factories took industry out of the home; the schools took education out of it. As she acquired leisure woman turned to club organization for new ideas, for the dispensing of charity, for a short cut to culture."

PRESS FOR ACTION ON DISABLED WAR VETERANS' BILLS

Legionnaires Back Rankin Compensation Measure.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—With a half dozen relief bills pending and demands for action of some kind becoming more persistent, the prospects seem favorable for several legislative steps by the present congress toward a solution of the disabled world war veterans' problem.

During the last two weeks, with the exception of prohibition, veterans' relief has been the outstanding topic of discussion on the floor of the house of representatives. Meanwhile, several house committees have held hearings on veterans' bills and one or two have been reported out favorably.

Important Relief Measure.

Only one important relief measure, however, has been enacted into law. This was the Rogers hospital construction bill authorizing appropriations totaling $15,000,000 for new veterans' hospitals, signed by President Hoover a month ago. The house committee on world war veterans' legislation now has under consideration another hospital bill providing for an additional $20,000,000 appropriation for construction now included in the Rogers' bill.

Most important of the other pending bills is that introduced by Representative John E. Rankin [Dem., Miss.], ranking minority member of the veterans' committee, which would provide compensation to virtually every veteran now seeking but unable to obtain aid.

The Rankin bill would extend the presumptive date on tuberculosis and mental diseases from Jan. 1, 1925, to Jan. 1, 1930, and include in the presumptive provisions the constitutional diseases which have been so difficult to connect with service under the existing law. It also would repeal the limitations of time for submission of evidence of disability and application for compensation.

Thousands of Claims.

"Passage of the Rankin bill would cure the majority of difficulties now facing disabled veterans," stated a recent bulletin of the American Legion, which is strongly supporting the bill. "It would bring compensation to a large proportion of the uncompensated veterans now in hospitals and immediately would clear up thousands of claims which are either pending or have been denied because of inability to establish service connections under the controller's interpretation of existing law."

It has been estimated by the veterans' bureau that the first year's cost of the Rankin bill would be $42,000,000.

Two other adjusted compensation bills are those of Representative W. C. Hawley [Rep., Ore.], and Senator Millard Tydings [Dem., Md.]. The Hawley bill, pending in the house ways and means committee, would extend the time limit upon application for adjusted compensation from Jan. 2, 1930, to March 31, 1931. The Tydings bill, now in the senate finance committee, would give widows, orphans and dependents of veterans who died before July 1, 1924, the full benefits accruing to veterans living July 1, 1924.

Legion Omnibus Bill.

In addition to these there are under consideration three house measures dealing with more comprehensive phases of the veteran problem.

One of these is the so called Legion omnibus bill amending thirteen sections of the war veterans act and clearing up a number of disputed points to the benefit of the veterans. Another is a house joint resolution to create a joint committee to investigate all phases of military pensions and compensations. The third is the Williamson consolidation bill, providing for consolidation into one department of all the executive agencies dealing with veterans.

Representatives of veterans' groups are of the opinion that unless the present veterans' relief legislation is liberalized the result will be a country-wide demand for adoption of a pension system similar to that adopted after the civil war.

ROBBED OF CASH AND TAXICAB.

Four bandits who hired the taxicab of Jack Mecher, 6206 University avenue, early yesterday at 63d street and South Park avenue ordered him to drive to 111th and Peoria streets, where they took command of the car. After driving back to 83d street and Champlain avenue they robbed Mecher of his money, 55 cents, and his cab.

EXHIBIT MOVIE SHOWING GROWTH OF CANCER CELLS

Film Used to Show Peril of Disease.

Moving pictures of cancer cells in the process of growth were shown yesterday to a lay audience at the Academy of Sciences in Lincoln park by Dr. Gilbert Fitz-Patrick, president of the Illinois section of the American Society for the Control of Cancer. The film was characterized by Dr. Fitz-Patrick as the most amazing development of moving pictures up to the present time. It is known as "the Canti reel," because of its maker, Dr. Canti.

The film was made in England, at the Strangeway research hospital at Cambridge and at St. Bartholomew's hospital in London. In order to show development of the cancer cells in living organisms, it was necessary to have them magnified 70,000 times.

Using the pictures as a demonstration of the peril cancer holds for humanity, Dr. Fitz-Patrick stressed the need for early diagnosis of the disease as the only possible hope of control and cure. He cited statistics showing that in 900 cases in which records were available, the average length of time it took each patient to consult a physician was nineteen months, the cases covering a period beginning twenty years ago.

Records kept during the last few years indicate that the spread of information about the symptoms of cancer and need for prompt treatment has brought the average down to twelve months.

"The best possible way to avoid a cancer," Dr. Fitz-Patrick said, "is to have a complete physical examination at least once a year, and more often if you believe you have symptoms of cancer."

CADILLAC V-16 SIXTEEN-CYLINDERS

CADILLAC V-8 EIGHT-CYLINDERS

LA SALLE V-8 EIGHT-CYLINDERS

WITH the introduction of the sixteen-cylinder Cadillac, the Cadillac Motor Car Company has in the strictest sense provided for the three distinct price classifications in the fine car market.

The eight-cylinder Cadillac, with its luxurious Fisher and Fleetwood bodies, more than meets the needs of the major price classification and is established as the world's finest motor car—with the single exception of the new and more highly personalized Cadillac V-16

As for the La Salle, the public's appreciation of its unequalled value and brilliant performance has impressively demonstrated Cadillac's ability to respond to the very real demand for a moderately priced quality car.

Since the building of the first eight-cylinder Cadillacs and La Salles almost half a million of these splendid motor cars have eminently served the most exclusive homes in America and abroad.

Really, no man or woman seeking the best possible investment in a fine automobile need look further. The eight-cylinder Cadillac and the eight-cylinder La Salle have attained such a degree of perfection that an understanding of their superiorities literally sets them apart from all other cars.

DEBUTANTE, 18, THREATENED BY BLACKMAILERS

$5,000 Demanded to Ward Off "Exposing" Her.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—A blackmail demand of $5,000 on Mr. and Mrs. Donald McKay Frost, 18 Exeter street, under threat of "exposing" their 18 year old debutante daughter, Mary, and ruining her social standing, was revealed by a police announcement today. The police said the blackmailers failed to show up at a proposed meeting place last night where officers were waiting in hiding. How the blackmailers intend to carry out their threat is a mystery to both the Frosts and investigating authorities.

The police were still undecided tonight whether the blackmail threat is a serious move on the part of a discharged employé and his female accomplice, or is a hoax designed to worry Mr. Frost, a prominent Boston attorney, and his wife, one of the Back Bay's social leaders. Working on both theories, they are protecting the families closely.

"X" Makes Demands.

During the last two days members of the Frost family have received one letter, two telegrams and one telephone call from a mysterious person who calls himself "X," demanding $5,000 or the "ruination of Miss Frost's social career." The letter was received first and ordered the money left in a designated spot on Friday evening, but the Frosts called the police. Detectives kept an all night vigil at the spot in vain.

Yesterday a woman called on the telephone demanding the money be left in a new spot and stating it was the last chance.

Telegrams Demand Money.

A telegram followed late in the day and another one in the evening demanding immediate payment "as the press now has the story." Detectives were unable to turn up any suspicious characters at the second appointed place, however.

All last night the Frost home in Exeter street was under guard of plain clothes men, while detectives in the house answered every ring of the door bell and telephone operators on the Back Bay exchange were under orders to trace every phone call to the house. Meanwhile, the police are endeavoring to trace the telegrams in the hope that the employé who took them will be able to recall and give a description of the sender.

BOY AND RACE TRACK FOLLOWER ARE FOUND DEAD BENEATH SNOW

Laurel, Md., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Frozen stiff and covered by a blanket of snow, the bodies of Alfred Wellford, 14, missing since last Monday, and Lynn Montgomery, 25, a race track follower, were found in Laurel grove, a thicket in the heart of the town, today by a young man and woman who were taking a walk.

The bodies were lying on an overcoat, the lad with a bullet wound in his breast and Montgomery with one in the temple. Montgomery had a pistol clasped in his hand.

Joshua T. Wellford, the boy's father, said his son had attended school Monday and had completed his studying after returning home and gone out sledding. He said his son and Montgomery, who was an exerciser for the Ascot racing stables, had been close friends some time ago, but recently Alfred had said that he "did not like" his former companion. "I understand, however, that Montgomery kept after Alfred," the father said.

FLAMES CAUSE $50,000 LOSS IN FOUR FACTORIES

Damage estimated at $50,000 was caused last night by a fire, starting from spontaneous combustion, which swept through a two story manufacturing building on the northwest corner of Washington boulevard and Sangamon street. A 4-11 alarm was sounded before the flames were brought under control.

The fire started in the section of the first floor occupied by the Yates-American Machine company, the Chicago Tool company, and the J. W. Allen company, confectioners' supplies makers, at 119-121 North Sangamon street, and swept through to the second floor, occupied by the Museum of Science and Industry, manufacturers of wooden models. Valuable machinery in the shops on the first floor was wrecked and several models in the museum company's plant were burned. Among the models damaged was one said to be the original model of the steamer Leviathan, which the owners valued at $25,000.

The plants of the Rossman corporation, tile dealers, on the first floor, and the Eagle-Ottawa Leather company on the second floor were not damaged. The flames for a time threatened to spread to the plant of the Ritt-Miller company, printers, at 123 North Sangamon street.

END OF TARIFF BATTLE IN SENATE APPEARS IN SIGHT

Leaders Predict Passage of Bill in 3 Weeks.

Washington, D. C., Jana. 26.—[Special.]—End of the long drawn out tariff battle in the senate now appears to be definitely in sight. Having finally succeeded in disposing of committee amendments to all schedules, except a few temporarily passed over, the senate is nearly ready to turn to individual amendments.

It is expected that the three weeks remaining before the middle of February will be sufficient for consideration of these amendments and for final passage of the bill.

Some of the leaders are optimistic enough to think the bill may be passed within two weeks, while a few senators, having become pessimistic on all phases of the tariff, doubt if it can be passed before March.

Adjust Some Differences.

Passage of the bill by the senate will by no means dispose of the controversy. Three or four weeks or more will be required to adjust differences in the senate and house bills in conference. Members of congress will consider themselves lucky if a new law reaches the statute books by March or April.

The tariff bill already has been pending in congress for more than a year, hearings having been commenced by the house ways and means committee early in January, 1929. The house passed the bill in May. Debate was commenced in the senate in September.

The coalition of Democrats and radicals is preparing to present numerous individual amendments to reduce duties on industrial products which were not involved in the finance committee amendments, which thus far have had precedence.

Controversy Over Cement.

The question of a duty on cement is one of the principal controoversies yet to be decided. The house bill imposed a duty on cement, which now is on the free list, and the senate finance committe approved the house rate. Inasmuch as the house bill paragraph was not amended by the finance committee the matter did not come up during the consideration of committee amendments to the earths and earthenware schedule. An amendment will be offered to restore cement to the free list. Most of the senators who voted to put lumber and shingles back on the free list are expected to vote similarly on the cement item.

MARVELS OF U. S. ECONOMIC GAIN PART OF HISTORY

For Each Writer's Own Appraisal.

How much space should be given to economic conditions in THE TRIBUNE'S contest for American histories in 500 words? That's up to the contestants and perhaps the judges, THE TRIBUNE'S announcement being only that it will pay $1,000 to the writer of the best account of the origin and progress of this country and an additional $1,000 will be awarded to the writers of the nine histories judged to be next best.

Since former President Coolidge has undertaken to write America's history in 500 words to be carved in a South Dakota mountain, the question given much thought is about what essentials of our history should go into the brief account. Replies being received daily by THE TRIBUNE show considerable variance.

Sets Economic Precedents.

Prof. Chester Wright of the University of Chicago was asked his opinion. He said he believed any history should include more than a mention of the remarkable growth of the United States from wilderness to magnificent cities, villages and hives of industry.

"The outstanding difference between the United States and Europe is the product of our vast natural resources and land practically free," Prof. Wright said. Our present abundance contrasted with the scarcity of labor and capital, in the beginning, reflects the tremendous influence they have had in our development.

"The application of science to production methods, and immigration account for progress that has been much more rapid than in any other country. Our economic development is unparalleled in history. Not only is this shown in our national wealth but in the per capita wealth. Development west of the Alleghanies was an accomplishment of the nineteenth century."

Contestants May Choose.

Contestants may agree with Prof. Wright that an important part of our history is in the strides of science and economics. Or they may believe our wars and our political achievements are paramount. No rule on the subjects to be included is given. The major rule is that the narrative should be in 500 words.

No one but Calvin Coolidge, a master of pithy phrases, knows what he will judge to be the salient features of the history to be engraven on Mount Rushmore. Those who have ideas of their own about history writing are invited to send their best efforts in 500 words to THE TRIBUNE. Every one may have his own opinion on what really constitutes our history, but the interest of the nation right now is what it is in 500 words.

PEOPLE'S LOBBY ASKS SENATORS TO EXPOSE THE 'CREDIT OCTOPUS'

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—(AP)—The senate lobby committee was asked in a letter made public today by the people's lobby to "investigate the super lobby—the banking and credit octopus."

The letter charged that it "holds in the strangle of its tentacles the power industry, the railroads, the oil industry, the steel industry, the mining industry, all manufacturers, the farming industry, the meat packing industry, and America's world wide foreign policy."

The letter suggested that the committee "invite the presidents or executive officers of the larger banks, trust companies and investment trusts in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, and Boston to tell you the truth."

ASPHYXIATED AS COFFEE BOILS OVER.

Oscar Hermanson, 45 years old, was found asphyxiated by gas early yesterday in his room at 3056 Sheffield avenue. A pot of coffee had boiled over, extinguishing the flame of a gas stove while Hermanson was asleep.

STUDENTS RESCUE BOOKS; ELMHURST LIBRARY BURNS

When students at Elmhurst college early yesterday saw flames coming from the roof of the Wilder Memorial library—Elmhurst's public library—in Wilder park across the street from their dormitories, they set up a shout, gathered in a crowd of 150 and ran to the rescue of the 7,000 volumes in the burning building.

While the firemen worked to halt the blaze the students managed to carry most of the books outside so that few were damaged either by the fire, smoke, or water.

The damage to the building was estimated at $5,000 to $15,000. The fire was believed to have started from a defective chimney.

Wilder Memorial library is a sixty year old building. It formerly was the residence of E. T. Wilder, pioneer citizen of the suburb.

I Must Look For Another Job

The 1929 business shake-up has forced the company I am with to curtail production cancel advertising and reduce the sales force

It looks as though this "marking time" might continue for a year.

But I cannot afford to let the year slip by.

I must look for another job.

In five years I have built a sales organization in a pioneer field, and increased business from less than one-half a million a year to over $4,000,000.

If you have a business that involves a re-sale problem, I can make profit for you. My methods are not spectacular; I believe in consistently, persistently building from small to large, for only in this way can an organization KEEP the business it GAINS.

Forty prominent distributors will tell you — voluntarily — that I have helped them make substantial sales and profits.

The owners of this business will attest to my qualifications and staunch loyalty. They are not dismissing me; I am resigning.

WOMEN'S FORUM HEARS WETS AND DRYS IN DEBATE

'Co-ed Speakeasy' Found Menace; Doran Talks.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Prohibition was the dinner topic tonight at the clubhouse of the American Women's association. It was attacked and defended before members and friends of the association and all in all was buffeted about considerably. The debate was presided over by Mrs. Marion Booth Kelley, vice president of the association.

Former United States Senator James W. Wadsworth and Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, president of the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform, spoke against the dry law. James M. Doran, federal prohibition commissioner, and Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, head of the state W. C. T. U., defended the eighteenth amendment.

Senator Wadsworth called prohibition "a fundamental error," and Mrs. Sabin centered her attack on the "co-educational speakeasy." Dr. Doran talked along the line of "what we have accomplished," and Mrs. Colvin described "improved living conditions."

"A Fundamental Error."

"There has been bitter trouble ever since the fundamental error of ratification of the eighteenth amendment," said Mr. Wadsworth, "and we shall not emerge from these troubles until we retrace our steps and repair that error. It is a question of government much more than it is a question of a glass of beer.

"Today the strength of the federal government, in spite of its efforts, is being impaired. Respect for it is decreasing. The people are resisting. They wink at evasions and applaud successful hypocrisy. Public life is shot through with false pretense. No government can prosper in the face of such conditions.

"We should be infinitely more concerned about it from this standpoint than from any other. People tell me there is no way out, that the eighteenth amendment cannot be changed, much less repealed. I do not believe it. I do not believe that what has been done cannot be undone when the conscience and spirit of the people are aroused."

Senator Wadsworth stressed the fact that "despite the vast expense of enforcement the liquor supply is unchecked." He pointed to 250,000 convictions for violation of the prohibition law during ten years and then said, "during last year alone 80,000 persons were arrested under the prohibition law."

Dr. Clarence Wilson's plea that the marines and regular army be called out to enforce prohibition came under Mr. Wadsworth's fire.

"Dr. Wilson," he said, "spoke without apparent authority and practical prevision. The public wants liquor and that is the real reason for the large number of bootleggers. We might just as well recognize that the American people are scarcely lifting a finger to help in enforcement of the prohibition law. Millions are violating it every day without hesitation."

Mrs. Sabin challenged the W. C. T. U. to turn over to her organization within thirty days the names, addresses, and authoritative proof of 1,000 persons in this state who drank to excess prior to the passage of the 18th amendment who have ceased drinking as a result of the 18th amendment.

Hits Co-Educational Speakeasy.

"Prohibition," said Mrs. Sabin, "is responsible for the largest organized criminal class in this or any other country. The co-educational speakeasy—one in which men, women, and even boys and girls gather—can be put down as one of the outstanding evils of the present condition.

"The youth of this nation," she continued, "is rapidly acquiring a taste for hard liquor. Today in speakeasies all over the United States you can find boys and girls of sixteen drinking Scotch and rye, poisonous and nonpoisonous."

Liquor Control in Sweden Cuts Crime and Drunkenness

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Sweden has cut in half the number of arrests for drunkenness and crimes of violence and reduced by 35 per cent the per capita consumption of spirits under the Bratt system of liquor control, according to the report of a study in that country issued today by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

The survey in Sweden was the first of a series of surveys being conducted by the association into methods of government liquor control in European countries. Such research is under way in England, France, Finland, Germany, and other countries.

Chronic Alcoholism Reduced.

The Swedish regulation plan, originated by Dr. Ivan Bratt, a young physician, has been singularly successful in eliminating the evils of uncontrolled liquor traffic, the association's investigators found. Not only has liquor consumption decreased, the report asserted, but chronic alcoholism has been cut to one-sixth and alcoholic insanity to one-half since 1914, when the Bratt system went into effect. At the same time, government revenue from liquor has amounted to 30 million dollars annually.

Under the Bratt plan, monopolies financed by private capital are set up under the government to handle intoxicants. Quantities purchasable by an individual are governed by his habits, with a maximum of 4.2 quarts a month. Abusers of alcohol are committed to government institutions.

Originator Now Famous.

"Dr. Bratt refused to accept the prohibition dictum that the only way to solve the liquor problem was to abolish liquor," the association report declared. "He studied the drink question as a medical man and sociologist who had no prejudices to warp his judgment and no thought of personal gain. He now finds he has become known the world over.

"Wherever a radical revision of the liquor laws is undertaken, the Bratt system is likely to come in for consideration as exhibit A. Features of the plan have been copied in Canada and the Bratt model was studied in England before that country's wartime regulations were framed. In other countries, unofficial groups of individual students of the temperance question have examined the operation and results of the Swedish innovation, which is no longer an experiment."

TWO IDENTIFIED AS KIDNAPERS BY THEIR VICTIM

Henry W. Conrad, wholesale baker of Momence, Ill., identified two Chicago youths yesterday as the pair who kidnaped him from his bakery on Nov. 26, drove him to various nearby towns where he tried unsuccessfully to cash a $1,000 ransom check, and dropped him near Lowell, Ind., when the car they had stolen in Chicago developed brake trouble.

At the detective bureau showup he pointed out Joseph Durham, 22 years old, 8533 Muskegon avenue. Later in the Bridewell hospital he identified Leo Szablewski, 24 years old, 8134 Burnham avenue, who is nursing a wounded leg.

WET CAMPAIGN TO MODIFY LAW IS UPHILL TASK

Big Majority in Congress Favors Drys.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Prohibition modificationists seeking to capitalize in elections what they regard as evidence of a trend of public sentiment toward some sort of a new deal find themselves facing an uphill task.

Analyzing prospects in this year's congressional and senatorial contests and in the 1932 presidential campaign they encounter these cold facts.

Fully three-fourths of the members of both houses of congress are dry.

Out of 35 senators whose seats will be filled this year about half a dozen are wet and the others dry.

With primary contests already shaping up the wets seem to have no possible chance of gaining more than one or two senators and may lose one or two.

House Gains Possible.

Gain of from 20 to 40 house wets might be possible, but even so they would be a long way from a majority.

Assuming the renomination of President Hoover in 1932 the next Republican platform will be as dry or dryer than that of 1928.

Threats of another southern bolt from Democratic ranks are put forward as wets become more hopeful of the possibility of the selection of another wet presidential standard bearer.

As the situation is gone over in the light of the nation-wide agitation over enforcement of dry laws which has marked the tenth anniversary of prohibition, there seems little doubt that the dry organizations through their control of political machinery are strongly entrenched. At the same time it is becoming increasingly evident that the prohibition issue is not settled as was so confidently contended by the drys following the election of President Hoover in 1928.

Issue Very Much Alive.

The unprecedented fury which has marked the debates in congress during the last few weeks has furnished convincing proof that the issue is as acute as it has been at any time. Nevertheless, with the handicaps which make the overturning of an existing order of affairs it is recognized that whatever be the opinion of a majority of the people of the country there is no immediate possibility of the election of a congress or administration which would favor a modification of prohibition laws.

Regardless of the odds against them the wets propose to make an issue of prohibition wherever possible in this year's congressional and senatorial primaries and elections. The wet and dry issue is likely to be the decisive factor in certain state and district contests, but in many states and districts where present dry officials completely dominate the situation the wets will bide their time for a more favorable opportunity.

Referendum in Massachusetts.

Referendum votes on some phase of the prohibition question will tend to fan the flames in a few states. The only state where it has been definitely decided thus far to submit the question to the voters in November is Massachusetts. In that state there will be a vote on the question of the repeal of the state prohibition enforcement act, known as the "baby Volsted" law. There is talk of a referendum in California on the repeal of its state enforcement act known as the Wright law.

Massachusetts will furnish one of the storm centers of the country on the prohibition issue as its Republican nominee for United States senator is likely to be dry and its Democratic nominee wet, and the outcome of the fight between them is in doubt. Senator F. G. Gillett [Rep., Mass.], a dry, is not a candidate for renomination. Louis K. Liggett, Republican national committeeman in Massachusetts, told President Hoover during the last week that the party leaders are perplexed as to how they can elect a dry senatorial candidate. Smith carried the state over Hoover in 1928 by a plurality of 17,000, although the Republicans elected their gubernatorial candidate by a margin of 19,000.

All Candidates Wet.

In a special primary to be held on Tuesday to nominate candidates to fill the congressional vacancy caused by the death of Representative W. K. Kaynor [Rep.] in the Springfield, Mass., district, it is understood that all of the two Republican and three Democratic candidates are wet.

F. D. Griggs, one of the Republican candidates, has expressed himself as willing to abide by the wet vote of his district in a previous referendum. F. T. Hinckley, the other Republican candidate, although heretofore regarded as a dry, is said to have similarly indicated a willingness to follow the sentiment in the district as shown by referendum votes. This happens to be former President Coolidge's voting district, and it appears that he will be forced to vote for a wet member of congress.

The present senate is dryer than it has ever been, several of the most active wets having been eliminated in the last election. Probably not more than about 20 of the 96 senators are wet.

Sixty in Wet Bloc.

In the house the drys describe 114 of the 435 members as wet. Of these wets about 60 will identify themselves with the active wet bloc. Most of the members of this bloc come from the large cities of New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Cleveland, and Milwaukee, and adjacent industrial communities. A considerable proportion of the members of the house from the large cities are already wet, which means that if the wets are to make considerable gains they must invade the rural areas, which have heretofore been predominantly dry.

The recent continuous agitation on the prohibition issue in congress and throughout the country has greatly stimulated the hopes of the wets in connection with the selection of a Democratic presidential nominee in 1932. That the 1932 nominee would be a dry was generally predicted following the defeat of Alfred E. Smith in 1928. Now, with a revival of prohibition discussion, the wets think that they might be able to hold the south in line for a wet candidate, provided the religious question can be kept out of the campaign.

Both for Enforcement.

The 1928 platforms of both parties contained prohibition enforcement planks, but neither plank is regarded as so dry as to preclude the selection of candidates favoring modification of prohibition laws. The Republican platform declared for "observance and vigorous enforcement" of the 18th amendment. The Democratic platform declared for "an honest effort to enforce the 18th amendment and all other provisions of the federal constitution and all laws enacted pursuant thereto."

There seems no prospect that President Hoover, if renominated in 1932, will favor modification of prohibition laws.

CROSSES ICY FIELDS IN BLIZZARDS TO SAVE LIFE OF COPPER MINER

Red River Hot Springs, Idaho, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Surgical skill, taken deep into the central Idaho waste lands by dog sled, was pitted today against a week old case of blood poisoning in the arm of Roy Burke, Copper King miner at Green Mountain. Dr. J. P. Weber of Grangeville mushed through blizzards and 35 to 50 degrees below zero temperatures to reach Burke Friday night. The last report from the mine stated that Burke had a fighting chance for recovery.

Dr. Weber made the dash over glacial pitted terrain, through winter conditions said to be the worst in many years, after Sumner Stonebreaker of Orofino had trekked eight dogs and a sled from McCall, more than a hundred miles.

MEXICO ORDERS PAYLESS DAYS; AIDS PARTY FUND

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 26.—(AP)—All civil employés of Mexico hereafter will labor without reward on the 31st day of any month and the sums they would have drawn in pay under the old plan will go to swell the coffers of the National Revolutionary party, which has dominated the government for more than 10 years.

President Emilio Portes Gil decreed today that this measure should take effect at once. There are seven months having a 31st day, and the national treasury, when these roll around, will place the money in the bank of the party instead of adding it to the pay roll.

The president justified the order by saying that the party was the organization that gave rise to the revolutionary administration and that the government is "the genuine representation of that organization." The measure provides that the fund thus created shall be used for political campaigns, social and charitable work and insurance against illness and death of members of the party.

FIRE DAMAGES OHIO WAREHOUSE.

Elyria, O., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Elyria and Lorain firemen battled for several hours early today to subdue a stubborn blaze in the downtown business district here. The fire started in a frame warehouse and threatened to spread to a three story brick business block. Damage to the warehouse and nearby hardware store was estimated at $50,000.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING MAGAZINE Studio Rooms Now on Display on SECOND Floor of The JOHN M. SMYTH Store

THE STUDIO rooms are now completed. November 25 the Hall and Living Room were opened to the public, a month later the Dining Room—and today, with the opening of the Bedrooms, the entire house is on display. The thousands of Chicago women who have already visited this store to enjoy the inspection of the first three rooms have been eagerly waiting to see this final ensemble. And we hope that you who have yet the pleasure to view the exhibit will share their enthusiasm. It was an entirely NEW IDEA. Good Housekeeping readers in Chicago have been used to seeing the Studio rooms pictured in the Magazine's pages, but have never before had the opportunity of beholding them in reality except in New York, where they are created. Watch Good Housekeeping Magazine for future announcements of its co-operation with the JOHN M. SMYTH Store.

If you have enjoyed these rooms—write Helen Koues, Director of Good Housekeeping Studio (Good Housekeeping Magazine, N. Y.) and tell her so.

CHICAGO GREETS 1930 AUTOS AT NATIONAL SHOW

Prosperity for Motordom Seen in Crowds.

BY HAL FOUST.

Chicago over the week-end paid its respects to the 1930 automobile. The National Automobile show at the Coliseum and the various private exhibitions in hotel lobbies and salesrooms were well attended, notwithstanding the cold weather of Saturday night and the snow flurries of yesterday afternoon.

Leaders in the industry considered the attendance as evidence that the public is in the market for cars with the latest improvements in acceleration, speed, comfort and safety. The executives anticipate a continuance of prosperity not alone for their own businesses but for the entire economic system of the nation.

Continues for Week.

Forty thousand persons pushed through the Coliseum turn stiles yesterday and last night, the first time the national automobile show was ever open on Sunday. The exhibition will continue until Saturday night, with the $5,000,000 collection of motor cars on display between the hours of 10 a. m. and 10:30 p. m.

Today has been designated as engineers' day at the show. Demonstrators at the exhibitions will give special attention to explaining the mechanical advancements incorporated in the 1930 automobile.

Study Technical Matters.

The public has shown interest this year in technical subjects such as the new carburetors and new lubrication systems. Crowds gather around cut away engines showing the moving parts of machines ordinarily hidden from view.

Many important business meetings are scheduled for this week. Sales directors are meeting with dealers from all over the country. The National Automobile Dealers' association begins a two day session at the Palmer House this morning.

Link World to Chicago by Wire for Trade Address

A special network of telegraph and cable lines will link Chicago with American trade organizations all over the world on Wednesday when Col. A. H. Griswold, executive vice president of the Postal Telegraph Cable company, addresses the Chicago Association of Commerce luncheon at the Hotel La Salle. Special operators will send messages direct to cities in the United States, South America and Europe from the speakers' table and receive their replies there.

Auto Show Notes

Plymouth claims credit for the first sale of the automobile show. It was announced that Ray Worachek, 834 West 33d place, bought a de luxe sedan three minutes after the doors of the Coliseum were opened.

The Marmon exhibit at the Palmer house includes a 1908 model which has covered 750,000 miles, according to the manufacturers. It was driven to Chicago from exhibits in the east and will chug on its own power to Denver when the show closes here.

The 1930 truck is also on display in Chicago this week. Reo has an exposition in its headquarters at Michigan avenue and 13th street.

H. H. Franklin, manufacturer of the air cooled automobile, will be guest of honor at a company luncheon this noon at the Blackstone.

R. H. Grant, vice president of General Motors, yesterday described the national automobile show as a benefit to the public, by affording an opportunity to compare all the new models, as well as an asset to the industry, by attracting attention of prospective buyers to the latest products of the manufacturers.

W. H. Alford, vice president of Nash, pointed out yesterday that the American automobile industry pays $700,000,000 a year in wages.

The annual Studebaker banquet will be held tonight in the Palmer house. The speakers will include Paul G. Hoffman, vice president of the corporation.

HUNTERS SCOUR 6,000 ACRES, BUT FIND NO WOLVES

Two hundred and eighty-five hunters, carrying an assortment of firearms that included ancient fowling pieces, elephant rifles, and the latest model of repeating shotgun, sallied forth on what was expected to be the greatest wolf hunt in the history of Lake county yesterday.

The Izaak Walton league of Waukegan had organized the hunt to alleviate the distress of farmers, whose chickens have been the prey of wolves recently. The huntsmen beat over 6,000 acres of land in an area bounded by Belvidere road, Rockland road, the St. Paul railroad tracks, and Green Bay road.

They clambered over barbed wire fences, some traveling at a dog trot as they fancied they were following the curious zig-zag trail of the wolf. Frank T. Fowler, a Waukegan realty dealer, had offered a $10 bounty for every wolf pelt brought to his office. No human casualties were reported nor had Mr. Fowler found it necessary to pay any bounties up to a late hour, although the reports of shotguns were heard long after dusk.

COLORED PASTOR IN EVANSTON IS ARRESTED AGAIN

The Rev. George A. Long, 2029 Darrow avenue, Evanston, whose stormy career at the Mount Zion Colored Baptist church of Evanston has placed him in jail twice before in recent months, was arrested again yesterday morning upon the conclusion of his sermon. This time Long was charged with disturbing religious services in a warrant obtained by Samuel Gash, 1807 Emerson street, Evanston, a member of the congregation.

Arrested with Long was Robert Pryor, 1109 Ayers place, Evanston, a member of the Long faction of the church, who was charged with using obscene language in the church by J. M. Allen, 1940 Jackson street, Evanston.

Gash charged that Long was voted out of the pastorate of the church on Friday night, but insisted on carrying on his ministerial functions, having four county highway policemen as bodyguards.

MANILA POLICE GUARD YANKEES AGAINST VIOLENCE

MANILA, Jan. 26.—(AP)—In the face of threats by Manila gangsters to undertake reprisals upon Americans, especially soldiers and sailors, for recent anti-Filipino riots in California, Police Chief C. E. Pitts today assured Americans here they were in no danger.

Precautions are being taken to guard cabarets and strategic points where isolated attacks on individuals might be possible but the official said he was confident there would be no retaliatory outbreaks. Labor leaders joined the chief in an assurance there would be no violence.

The Watsonville, Cal., disturbance has caused widespread discussion in Manila but thus far no known conflicts between Americans and Filipinos have resulted from it. Several student and civic organizations are planning protest meetings.

The ATWATER KENT Mfg. Company has never had any shares of its stock on the market.

It owns outright its business and its manufacturing plant. It has been in business for more than twenty-seven increasingly profitable years, has always done business on its own capital and has never borrowed a dollar.

All its resources and experience are concentrated upon just one thing—the making and selling of fine radio instruments. Production in its thirty-two acre factory is scientifically controlled, so that Atwater Kent dealers always have enough radio on hand to meet the public demand, and are never overstocked. Its inventory is never excessive.

Single-minded devotion to its one job—the production of the finest radio that can be built—has put the Atwater Kent Manufacturing Company today in the strongest position it has ever held. Strongest in the excellence of its product—Atwater Kent Screen-Grid Radio. Strongest in the confidence of the public. Strongest in stability, which is the keystone of permanence in any business.

A. Atwater Kent, President.

THIS is a facsimile of an advertisement published in newspapers November 1, 1929. Since then the Atwater Kent Manufacturing Company has moved steadily forward. Public demand for its radio is so great that for many weeks the factory was unable to keep up with orders, although production has been materially increased. Its collections are absolutely normal—showing the responsibility of the business men who sell Atwater Kent Radio.

More than ever before, the purchaser of radio is concerned with the stability of the manufacturer who makes his set. The Atwater Kent Manufacturing Company has been stabilized for twenty-eight years.

A. Atwater Kent, President.

SEA POWER AND THE WILL TO LIVE.

Prime Minister MacDonald's address at the first plenary session of the naval conference, as we read it in the official summary, is a skillful presentation of the British naval situation, and we think sound in its main contentions. Americans will sympathize with his assertion that the British government's problem is "to satisfy the will to live, which lies at the foundation of the problem," and we may assert for ourselves his claim for Great Britain that "the world must be open for food and life."

As there is an official adoption of the doctrine of parity of naval power between the United States and Great Britain, we may interpret Mr. MacDonald's generalizations as consistent with our own claims, but, as we have pointed out hitherto, there has been and is an effort among British writers to impress us with the theory that the arguments supporting Great Britain's naval claims are not applicable to the American situation. Thus we are repeatedly told that the British isles, not being self-supporting, may be starved into submission by blockade; that Great Britain has far flung dominions and world-wide communications; that the United States cannot be starved and is invulnerable to attack.

This persistent effort to understate our stake in sea power has the more chance of influencing us since there is a general lack of knowledge of the facts among the American people and an easy optimism as to our strength and security. Mr. MacDonald's remarks therefore may be read with most profit if applied to our own conditions and problems. Not only is our sea-borne trade about equal to that of the British empire but it equally requires world-wide distribution and command of communications. Mr. MacDonald stresses the point that British naval forces are and must be dispersed in every sea in the world, although, by the way, they were pretty well concentrated in the North sea before the late war. But so must American naval forces be dispersed if we are to protect trade routes totaling 60,000 miles. Some of the exports most essential to our prosperity and our "will to live" are brought thousands of miles over routes very ill protected by naval bases. Our rubber supply, on which one of our major industries depends, comes largely from Malaya, in the far east. Tin, an important ingredient, also comes from that region. More important still is manganese, an essential of our open hearth method of steel making, which comes from southern Russia, western Africa, India, and South America. The chief supply of nitrates comes from Chile, and there is a long list of commodities important to our industrial and business activities which we must import over long sea routes.

To shut these off would bring catastrophe to the American people. To protect their transport is a world-wide problem of our naval defense.

Naval defense or sea power is not a secondary but an essential responsibility of the United States government. Mr. William Howard Gardner, who has given special study to our maritime needs, points out that, while England's exports are estimated directly to support 13,300,000 of its people, our own already support fully 12,000,000 of ours, and with our rapidly expanding foreign trade will soon support more. There is even in this narrow view no such discrepancy between the direct stake of the British people and our own in sea defense as the British propaganda referred to suggests. On the contrary, the latter exaggerates the danger of starvation of England, which, considering England's sea power and proximity to European sources of supply, would be much more difficult than is implied, and at the same time underestimates the vital importance of naval defense to the people of the United States. Adequate and world-wide naval defense is essential to the maintenance of the American standard of living, to American prosperity and progress, to the protection of American farmers, wage workers, and all our people from destitution and bankruptcy. That in addition to such disaster we cannot also be starved is in the practical controversy, in the realities of our respective situations, an academic consideration. It is not fear of starvation that has built up the greatest sea power in history and ordained that for a century Britannia should rule the wave. It has been and is British imperial, industrial, commercial, financial expansion, British wealth and prosperity, that "will to live" of which Prime Minister MacDonald speaks, the will of a great and gifted people to expand, to flourish, to realize to the uttermost upon its genius. The people of the United States also cherish this will to live, to grow, to realize its possibilities. And not in envy but in admiration we may well imitate the farseeing statecraft and unflinching will which sent forth the indomitable islanders to the far places of the earth and kept the ways of the sea safe for the British flag.

THE ROLE OF THE CITIZENS' COMMITTEE.

The citizens' committee of which Mr. Silas Strawn is chairman has announced that a considerable number of the larger taxpayers have indicated a willingness to advance money to the local governments. The treasuries of the city, the county, the school board and most of the other governments are virtually empty and the banks have refused to buy any more tax anticipation warrants. There is no cash to pay salaries of policemen, firemen, teachers, nurses in the county hospital, and other essential public servants. It is to meet the crisis that the $20,000,000 fund has been set up.

Needless to say, $20,000,000 will not meet the budget requirements of all the local governments. The citizens' committee has no choice, then, but to pick and choose as between services which it regards as essential and those which it regards as less essential and nonessential. The committee is placed in the position of receiver for a business in financial difficulties. As a receiver it can, and, indeed, must, dictate regarding expenditures.

The committee is obliged to revise the budgets of the various local governments where business prudence requires revision. Some of the office holders may be expected to set up a howl because their prerogatives as the elected representatives of the people have been invaded. No attention need be paid to such complaints. If the elected representatives of the people can get the money they want by any other means, the citizens' committee will no doubt be delighted. But as long as funds are limited they must be spent to best advantage; which is to say they must not be spent for maintaining loafers, incompetents, and unnecessary hands on the pay roll of the corporation counsel and the city's license bureau, to mention only two of the numerous sources of waste in public funds.

Though the city council did endeavor to keep expenses within estimated income and though it did succeed in doing so in the face of the mayor's demands for increasing the deficit, the fact remains that the city budget, like many of the other budgets of the local governments, disposes of considerably more money than the public service requires. The citizens' committee is in a position to force a revision of the budgets downward and in doing so the committee will have the full support of public opinion.

HERE'S A PIECE OF CHANGE.

The citizens who are being asked to open up the bill file and take something out to keep the city from having to sit on a street corner with some pencils and a tin cup might be interested in the suggestion that something over $600,000 of money properly belonging in the city treasury is in Washington asking for some one to come and get it. It is the money paid in taxes on experts' fees which never should have been paid out. To get it, or to have a chance of getting it, the city must confess why and how it was disbursed. If it tells the truth it probably can get a refund and it could use it. Ask a policeman, fireman or city hall clerk.

Editorial of the Day

THE MINNESOTA INJUNCTION LAW.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

The press of the United States awaits with no little anxiety the outcome of the case of the Saturday Press of Minneapolis to test the constitutionality of the Minnesota "gag law."

This law, passed in 1925, is a legacy of the arbitrary and illiberal atmosphere of the war period projected into times of peace. It attempts to authorize any county attorney or attorney general of Minnesota to apply for an injunction against the publication or circulation of any newspaper, magazine or other periodical considered to be (a) obscene, lewd and lascivious, or (b) malicious, scandalous and defamatory; and it empowers the District court to grant a perpetual injunction. Furthermore, as if inspired by Mr. Volstead, it provides for summary punishment by contempt for any violation of an injunction.

It is surprising that such a law could be adopted by any state whose bill of rights sets out so clearly the guarantee of a free press as the Minnesota bill of rights does in these words:

> The liberty of the press shall forever remain inviolate and all persons may freely speak, write, and publish their sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of such rights.

The meaning of this clause is perfectly well settled in tradition and in constitutional construction; it is that there shall be no "previous restraint," but, to use the words of Justice Cooley, it—> implies the right to freely utter and publish whatever the citizen may please, and to be protected against any responsibility for so doing, except so far as publication, from their blasphemy, obscenity or scandalous character, may be a public offense, or, as by their falsehood and malice, may injuriously affect the standing, reputation and pecuniary interests of individuals.

To enjoin probable future crime, such as occurs in the Volstead act and in the Minnesota "gag law," is a tyrannical novelty, unknown to any previous period of our legal history. Heretofore we have relied solely on the punishment of completed offenses, the only course consonant with freedom and justice. In the most despotic periods of English history no court dared to pervert traditional processes in such a manner. As Judge Caldwell observed in the case of Hopkins vs. Oxley, in 1897:

> With all of their astuteness and eager desire to serve the crown, it never occurred to the judges in those days to enjoin the Quakers from meeting, and Penn from preaching to them. This "short cut" would have gotten rid of the jury and placed Penn and his followers completely in the power of the judges; and instead of becoming the founder of a great city and commonwealth in a free republic, he would have languished in an English prison for contempt of court, incurred by preaching to his congregation, for he avowed in court that "all the powers upon the earth" could not divert or restrain him from that duty.

The Minnesota law arouses the indignation of every man who knows the long and bitter struggle against despotic power necessary to the winning of the great guarantees of free speech, free press and trial by jury, which this law seeks to overthrow. If it is upheld it can only lend encouragement to the progressive march of tyranny and repression in this country and only add to violence of the inevitable reaction.

FOUNT OF INSPIRATION.

"That was an excellent speech you made on the tariff."

"I'm glad you like it," said Senator Sorghum. "While opinions may differ as to details, everybody must concede that every tariff is of inestimable value as an oratorical inspiration.—Washington Star.

CONTROL OF BLOOD PRESSURE.

In a discussion of high blood pressure, held at the 1929 meeting of the American Medical association, it was the consensus of opinion that the treatment of high blood pressure was a matter of training and not of medication. It was agreed that there was no medicine that had any great effect on the progress of the disease, and, furthermore, that dieting for high blood pressure was of secondary importance. The progress of the disease could be held in check in nearly every case, but doing this was a matter for the patient, with a certain amount of advice from his physician.

Let George do it works all right when it comes to draining a gall bladder or removing an appendix, but when it comes to salvation in essential high blood pressure every man must be his own George.

Avoidance of anger and other emotional outbreaks tops the list of important don'ts, especially if a man is anxious not to convert his high blood pressure into apoplexy. Next nearest the top is avoidance of worry and anxiety. Avoidance of heavy feeds or gorges is also important. So much for the negative side. Now for the positive.

A midday nap is advisable. The blood pressure falls during sleep. A short midday nap will hold it down somewhat during the afternoon. There should be eight hours of restful, quiet sleep at night. Recent research work has shown that night noises and uncomfortable beds interfere with the restfulness of sleep. One speaker advises one weekend a month to be spent at home and practically in bed. Frequent vacations are advised, particularly if the seeker after health is able to forget business cares when away. If home is not peaceful and happy a vacation to get away from it is even more necessary than one having for its purpose escape from business cares. Quiet exercise is good. Competitive exercise is bad. Leisurely walking amid diverting surroundings is excellent. So is golf, provided competition and striving is not a prominent factor. Persons who are overweight should reduce by dieting. Others should eat about as their appetites may direct, but in moderation always.

MANY CAUSES OF ECZEMA.

Mrs. H. R. S. writes: It seems to me doctors always say milk is the cause of eczema, yet my little girl had suffered from birth from eczema about her face. This winter we found the cause to be cod liver oil. It is too rich for her. I know because as soon as I start giving her cod liver oil she breaks out. I quit a while and it clears up. She gets two teaspoonfuls a day and I have to cut that down to one. She drinks lots of milk and is fine as long as I don't feed her the cod liver oil.

REPLY.

There are many causes of eczema. Milk is the most frequent one. Some babies can drink skim milk, but not cream. Fats are often responsible. I can see how cod liver oil might be.

HEART AND WIND INSTRUMENT.

C. A. S. writes: Is it harmful for one who is suffering from myocardial insufficiency to play a wind instrument like a cornet? Would it be difficult to cure when playing on account of the strain?

REPLY:

Playing a cornet disturbs the mechanics of the right heart more than it does that of the left. Myocardial degeneration is generally more manifest in the left heart. At that, this exercise may harm the left heart. Discontinue it unless your physician advises to the contrary, basing his opinion on examination of your heart.

QUIT EATING YOUR HAIR.

Mrs. E. B. W. writes:

1. I have an inflamed colon caused by eating my hair. I chew it in small bits and swallow it. How can I cure the inflamed colon?

2. How can a person tell, without going to a doctor, if high blood pressure is present?

REPLY.

1. Stop eating hair.
2. There is no dependable sign of high blood pressure except the reading of a high blood pressure apparatus, or the appearance of the blood vessels of the retina.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letters to this department must be signed with names and addresses of writers.

INTENT MUST BE SPECIFIC.

Bensenville, Ill.—[Friend of the People.]—While I was in Jugo-Slavia recently on a vacation I became engaged to a young lady of that country. Can I, a naturalized American citizen, bring her to this country so that she may become my wife, without waiting for the quota? D. S. T.

In answer to the inquiry contained in the above mentioned letter you are advised that it will be necessary for the writer to marry the girl in any country outside the United States and then make application on form 633 for an immigration visa to have his wife come in as a nonquota immigrant; he may execute this form before he leaves the United States to marry this girl, but he must be sure to show on the application that it is his intended wife. Forms for this purpose may be obtained at this office [1343 Transportation building].

S. D. SMITH.
District Director of Immigration.

WRITES OWN WILL.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is it lawful in Illinois to write one's will if it is properly signed and witnessed? 2. Are more than two witnesses necessary? E. L. S.

1. Yes. 2. No.
TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

COMPENSATION FOR TEMPORARY INCAPACITY.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If a person is injured while working in his employer's shop and unable to resume his duties for two weeks, can he draw compensation? J. H.

Compensation for temporary total incapacity for work commences on the 8th day after the injury. If the incapacity for work continues for a period of thirty days or more, then compensation becomes payable also for the first seven days. If the temporary disability in this case covered a period of two two weeks only, then compensation is payable only for the second week. How much that compensation would be would depend on the average weekly earnings for the year preceding the injury and the number of children under the age of 16 years at the time of the injury.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WELL, SPEAKING OF THAT—

Of course, there'll be a difference of opinion. A bird named Arthur Faubel, being examined by the Senate lobby investigating committee, says we ought to give the Senate the gate and set up a House of Lords like the British have. Now, the thing's put right square up to us—shall we tie the can to the Senate and have a House of Lords? Are you ready for the question?

In the first place, there's the Constitution. Whenever you take up any subject connected with our government from the tariff to putting a new tin roof on one end of the White House somebody always pulls the Constitution on you and says: "Throw up your hands; I got you covered!" Maybe we'd better leave that point for Mr. Faubel to settle and get on with our discussion.

We couldn't have a House of Lords like the British, you say, because we haven't got any lords. Well, we've got lords who run the country and tell us what to do and what not to do, haven't we? Of course, they don't wear ermine robes and coronets and gold chains and ride around in Washington in state coaches. And when a lord is appointed in England he gets the job for life; and over here we're always hoping that next election time we can dump the lords we've got in the ash can.

And another difference between our lords and the ones over there is that in England they are mostly ornamental, like the back row of chorus girls or a green hedge to hide the alley. Our lords are bossy enough now, and if they were given the title and put in for life, what would they be? Think of Lord Bishop Cannon, and Lord Clarence True Wilson, and the Honorable Deets Pickett! Mr. Yarrow would be Sir Philip Yarrow, and Mrs. Boole would be the Countess of W. C. T. U. and Dr. Scott McBride would be the Duke of Prohibition!

No, sir, the English get a lot of fun out of their House of Lords, but it wouldn't be any joke over here. Our lords and earls and dukes and marquises and things like that take their positions too seriously as it is. What wouldn't they do if they had the title?

Well, we needn't do anything about it right this morning. Let's take a little time and think it over.

SONGS FOR LYNN.

VIII.

She asked, "Aren't you lonesome"?
But I smiled and said,
"I am with him. . . ." And my thoughts
Got tangled
In the honey of the word "with."
How pregnant it is, how close,
How ripe and sweet!
And she forgot to ask
When, where, and what day,
And I, day-dreaming, forgot to say
Feeling the tides of you
Surging through my body
In mystic fulfillment,
Being "with" you. . . .

LYNNETTE.

TOM EDISON has invented a way of boiling down goldenrod into rubber, and he wants us to plant a lot of it. Not until he keeps on inventing and invents something that will keep the goldenrod from giving us hay fever.

UP IN MADISON the girls of the W. C. T. U. indorse the golden orange to take the place of the demon cigarette. But you can tuck a dozen cigarettes in your vest pocket and think how bulky everybody will look lugging a dozen oranges around. And, besides, when you smoke a cigarette you don't bother anybody but the W. C. T. U., while when you bite into an orange you are liable to squirt a tablespoonful of orange juice into the eye of a perfectly innocent bystander and cause a riot.

THE COW RANCH AND THE FROG.

R. H. L.: One time me and Antonio had the makings of a good cow ranch. We been scratching around under a quartz ledge for gold but when we gets down thirty feet we comes to water and the conclusion that rather than be rich we better turn around and develop the butcher and bone-button industry of the nation. The grass round abouts was good, and all we needs to turn me into a colonel, and Antonio into a Don, was one double doble house with wide veranda, one chinee cook, two silver mounted saddles, five thousand head of white faced cattle, and some high heeled boots with long ears on them. Well, our assets was nil except one dutch oven, one copy Doctor Sloanes almanac for the New England states, one mouse colored burro, and a thirty foot well. In the well was a frog. About that time the semi-annual drought set in, and every coupla weeks me and Antonio had to sink the well a foot or so to keep us and the frog in drinking water. I guess we kept that up for about eight months—anyhow the well was going on sixty five feet and a big job she was getting to windlass the muck so far.

Then come the Sixteenth of September. The Sixteenth of September is the Fourth of July or something in Mexico, and Antonio says me and him should go to Nogales to help perpetrate and support the life, liberty and independence of the mother country. That took two weeks what with getting out of the hoozgado in Sonora, and when we got back to our ranch holdings the well was dry and the frog was dead. Antonio, he was awfully blue and discouraged but, me, I bore up cheerfully because I knew we was at that precarious moment in pioneering when nothing but spirit and courage would carry us to the civic esteem and white face cattle we was aiming at. Antonio, says I, there's only one thing to do, and that's to move over about fifty feet and dig a new thirty foot well—we'll just start all over again—what do you think of that idea? For you, si señor, maybe it is all right, says Antonio, but for me, no, it is too late—the frog is dead.

ORACLE.

LAGNIAPPE.

IN SPITE OF ALL our agonized moans there go those peace correspondents in London rubbing it in again. "Neither the Ritz, the American headquarters," says old Hank Wales, "nor the Claridge, where the Italians are staying, has a bar, but drinks are served in the tearoom and lobby during the hours permitted by law." We hope, Mister Wales, that you eat three of the saltiest salt herrings known to London and then get lost in a London pea-soup fog and can't find a tearoom where drinks are served for two weeks.

O. THAT'S THE THING that's the cause of all our trouble! If we didn't have that the thermometer couldn't get below it and we wouldn't freeze half to death. Let's put a law in the constitution abolishing the O. Write to your congressman today! R. H. L.

THE TROUBLE IS THAT SHE WANTS TO TAKE EVERYTHING WITH HER

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 27, 1865.

THE NEWS.—Wilmington is not yet ours, but our gunboats are steadily finding their way up the river, removing obstructions and torpedoes. Meanwhile Gen. Terry has pushed his troops to a position of advantage and has demanded of Bragg the surrender of the place.

BALTIMORE.—A special from Annapolis to the American says: "Hon. F. P. Blair arrived here this afternoon. He is understood to report that among many of the leaders in Richmond, Jeff Davis included, there is a strong feeling toward making peace on the best terms they can."

WASHINGTON.—Brig. Gen. John E. Smith of Galena, Ill., commanding a division in Sherman's army, has been promoted to a major general by brevet. Dr. M. B. Brown of Illinois has been appointed paymaster in the army.

NEW YORK.—The World's Army of the James correspondent says: "The rebels on the night of the 24th made a demonstration on our picket line in front of Bermuda Hundred. They found the picket line prepared for them and there was sharp firing through the night. A deserter reports that Jeff Davis left Richmond on the 20th to visit Wilmington."

CHICAGO.—Col. R. B. Mason has been selected as one of the two new members of the board of public works under the proposed bill now in the legislature to provide for the cleansing of the Chicago river. The good work is now fairly begun and citizens may be assured that another twelvemonth will see the last natural obstacle to the prosperity of Chicago removed.

CHICAGO.—Miss Lettie L. Rounseville of Chicago and George S. Knapp of Dubuque, Ia., were married on Jan. 26 at the residence of J. K. Murphy by the Rev. Dr. Ryder.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 27, 1900.

CHICAGO.—News was received in Chicago early this morning that Philip D. Armour Jr. died suddenly during the night at his winter residence in Santa Barbara, Cal., at the age of 31.

LONDON.—The Boer and the British forces near Frere camp near Ladysmith are within 1,000 yards of each other, and there is a continuous exchange of shots.

FRANKFORT, Ky.—War and bloodshed have been averted for a while at least in the Taylor-Goebel gubernatorial contest. Most of the armed invaders have gone back to their mountain fastnesses, but 200 of these squirrel rifle experts lingered around the capitol building while a veto was taken in the lower house which was unfavorable to Goebel, the Democratic pretender.

CHICAGO.—Mrs. Patrick McLain and Mrs. George Gabriel of Evanston were killed on the Northwestern railway tracks in Evanston when Mrs. McLain drove her buggy upon a vacated crossing by mistake.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 27, 1920.

BERLIN.—Wilhelmstrasse is barricaded and under guard of numerous troops. The precautions were taken following the shooting of Mathias Erzberger, minister of finance, by a student.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—With the Republicans refusing to yield any principle of the Lodge reservations and the Democrats refusing to surrender, negotiations for a compromise on the league of nations covenant blew up and left the situation more chaotic than ever.

REVAL.—Moscow officially reports that Gen. Kolchak and his ministers have been captured by the bolsheviki at Irkutsk, which the Reds occupy.

PARIS.—Gaby Deslys has considerably improved since her last operation, and the drain has been removed from the right lung.

CHICAGO.—THE TRIBUNE'S plan to award $100 each month for the most heroic deed performed by a city policeman, fireman, or official life saver has the unanimous approval of police, fire, and coast guard officials. Detective Sergeant William H. Beehan was awarded the first prize for shooting a robber in the Puritan Candy and Extract company's office.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

CHARITY FROM SLACKERS.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—The necessity for getting funds for current expenses anywhere they can be secured is recognized, and if the railroads and utilities will furnish them the city will be forced to accept in default of other source. It is nevertheless deplorable that at a time when all possible pressure should be used with the railroads to compel them to comply with civic demand for consolidated, adequate terminals, electrified service, two grade crossings, etc., that the city should be stopped by reason of being under obligation to them for means of existence.

You can't consistently or successfully use force to compel acquiescence in meeting your demands on one who is providing you with bed and board.

To accept the charity of the railroads means indefinite postponement of all plans for betterment of railroad facilities for Chicago and the railroads will be quick to see it and take advantage of the fact. A. DAVIS.

JANITORS AND TEACHERS.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—For several years the board of education has been economizing by increasing the membership of a classroom to fifty or more pupils and by reducing the number of teachers. The board of education is trying to reduce expenses even further by eliminating from the budget such necessary items as the parental school for girls, truant officers, vocational advisers, and instructors for boys' parental school.

Yet the schools have three and four times as many janitors, engineers, and cleaners as are necessary. And there are so many clerks, particularly in the administration building, that they spend their spare time solving cross word puzzles. All these workers are political appointees. The board of education is not cutting down on these expenses. Instead it complains that the merit system, upheld by the Illinois Supreme court precludes the removal of any of these workers, none of whom are selected by genuine civil service examinations.

The board of education could easily have saved the parental school for girls, which involved an item of $27,435 in the budget, by eliminating the unnecessary janitors in only ten or fifteen schools. The educational funds are being squandered on these so-called civil service employés, while the educational features of the schools are being so curtailed that they are in a pitiable state.

PERPLEXED CITIZEN.

WOMEN AND THE DRY LAW.

Evanston, Ill., Jan. 24.—Let me refer to the letter of "L. M. R." to say that he fails to recognize that the 18th amendment was a matter of men's votes, as the women weren't voters until the 19th amendment. However, no one doubts it was the influence of women over a period of forty years that brought about the great educational influences against the liquor traffic.

In the campaign of the W. C. T. U. there was and is an entire absence of abuse and name calling. Instead there is a persistent, increasing organized efficiency. If one cares to delve a bit into history we find that about the only thing the professional wets [saloonists] were doing fifty years ago to offset the W. C. T. U. was to throw dirty water on them as they prayed and to call them names. These methods appear to have been so ineffective one would think the modern wets would find some other method of attack. EARL GODWIN.

AT THE DORR TRIAL.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—I refer to Mr. Mather's remarks concerning the treatment accorded those who were waiting to hear a portion of the Dorr trial. I happened to be in the Criminal Court building on business that particular day and remarked at least several times on the patience and courtesy the bailiffs were having with the hectic, irrational, and womanly crowd, the majority of whom should have been at home teaching their children bedtime stories instead of spending hours and hours shoving each other, swearing at each other, and trampling each other, just to get a glimpse at a most insignificant part of life. When the camera men were about to take a shot at this hall audience many stuck up umbrellas, four fingered hands, hats, and coats, knowing that the camera couldn't snap their faces, so they endeavored to have a familiar object of their own in the picture, perhaps to show their children or friends where they were and receive congratulations thereupon.

I would suggest that in future sensational murder trials a large theater building be rented, preferably in the loop, where seating room will be plentiful, so that these thrill seeking Chicago housewives and embryonic social workers will be able to appease this hunger for sensation.

Mr. Mather mentions that many people with influence had choice seats before the doors opened. Nearly twenty reporters and camera men, about twenty witnesses and relatives, and about fifty charter members of the "I Gotta Drag club" comprised this premature audience. LAURENCE L. HOLLANDER.

R. O. T. C. VIRTUES.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—I would like to show "F. J. B." and others who are trying to abolish the R. O. T. C. in the Chicago public schools the splendid work that this organization is accomplishing. I would like to show them a few of the flat chested boys who have entered the R. O. T. C. as weaklings and left it with a military carriage and a strong body. I would like to show them the intense spirit of patriotism which is a part of every boy in the R. O. T. C. I would like to show them the excellent courses in first aid and the preservation of health which are a part of every cadet's training. I would like to show them the qualities of good citizenship and leadership which are derived from the military training, qualities which are of untold value in civil life. But most of all I would like to show them the fine spirit of the boys themselves and the pride they take in the fact that if their country ever needs them in a time of national crisis they will be prepared to assist her.

E. C. PARKER.

THE MARRIAGE CONTRACT.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—I wish to commend you for your courage in publishing the editorial, "The Marriage Contract."

I am amazed at your courage in these days when everything is for the woman and any other attitude is taken as a lack of chivalry and as seeking to take advantage of woman.

LISTS SENATOR, BIG BANKERS IN CHEMICAL 'PLOT'

Garvan Accuses Moses, Kahn and Warburg.

New York, Jan. 26.—[Special.]—German chemical interests are in conspiracy to influence United States tariff schedules and have been assisted by such men as Otto Kahn, "his partner, Warburg," former Attorney General Merton E. Lewis of New York, and United States Senator George Moses of New Hampshire, it was charged today by Francis P. Garvan, New York lawyer, president of the Chemical foundation and former alien property custodian.

The renewal of his attack on the German chemical combine followed the dismissal Saturday by Attorney General Mitchell of a suit in which Garvan and others were charged with trying to defraud the government of $5,553,546 in the wartime disposition of the assets of the Bosch Magneto company.

Mr. Garvan's new attack took the form of a statement summarizing an accompanying deposition made Dec. 10 and 11 at his home at Roslyn, L. I., and comprising 146 printed pages.

Same Fight as in Pre-War Days.

The deposition, given while he was ill, was for use in the litigation then under way in federal court in Massachusetts, in which other defendants included A. Mitchell Palmer, former alien property custodian; members of his staff, the Boston banking firm of Hornblower & Weeks, the Chase Securities company of New York, and numerous individuals. The deposition, the statement said, was filed Saturday in Boston.

German interests, the statement asserted, "are today waging the same fight as in pre-war days to throttle the American chemical industry," and Garvan declared that his testimony was "a fitting supplement to charges of German attempts at tariff fixing which have been made in the last few days at the tariff inquiry being conducted in Washington by the senate lobby investigation."

Mr. Garvan asserted that "Mr. Lewis, who gets $10,000 a year in his present capacity as special assistant to the attorney general, was receiving it in violation of the federal law, as this amount is being paid from German funds held by the alien property custodian by and with the Germans' consent."

Suit Instigated by Means.

He said that the suit against him was instigated by Gaston Means, who later was sentenced to the federal penitentiary at Atlanta; and that both Means and Detective William J. Burns had been in the employ of the Hamburg-American line.

He went on to say that long before the disposal of the Bosch interests for $4,150,000, Otto Heins, German manager of the plant, had valued the property at $3,500,000, and that a member of the committee which passed on the sale would have been content with $2,500,000.

He said that "at tremendous expense and by unremitting labor over a period of ten years" he had "assembled evidence of the German penetration of American industry, involving cabinet officials of the Harding regime and Senator Moses of New Hampshire as allies of the German interests in their attempt to regain control of the American situation.

Why He Makes Statement.

"The only reason I make this statement is because, after this case has blown up, the fight goes on today," Mr. Garvan said. "Some of you saw the other day that Senator Moses had appointed Otto Kahn as treasurer for the election of new senators. You did not associate the fact that his friend and partner Warburg is the head and front of the American interest in the American Interessen Gemeinschaft in its attempt to destroy our chemical industry and that there is a tariff pending in the United States senate and that the same question is left open, and that the same Eugene R. Pickrell and the same agents that worked in this case are working around the corridors of the senate today. The lobbying committee will hear from them all next week."

Carries Money to Protect It, Then Loses It in Holdup

Fearing burglars, William Stoeller took his Saturday receipts of $200 with him when he locked up his delicatessen at 918 West 63d street on Saturday evening to attend a theater. Returning to his living quarters in the rear of his delicatessen early yesterday he was held up by two armed men, who escaped with the $200, Stoeller told Chicago Lawn police.

A GIRL, A SWAIN; SCANDAL! THEN COPS 'TELL ALL'

It's a Deep Plot to Save Good Name of Town.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STUTTGART, Germany, Jan. 26.—An attempt by the police of Reutlingen to save the fair name of their town was revealed today when the coppers "told the truth."

It all started when Otti Heineken, buxom 22 year old gymnastics teacher from Bremen, went to Reutlingen last autumn to start a class for the development of big biceps and broad shoulders. After arriving in Reutlingen, she met the son of a local burgher, fell in love with him, and became engaged.

Up in Bremen her folks had picked out a nice boy with money for Otti, and when they heard that she had given her heart away to what they considered a less promising future, they were furious.

She's Dragged Out by the Cops.

At least, that was what the good townsfolk believed to be the situation when they saw several strapping big officers of the law forcibly leading the struggling Otti down to the railway station. Otti is not slight to begin with, and several years of swinging dumbbells and indian clubs made her no mean adversary for the coppers, who, aided by Otti's angry and gesticulating parents, hoisted the squirming young Amazon aboard the train for Bremen.

Further proof that it was a domestic riot was given when Otti's fiancé arrived breathlessly at the depot just before the train pulled away. He tried to board the train, but the coppers who had just exhausted themselves in handling Otti regimented their waning prowess and held the young swain while the train tooted out of the station yard.

Swain Files Suit.

The young man, full of indignation, went to the courthouse and proffered charges against the police of kidnaping his girl. But Otti was already on her way out of Reutlingen and the police judge told him such a charge was out of the question. So the fiancé filed a charge against the police of kidnaping himself.

The matter rested in this manner until the court called the case of Otti's boy friend versus the guardians of the law. And then the police told all.

It appears that some of the prominent townsfolk had observed the popularity of Otti's gymnasium classes. They heard of a club, "Kuenstleratelier" or "Artists' Studio club," which was composed entirely of the enthusiastic young men in Otti's gymnasium classes. They heard rumors about "nature loving" and "body beautiful"—in connection with the club.

Cops Look—and Are Shocked.

When the police investigated the club, they said, they were shocked and horrified to find half the town's youths, stripped to the epidermis, lying on gymnasium mats and basking in the rays of Otti's radiating personality.

After the club members had dressed and gone to the police station, where they were met by wrathful fathers, the police decided that for the good of the town Otti should take the next train home. But they didn't want the world to hear that their town was the home of nude cultists, they said, so they cooked up the scheme to get Otti out of town by telling her parents about the danger of her marrying.

CUTTER BREAKS ICE IN COLUMBIA RIVER TO BRING RELIEF

Longview, Wash., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Breaking a furrow through fields of ice on the Columbia river, the coast guard cutter Northland which brought relief to isolated Puget island and other points in the lower river district reached here today.

After crushing through ice cakes in the Longview harbor, the cutter proceeded upstream for St. Helens, Ore., and Vancouver. The Northland also broke the ice at the Rainier, Ore., ferry slip.

The lighthouse tender Rose, laden with food and supplies, followed the Northland up the Columbia, bringing relief to the inhabitants along the route.

The ice was becoming thicker as the Northland proceeded up the river and doubt was expressed that the ship would be able to free the W. R. Lang, a river steamer frozen in near Vancouver.

Forecasts offered little relief, as continued cold weather was predicted.

LAUNDRY TRUCK DRIVER ROBBED.

Joseph Dykstra, 10122 Yale avenue, was robbed $25 of Saturday night by two men who stopped his laundry truck at 81st and Morgan streets.

INDIANA TOWNS BEGIN EARLY TO BUILD UP DIKES

Speed Up Relief Work in Flooded Areas.

Vincenens, Ind., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—While efforts were redoubled today to speed up relief work among the flood-marooned families in lowlands along the Wabash and White rivers in southwestern Indiana, citizens were profiting from lessons of the past and taking steps to ward off flood waters that will be released in March when thawing ice and snow are sure to swell the streams again.

The fall of snow in the flooded regions has been unusually heavy this winter and there are numerous ice jams in the rivers that are menacing districts which so far have escaped damage from high water.

Vincennes and other towns will increase the height of their dikes and levees to ward off the early spring freshets.

Flyers Drop Food.

Aviators today continued to release food in small parachutes that sailed slowly down to the refugees, and physicians and other relief volunteers penetrated the flooded areas in boats and over the ice.

Paulina Witsman, a 19 year old girl suffering with pneumonia, was brought across four miles of ice today to a motor truck under the direction of Dr. M. L. Curtner and then taken into Hazleton. Dr. Curtner ordered all refugees at Orville vaccinated because of an outbreak of smallpox there. He has treated more than a score of persons in the town for smallpox, pneumonia, and influenza.

Doctor Presses On.

Disregarding warnings of Red Cross workers, Dr. E. S. Small of Decker, drove his automobile as far as possible into the flooded area of the lower White river near Decker Chapel and then started out on foot for the Claypool hills, where several score refugees have been cared for thus far by airplane patrols.

Thirty-seven persons marooned at the home of George Gremore, near Orville, have received their first supplies of fuel and clothing since they were trapped by the flood.

London Paper Sees Attack on Prince in Gibbons' Book

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Floyd Gibbons' new book, "Red Napoleon," published serially in Liberty, is discussed in the Sunday Express, which declared "the tone undoubtedly will be offensive to British tastes." The Express says the book makes "an extraordinary attack on the prince of Wales in the guise of fiction." That seems based on the theory that the king, driven out of the country, as in "The Red Napoleon," might become an émigré, just like an exiled king of any other country.

The FRENCH "75"

THE greatest field piece known in the World War was the 75 millimeter gun—the famous French "75."

To cushion the powerful recoil was the problem that Maurice Houdaille solved.

Without this Houdaille cushioning effect, the French "75's" would have torn themselves from their carriages.

Houdailles performed—they did their bit—they stood up under this gruéling test.

Today, holding the wheels to any road at all speeds, they provide safety, comfort and economy.

Dealers in Houdaille-equipped cars demonstrate over broken pavements, car tracks, ruts and bumps.

KING BORIS' QUEST FOR BRIDE FAILS; WILL TRY AGAIN

Ileana, His First Love, to Wed Another.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Jan. 26.—Somewhat heavy in heart, Europe's only bachelor monarch, King Boris III., returned here to his little capital yesterday, apparently as far away from winning a wife and queen as ever.

Accompanied by his brother, Prince Cyril, and his sister, Princess Eudoxia, the democratic young king drove his own car from Bucharest, Rumania, after a brief stop on his return from Rome, where he attended the wedding of Crown Prince Humbert of Italy and Princess Marie Jose of Belgium.

Quest for Bride Tragic.

There has been something tragic about King Boris' quest for a royal bride. Ill luck in his love affairs seems to have dogged him ever since he assumed the throne of his father, who abdicated after the Bulgarian defeat. This last jaunt seems the most disastrous of all, as far as his matrimonial ambitions are concerned.

Court circles report he met final rebuffs both in Rome and Bucharest, removing all possibility of his marriage to two of Europe's most eligible princesses, either of whom he would have given half his kingdom to win as a bride.

While Prince Humbert and his bride were receiving the blessings of the pope following their gorgeous wedding, King Boris, who witnessed the ceremony, is reported to have received final word from the Vatican that, under no circumstances would his marriage to pretty Princess Giovanna of the House of Savoy be sanctioned. He had been told this before, but had lived in hopes.

Vatican Speaks Plainly.

This time the Vatican is reported not to have minced words. No child of a Catholic sovereign could marry outside the church unless the offspring remained in the Roman fold. Since the Bulgarian constitution stipulates the heir to the throne must be a member of the Bulgarian orthodox church, King Boris accepted his fate and departed from Rome with Princess Giovanna definitely written off the lists.

Returning home he stopped at Bucharest, the home of his first love, Princess Ileana, 20 year old daughter of Queen Marie. There was sad news awaiting him in the Rumanian capital, too. Yesterday Bucharest newspapers announced that Princess Ileana would not marry a king of any sort, but was engaged to wed a young German blue blood, Count Hochberg of the House of Piess.

Ileana Falls in Love.

Queen Marie is reported to have postponed her trip to Egypt in order to fix up details. The newspapers today announced that Count Hochberg came to Bucharest several weeks ago and formally asked Queen Marie for her consent to marry Ileana. They met in Paris some time ago, it seems, and it was a case of love at first sight. Whatever it was, King Boris deemed it wise to depart rather hurriedly from Bucharest.

Formerly members of the court complained that King Boris could not afford to support a royal spouse on his meager salary of $29,000 a year. The nation raised his annuity last year to $43,000.

Now that most of Europe's princesses seem out of the question, court gossip has it that King Boris will choose a grand duchess. The girl he has in mind is said to be Grand Duchess Kira Vladimirovitch, 19 year old daughter of Grand Duke Cyril, pretender to the Russian throne.

MRS. MURIEL CHURCH DENIES REPORT THAT SHE'LL MARRY AGAIN

Newport, R. I., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Mrs. Muriel Vanderbilt Church today denied emphatically the published reports in New York and Boston that she was thinking of marrying again and that she might become engaged to a California business man whom she had met while at the west coast last fall with a string of her show horses, "doing the western shows."

Mrs. Church said it was true that she had called California by telephone, but it was strictly on business. While in the west she engaged a cowboy to help train her horses. She has found it desirable to have another such employé and her calls to California resulted in her securing such a man.

FALL IN SILVER BRINGS CHINA TO BRINK OF RUIN

Drop in Imports from U.S. Closes Down Mills.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Jan. 26.—China's purchases of three important American products—cotton, tobacco, and wheat—are likely to be seriously curtailed due to the business depression caused by the drop in value of silver, according to a detailed review of business conditions published by the leading Chinese newspaper, Wanpao, this morning.

The paper declared that "due to the money exchange situation and other conditions, the basic industries of China are on the brink of total bankruptcy, a danger which is imminent in the event that immediate relief is not forthcoming."

Cotton Mills Face Ruin.

In reference to cotton the paper says that the Chinese mills only have a four months' supply available. They are unable to place new orders due to the depressed value of the Chinese silver dollar in relation to the gold dollar, a condition which is certain to force the closure of the mills. This will result in the bankruptcy of the industry, repeating the situation which existed in 1925.

With reference to the wheat situation the paper says that two-thirds of the flour mills, which are dependent upon wheat from the United States and Canada, have already closed down due to the inability of the mills to place new orders. The Chinese grown wheat will not be available until June and even then the Chinese wheat will only be able to supply the mills for a period of six months.

The paper's reference to tobacco stated that the large Chinese cigaret factories will only be able to operate until the end of March with the present supplies and that they are unable to place new orders for the American leaf. The paper also complains that the lack of orders for raw silk from America has caused the closure of numerous silk spinning mills.

State Unable to Help.

Another industry which is depressed is that in silk fabrics as it is dependent upon imported rayon. The soap, match, and other industries, also dependent upon imported materials, are nearly bankrupt and industrial leaders are asking the government to extend financial assistance. This, of course, is impossible since the government is also impoverished due to decreased customs revenues on imports.

Foreign firms handling imports are rigidly curtailing their activities, particularly British importers of cotton goods, who are embarrassed due to the inability of Chinese dealers to finance shipments arriving at the present time. Further imports of silver last week caused a fresh drop in the value of the silver dollar.

Gets Warrant for Singer on Dress Payment Charge

Miss Florence Sullivan, 26 years old, a singer living at the Sovereign hotel, 6200 Kenmore avenue, will be arraigned in the Chicago avenue court today on a warrant obtained by Mrs. Ada Moran, 48 Banks street, a dressmaker, who charged Miss Sullivan had stopped payment on a check for $68. Mrs. Moran claimed Miss Sullivan had at first refused to pay for dresses on the ground that they did not fit, and after alterations were made insisted on a discount. After she paid the bill, with discount, she stopped payment on the check, Mrs. Moran said.

Seek Early Hearing in Suit Against Medical Student

An early hearing before Judge Joseph Sabath of the separate maintenance suit brought by Mrs. Alta E. Eastman, 33 years old, 918 Grace street, against Homer J. Eastman, a medical student at the University of Minnesota, was predicted yesterday. Mrs. Eastman recently brought suit, charging that she had worked nine years to educate her husband and that he had then been unfaithful to her. She demanded a nominal alimony for "the principle of the thing" and was given $1 a day.

BRUINS CROWD ROCHESTER OUT OF LEAGUE LEAD

Takes First Place by 28-17 Win.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's Bruins lead the second half of the race for the American basketball league championship. Tied with Cleveland for second place before last night's game, the Bruins defeated Rochester, the pace setters, 28 to 17, on the Stadium court to reach the top.

The Brooklyn Visitations completed the Bruins' ascent by running over Cleveland, winner of the first half race, 32 to 12, at Brooklyn.

Showed Championship Form.

While it's a bit early to predict the journey along the title route, the 1,000 who cheered the Bruins last night were willing to admit the Bruins had everything a championship team needs.

Ray Kennedy, Bruin captain, led the sharpshooters of both teams. Ray scored four times from the field. His field goals were divided evenly between the halves, but he also tossed in a trio of penalty shots in the second period in as many attempts. These seven points provided the exact margin of the Chicago victory.

Roney Russell's three baskets and Nat Hickey's equal number of points, two of which were free throws, provided valuable assistance.

Thus the Chicago attack was proven against one of the best defensive teams in the league.

The Bruins' guarding, particularly their record against Chazmadia and Tiny Hearn, Rochester's six foot seven center, also proved the other part of their necessary title equipment.

Chazmadia Scores Once Only.

Chazmadia started as if he intended a scoring spree such as those from which the Bruins have suffered frequently. His field goal was the initial scoring of the game. It also was his last. Russell kept him in control for the remainder of the first period and when Nat Holman took up the task. While Chazmadia didn't register any two pointers, Holman fouled him four times to prevent shots, and finally was forced from the game by the five foul rule.

The Bruins created scoring opportunities by their alertness and splendid ball handling. Nat Holman was the cog for the speedy passing, but Kennedy and Kellett teamed well with him while Hickey and Russell received the throws deep in Rochester territory.

Score Tied Three Times.

Rochester never led, but the score was deadlocked three times in the first half. After Chazmadia's basket the Bruins tied it on Kennedy's one hand shot and then led on Hickey's two one pointers. Kintzing's long effort equaled the score. Again, with Chicago leading 10 to 8, Rabin found the loop from far out, then followed immediately with a push up from underneath to create a 12 all tie.

Three drives, two by Russell and one by Kellett, gave Chicago a 16 to 12 advantage at the intermission. The final pair of field goals were the result of passes from Holman.

Although Rochester scored first in the final period, Bruin passing soon made possible a continuation of the attack. Kennedy, Holman, and Hickey brought the count to 21 to 12. Again Rochester rallied to cut the lead to six points with nine minutes remaining to play.

Kennedy's fourth field goal, a long shot, and Ely's basket on a quick break made victory certain five minutes from the end of the game. In that time Kennedy added his three possible throws and Hearn and Hirsch put in single points.

Home of David Wins.

Referee Chuck Salador turned in one of the best officiated games of the season and kept the game speeded up all the way.

In the third and deciding game of the series between the House of David and the Taylor Trunks, the Benton Harbor boys were returned winners, 26 to 13. Although leading by a point at the half, the Taylor Trunks could score only four points after that.

BIG IS THE WORD—BIG

Primo Carnera, 269 pounds and 6 feet 7 inches of Italian prize fighter, puts his best fist and foot forward. The Venetian giant arrived here yesterday to commence training for his bout with Elzear Rioux, French-Canadian fighter, at the Chicago Stadium Friday night.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Carnera, All of Him, Starts Training in Chicago Today

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 26.—As a general thing I am not inclined to exaggerate the promise of new heavyweight prize fighters, having seen many such who seemed quite dashing and clever as they frisked about in new trunks, belaboring habitual victims with virgin gloves, but subsided themselves when matched against opponents just a shade above lower mediocrity not much later.

Most heavyweights belong to familiar types and when a new party happens along and beats a Big Boy Peterson or a Quintin Romero in the manner of a tiger killing an old horse, a fellow may say, "Yes, but Sharkey would have punched the heart out of him," or "Loughran would have pronged him on the end of his left jab and waved him around like an oyster on a politician's fork."

Carnera Is Different.

Primo Carnera, this huge biological faux pas from Italy, who charged into Big Boy Peterson in the Garden the other evening, tearing across the ring with the astounding speed of a vexed rhinoceros in a jungle film, is unlike any heavyweight prize fighter that I ever saw before, including Jess Willard, who had his height, but not his verve nor his weight by thirty pounds. He knocked Peterson down four times in a half round and achieved these violent effects almost entirely by crashing into him, not by punching, so it still remains to be shown whether he can absorb a fairly hearty drive on his own chin, or pitch a blow that a confident fighter couldn't catch or avoid.

It was my impression that of the heavyweights now in connection only a few with long experience and the craft derived from hard fights against various styles would have enough poise to evade direct bodily impacts with Carnera and clout him after he had overrun himself. Certainly any one fighting him for the first time will be undertaking new business, for Primo is a great lump of exaggerated muscle, like something drawn by a Russian cartoonist to represent the capitalistic system, and this feat of scoring falls by bumping into people is something that prize fighters have not been schooled against since the abandonment of the London prize ring rules.

Peterson Was Ideal Foe.

Of course Peterson was chosen for the special purposes of emphasizing Primo's singular gifts and style. The object of the evening was to unveil

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Primo Carnera, the large Italian prize fighting person, arrived in Chicago yesterday as per schedule and the big smoke up for his appearance at the Chicago Stadium next Friday night is acknowledged to be on in full blast.

Primo was accompanied by a party of nine, including his European manager, Leon Cie, a boxing teacher, a drawing teacher and a set of three French sparring partners.

M. Cie, as soon as the party had been greeted at the Park Row station, gave out what he says are the actual statistics on his amazing behemoth. The dimensions are not quite as great as those announced three weeks ago in New York but this fact was accounted for by New York's flair for exaggeration in all matters whatsoever.

Figures Big Enough.

M. Cie would have it known that there is no need to prevaricate about his big boy. The facts are sufficient, M. Cie contends. Honesty and class is the motto of the Carnera enterprise, M. Cie points out.

There are those in Chicago, perhaps, who will study the extent to which Mr. Abe Attel's presence in the Carnera entourage increases the prestige of the otherwise quiet and polite company. It is explained that Mr. Attel is along solely in the rôle of boxing instructor and is in no way authorized to confer with any of Primo's ring foes of the future.

But getting back to the honest figures as attested by Manager Cie:

Primo, who is 23 years old, is 6 feet 7 inches tall and weighs 269 in fighting trim. If you have a tape measure handy, for comparisons, here are other statistics—Chest, 48 normal, 54 expanded; waist, 38 in.; biceps, 18 in.; forearm, 16 in.; calf, 19 in.; thigh, 30 in.; neck, 20 in.

Wears No. 16 Shoes.

Primo's shoes are size sixteen, one size smaller than listed in New York announcements.

M. Cie believes it is of interest that his protégé weighed 18 pounds at birth. His mother and father are six footers and he gets his extreme height from his mother's side, all the maternal male relatives being six feet four or taller.

Primo was born in Sequals, 9 miles from Venice, Oct. 1906. The family tried to keep him in victuals but had

Senn	2	2	55	71
Lane	1	3	92	92
Lake View	1	3	76	92
Waller	0	4	51	94

None of the sectional races in the City High School Basketball league can be called a runaway, but when it comes to furnishing close competition, last minute baskets and overtime battles, the north section is the Frank Merriwell of the league.

The fight for the lead has been such that north side fans didn't speculate on their teams' possibilities until Tuesday, when Lane defeated Roosevelt in an overtime game to take the lead in the heavyweight division. The latter's defeat, coupled with Schurz' third victory, caused a tie for second place which will be decided next Tuesday when the two meet at Roosevelt's gym.

Lightweight Race Clears.

The lightweight race also was clarified Tuesday, for Roosevelt and Schurz both scored their fourth victories in league play. They, too, will settle their argument tomorrow. Three teams were tied for second place in the lightweight standing until Senn defeated Lake View Tuesday and Lane lost to Roosevelt.

A glance at a few of the first round scores are enough to confound any expert as to final outcome. Here are some examples of the thrills the north section heavyweights have been giving their followers:

Roosevelt, 25; Senn, 21.
Schurz, 13; Lake View, 12.
Lane, 20; Waller, 18.
Roosevelt, 27; Lake View, 24 [overtime].
Lane, 16; Lake View, 15.
Senn, 13; Waller, 11.
Schurz, 18; Senn, 17.
Lane, 37; Roosevelt, 35 [overtime].

And the lightweights have had their moments also, as witness the following scores:

Schurz, 22; Lane, 19.
Schurz, 10; Senn, 15.
Lake View, 22; Lane, 21.
Senn, 12; Waller, 9.
Senn, 17; Lake View, 14.

Diplomas Rob Lane Team.

Midyear graduations will leave Lane's veteran coach, Ray Umbright, without the services of three heavyweight regulars. The graduating trio is made up of Capt. George Kopczynski, guard; Wilbur Anderson, forward and captain of last year's lightweights, and Edward Vandervelde, forward. Carl Vaicek, center, and star baseball pitcher, and George Burns, guard, are the only regulars left to enter the second round of play. They will be aided by Sollie Mintz, Irving Silver, Ira Jackson, and George Lang, who saw service as substitutes during the early games. The heavies won five out of six practice games.

Coach Umbright and his assistants, Jack Rapper and John Newman, look for the lights to go farther in the second lap than they have in the first, pointing out that two of the their three defeats were marked by close scores. The regular team is composed of Paul Krajacic and Sid Novak, forwards; Pete Pispa, center, and Capt. Bill McArthur and James Powell, guards. The Roosevelt game was the first of the season in which Krajacic was held without a field goal. Pete Pispa, the center, is six feet, two inches tall, according to Tech surveyors.

Coach Russel B. Chappel and his Roosevelt heavyweights will be in at the finish with Lane, judging by the way they came from behind to run their game with the Techs into an

YOUTHFUL SKIER LEAPS 187½ FEET TO WORLD RECORD

Westby, Wis., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Alf Engen, a 20 year old youth, who came to Westby from Norway six months ago, today set a new world's record in the Snowflake Ski club's annual tournament when he jumped 187½ feet from a scaffold hill.

Engen, who took first place in the tourney, surpassed the previous mark by 5½ feet. The old record was set by Walter Bratlund of Ironwood, Mich., in 1919. In an exhibition jump Engen leaped 191 feet.

Scores 405¼ Points.

During the meet the record was broken twice and tied twice. Engen had made a first jump of 183 feet. Prior to that Halvor Halstad of Omaha jumped 184 feet and Sig Ulland of Westby 182.

Engen's point score was 405¼ points. His regular jumps were 183 and 187 feet. Sig Ulland was second with 389¾ points and jumps of 174 and 182 feet. Halvor Halstad was third with 389¼ points and jumps of 173 and 184.

AAKER WINS AT MILWAUKEE.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Earl Aaker of Gary, Ind., captured class A honors and broke the slide record with a jump of 123 feet at the Milwaukee Ski club's annual meeting at Gordon park this afternoon. Olif Kogen of Chicago was second and John Strelog of Racine third in the class A competition.

Joe Maurin of Milwaukee won first place in class B, Paul Stone of Oconomowoc was second and Osborne Knapp of Chicago was third. Roman Lepok of Milwaukee took first in class C, while Adam Wojcynk of Milwaukee was second and David Bradley of Madison third.

JOE CANTILLON, PIONEER ON THE DIAMOND, DYING

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Friends of Joe Cantillon, pioneer among baseball men, were informed this afternoon that the veteran manager and umpire is dying at his winter home in Hickman, Ky., where he sustained a second stroke of paralysis a few days ago. A Catholic priest today was summoned to the Cantillon home to administer the last rites of the church.

Cantillon is 64 years of age. He has been in professional baseball for 46 years, having started as a player with Green Bay, Wis., in 1884.

For years he was associated in the operation of the Log Cabin on Clark street, Chicago, which was headquarters for the major and minor leaguers. Last season Joe Cantillon was supervisor of umpires in the American association.

Cantillon has discovered and developed some of the greatest players the game has known. They include Amos Rusie, Rube Waddell, and Walter Johnson.

He has lived in Hickman, Ky., the last twenty years, having become attached to the city while on a trip down the Mississippi by boat.

JOLIET CAGERS WIN TWO FROM ST. IGNATIUS

De La Salle of Joliet heavyweights scored their third straight victory in the south section of the Catholic league yesterday by defeating St. Ignatius, 10 to 8, on the Joliet floor. The home lightweights made it a pair by taking a 17 to 15 decision from St. Ignatius.

The heavyweight game produced one of the lowest scores of the season, the half ending 4 to 3 in St. Ignatius' favor. Rogers counted two baskets for the west siders' points, while Furlong's basket and Keto's free throw accounted for Joliet's trio. Roberts and St. Germain led the lights. Lineups:

William Minster of the Moynihan Skating club yesterday won the men's senior race, feature of THE TRIBUNE'S fourteenth annual Silver Skates Derbies held over a six lap course on the Garfield park lagoon.

Minster's victory not only surprised the field but the 60,000 spectators who lined the banks of the lagoon as well.

Every year a prize is given to the skater who sets pace for the greatest number of laps. At the crack of the pistol Minster, Alfon James of the Opal A. A. and Harry Overton of the Moynihan Skating club jumped the field.

The trio set a whirlwind pace, but every one thought they would tire at the end of the first mile. Overton set the pace for the first two laps. Then Minster went into the lead. He settled down to a steady pace, while James and Overton gradually dropped back.

Minster Fails to Tire.

Skaters thought the same would happen to Minster who showed no signs of tiring at the end of the first mile when he had a half lap advantage. Art Conroy of the Barrett A. C. and Harry Littlefield of the Cullen A. C. tried to bring the chasing pack closer to the flying Moynihan Skating club star.

But Minster's endurance proved too much for the rest of the field. When the bell was rung to denote the final lap he skated as fast as the field. Just before he reached the finish line Minster fell when the toe of his left skate caught in the ice. He recovered quickly and stroked over the blue finish line a quarter of a lap in advance of the field. He skated the distance in 6 minutes 28 2-5 seconds, remarkably fast time.

It was the first time in the history of TRIBUNE Silver Skates races that any contestant held such a wide lead to the finish. The field underestimated Minster's skating ability and his endurance. They started to chase too late.

Fans Overlook Minster.

When the race started and Minster, Overton, and James gained an early lead scarcely any one paid attention to them. Interest centered around Conroy, Gordon Anderson of Le Moyne playground, Littlefield, and Joseph Svoboda of the Opal A. A.

As the race progressed and Minster maintained his lead without signs of weakening the crowd started to cheer. When he crossed the line a winner he was given a great ovation. He also won a prize for setting the pace for ten of the twelve laps.

Littlefield was second and Gordon Anderson was third. Conroy, favorite in the race, was fourth, and Svoboda was fifth. Sixth place went to Ray Ward of the Barrett A. C.

Close Girls' Race.

The most exciting finish was in the final of the girls' junior. Mabel Swanson of East End playground and V. Horace of the Barrett A. C. alternated in taking the lead. It was a close contest all the way. As the pair rounded the last turn for the sprint to the finish they were on even terms. They raced stroke for stroke until about five yards from the finish when Miss Horace fell and Miss Swanson won the race by inches. Miss Horace was picked up by officials and after a few minutes rest was able to go to the skating shelter. Celeste Cornick of Orr playground was third, and Miss Margaret Richie of Belding playground, fourth. Other finalists dropped out of the race. Miss Swanson skated the distance, a half mile, in 1:57 4-5.

Helen Bina of the Barrett A. C. won the girls' senior race in comparatively easy fashion from Marie Fierce, also of the Barrett club. Miss Fierce set the pace for four laps and then Miss Bina went into the lead, which she held until the finish. She was by far the strongest skater in the race and covered the mile in 3:49 2-5. Catherine Rutherford of the Moynihan Skating club was third and Erica Boch of the Barrett club was fourth. Miss Bock won the lap prize by setting the pace for two of the six laps.

ing club of Elgin, Ill., sprang a surprise by winning the boys' intermediate Derby of one mile. The Elgin skater came with a rush on the final circuit and beat Tommy Holmquist of Emmet playground to the finish line by eight yards. Holmquist won the lap prize by setting the pace for three laps. He led the pack at the start of the race, but was passed by Tom Shafer of the Cullen A. C. on the fourth lap. Gathman laid back in the third position and when the bell was rung to denote the final lap the Elgin expert cut loose with a burst of speed which carried him around the leaders. He finished strong in 3:19 1-5.

Maleck Wins Juvenile.

Roy Maleck of Avondale playground won the boys' juvenile by six yards from Paul Fierce of the Opal A. A. Maleck jumped into the lead at the report of the pistol and led the field to the line. He skated very strong, took the turns like a veteran and appears to be a fine prospect for future Derbies. James Toman of McCormick playground was third and John Irving playground of Byrne field, fourth. Malecks skated the 220 yards in :24 2-5.

The boys' junior was won by Stanley Baginsky Jr., of Avondale playground after a close finish with George Moore of Emmett playground. The pair led the field from the start, and alternated in taking the lead. They rounded the last turn inches apart, but in the sprint to the finish Baginsky had just a little too much speed and won the race by a foot. Edward Raibe of Lloyd playground was third and William Bergmeier of Avondale playground was fourth. The winner covered the distance in :43 1-5.

The team trophy was won by the Barrett A. C. with 150 points. Victories of Roy Maleck in the boys' juvenile and Stanley Baginski in the boys' junior placed Avondale playground in second place with 110 points. The Moynihan Skating club was third with 75 points, and Emmet playground fourth with 60 points. Fifteen teams broke into the point column.

W. R. James, president of the west park board, presented the prizes in the ballroom of the pavilion at the conclusion of the program. President James lauded the promotional work of THE TRIBUNE in providing healthy sport for the growing boys and girls. It also furnished a splendid afternoon's amusement for those interested in winter sports, according to President James.

WEST SIDE K. OF C. ENTERS GOLDEN GLOVES QUEST

Dick Mastro, brother of Earl Mastro, one of the leading contenders for the world's featherweight championship, tops the list of entries received from the West Side K. of C. for THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves amateur boxing tournament trials to be held in three sections of the city on Feb. 11, 14, and 17.

Dick has engaged in thirty-two amateur fights and has won twenty-eight. He dropped two decisions and was held to a draw on two occasions. Most of his fights have been with flyweights held in local gymnasiums. Mastro is very aggressive, and can hit with either hand.

Joey Kleko and Gene Higgins will be the club's hopes in the bantamweight class. Kleko twice has won decisions from Joey Wolfe, runnerup for the National A. A. U. title. Higgins is a student at Crane Tech High school, and Kleko attends Harrison Tech.

The K. of C. entry in the featherweight class will be Lee Donnelly of Maywood. He plans to turn professional after THE TRIBUNE'S tourney. Eddie Bulat will be the club's representative in the lightweight division. He is a student at Harrison High, and was runnerup for the Illinois state title a year ago. Mike Triolo is another lightweight who is expected to go a long way.

Sam de Fily of Crane Tech will compete either in the lightweight or welterweight trials) Nick Micelli is the K. of C. ace in the welterweight class, and Andy McGahan in the middleweight. Mario Bellazzini is another strong 160 pounder.

More than 200 Chicago lads have entered the meet. They are determined the makeup of the Chicago team which will meet New York will not be composed mostly of out of town amateurs

Tickets for the Coliseum finals and the intercity matches with New York will be placed on sale this morning at THE TRIBUNE Service office, 1 South, Dearborn street. The prices of admission at both shows will be one, two, and three dollars, all profits to go to the Forty and Eight.

Boxing Entry Blank

Please enter me in The Tribune Golden Gloves Amateur Boxing tournament trials to be held in three sections of Chicago on Feb. 11, 14 and 17. All finals to select a Chicago team to meet New York at the Chicago Stadium on March 10 will be held at the Coliseum, Feb. 25 to 28, inclusive.

Ultra-Violet Ray Treatment Under the Mercury Quartz Lamp, $1.50

This Ultra-Violet Ray Treatment, however, is only a part of our Complete Scientific Treatment. For cases of "oily hair" it is sometimes used by itself.

For dry, tight scalps, brittle falling hair, itching or baldness, the Ultra-Violet Ray treatment is followed by vibratory and hand massage to loosen the scalp and increase circulation: by the gentle application of high frequency current to electrify and tone the muscles and tissues, and whatever is required of ointments, or stimulating and nourishing medicants. These are applied to the scalp (not the hair) and gently warmed into it by the rays from the Infra-Red Lamp.

THIS COMPLETE SCIENTIFIC TREATMENT attacks the disorders of the scalp from every angle, and leaves it all aglow with increased circulation, soft, pliable, free from dryness and tightness, and with a wonderful feeling of increased vitality. This complete treatment, Including the Ultra-Violet Ray, is..... $3.00

The Personal Loan & Savings Bank will make loans for any sound and sensible reason, ranging from funds for the purchase, improvement or furnishing of a home, payment of taxes, extension of business, discounting of bills, assisting relatives, the general consolidation of debts, to a thousand and one reasons equally good. Considered in the light of advancement of the family, the business or the home, this Bank loans money for every reason under the sun.

It is not the policy or the desire of the Personal Loan & Savings Bank to "create" borrowers, and in that sense the Bank aims to check persons who might be inclined to live beyond their means.

Spit is a horrid word, but it is worse on the end of your cigar

...the war against Spitting is a crusade of decency... join it. Smoke CERTIFIED CREMO!

He tried to "get away"... but they caught him in the act. And yet his filthy habit is no more disgusting than the bestial custom of the workman who rolls cigars with dirty fingers and spits on the ends!

Why punish the one, yet tolerate the vile practice of the other? Smoke Certified Cremo and protect yourself against this abomination! Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods developed by the United States Government during the war. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that foil, wrap and tip the cigars without the possibility of spit!

Try a Certified Cremo—see how wonderfully good it is! Made of the choicest, tenderest leaves that the crop affords, we claim Certified Cremo's quality is tastier than that of any other cigar. Don't let its 5c price stand in your way. Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar your physician has in mind when he recommends a mild smoke in place of heavy brands.

Crush-proof... immaculate... foil-wrapped ... Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar the late Vice-President Marshall undoubtedly had in mind when he said, "What this country needs is a good 5c cigar!"

Minnesota and Michigan Fives Clash Tonight

Week's Schedule

TONIGHT.
Minnesota at Michigan.

FRIDAY.
Michigan at Chicago.

SATURDAY.
Ohio at Minnesota.

Michigan will have an opportunity to get back into the Big Nine title race this week. The Wolverines, who have lost two games and won a like number, face Minnesota tonight at Ann Arbor. Since the Gophers have not shown any power this season and Michigan was successful in the first encounter, it appears as if Coach Veenker's team should win handily.

The second game of the week will be against Chicago Friday night at Bartlett gymnasium. With Chicago seriously crippled by the loss of Sid Yates, this also should be a win for the Wolverines.

Nothing can happen this week to the standings of Purdue and Wisconsin, who hold first and second places in the race. Neither will see action against a league foe.

The third game will provide the second meeting of the season between Ohio State and Minnesota, and will be played at Minneapolis.

While Purdue will not engage a conference opponent this week, the Boilermakers will run into what promises to be terrific competition when Loyola's wonder team invades Lafayette Thursday night. The contest will bring the first meeting of the two Charlie Murphys, a pair of the greatest centers in basketball. Loyola Charlie has led his team to a record of 34 consecutive triumphs, while Purdue Charlie—the great stretch—6 feet 7 inches tall, has been ranked as peerless in the conference.

Pneumonia Fatal to Heath, Ex-Sox Hurler

Spencer Heath, a pitcher with the Chicago White Sox in 1920 and 1921, died Saturday night of pneumonia in the Edgewater hospital. He was 35 years old. Since leaving baseball he had been for a short time a member of the police force and recently an automobile salesman.

Game Reserve Plan Succeeds in Michigan

BY BOB BECKER.

Does the public shooting ground—game refuge idea work in the middle west? Sportsmen have only to listen to the noise which hunters in the state of Michigan are making these days to learn that the combination of a game refuge with a strip of open hunting ground around it is a great success.

Michigan outdoorsmen are clamoring for more and they want their state conservation department to set aside a definite sum for the purchase of inexpensive land with which to provide both refuges and shooting grounds.

Michigan already has a number of these in use. We saw one of the best combinations when we were in the scrub oak and jack pine "barrens" early in January. There we found a big chunk of timbered land [good for nothing but growing timber; the farmers had tried farming it and failed].

This land, comprising nearly 6,000 acres, was a refuge. A broad fireline encircled it and a single strand of wire marked the edge of the refuge boundary so that no hunter could stray into the refuge with the excuse that he didn't know it was protected ground.

The state bought a strip of land one half mile wide around the refuge and turned it into a public shooting ground. Here the free lance hunter could stroll around, shoot and enjoy himself as much as he pleases. Grouse, rabbits and deer in season can be bagged.

The system has worked out so successfully in Michigan [and in Pennsylvania, too] that the call is for more. Michigan has more than 400,000 licensed hunters. Right now they are uniting to get more game refuges and public shooting grounds.

FISCHER RASSLES BARBOLA TONIGHT ON FRONTON MAT

Charles Fischer, claimant of the middleweight wrestling championship, will go to the mat tonight at the Jai Alai Fronton, against Emil Barbola of Milwaukee. In the semi-windup, Bobby Bylund, nemesis of Johnny Meyers when he was middleweight champion, will meet Zack Malkov.

CHICAGOAN LEADS AURORA SINGLES WITH 736 TOTAL

Aurora, Ill., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—John Austera of Chicago took the lead in the singles in the Interstate Bowling tournament here tonight with 736, the second highest total in the event in the 15 years the tournament has been held. J. Lenzen, also of Chicago, holds the record with 744. George Jackson of Fort Wayne, Ind., went into second place in the singles with 725. A Rockford pair, A. Smith and R. Norman, landed in second place in the doubles with 1,347. Rockford also took sixth place in the five man event with 3,020.

MOVIE FINISHES FEATURE NORTH PREP CAGE RACE

Schurz Meets Roosevelt Tomorrow.

overtime. Chappel will lose but one regular, Herby Harris, a good forward, and Ed Holm, reserve guard, by graduation. Les Bergbom, the other forward, has a habit of pulling games out of the fire with last minute shots, as has John Gebbie, the center. The regular guards at Capt. Les Cohen and Bernie Schutz. Gil Lapid and Irv. Barnofsky are two boys who do their stuff when they get into a game.

Roosevelt Defends Home Record.

The Roosevelt lights, unbeaten on their home floor in three years, will have their chance to defend that record tomorrow against Schurz, with whom they are tied for the sectional lead. The forwards are Capt. Seymour Heyman and Gene Hunt, Strings Wiedemann handles the tipoff job and does more than his share of the scoring, while Robert Asher, who graduates in midyear, and Irv Zitlin are the guards. Morris Zitlin, Irv's brother, Lindy Abrams and Saunders are the substitutes.

Out at Schurz they apparently aren't satisfied with winning the City league football championship, for Coach Frank Weege's heavyweights are determined to add a basketball title and have a good start with three victories and one defeat. Tomorrow's battle with Roosevelt will decide their fate. Vernon Hanson and Casimir Borkowski are the forwards, Capt. Cheiso Tamagno is at center, and Henry Schneider and Ted Byczkowski attend to the defensive jobs.

The Schurz lightweights, coached by Herman Frueck, are the surprise of the section and they're on edge to upset that old tradition that Roosevelt, co-tenants of first place, can't be taken on their own floor. The team usually lines up with Elmer Wilke and Bob Hoffman or Herb Goldstein, forwards; Leo Lasewicz, center, and Capt. Ervin Bloedorn and Harmon Handler, guards. Handler and Hoffman will be lost by graduation. Charles Jonas and Ray Hazmarek are ready to fill their places.

Senn Hard to Beat.

Although Senn's heavyweights, coached by Al Schaffner, have been defeated three times, they point to their opponents' small margin of victory in each case and have promised they'll be in the thick of the race before it ends. Capt. Phil Sunnes and Jerry Schwartzberg graduate. Woody Kuhns is paired with Sunnes at forward, while Bill Bohnsack, a fine shot and a clever ball handler, takes care of the tipoff. Much of the team's good defensive record can be attributed to the guards, Tom McInerny, Francis Cook, and Harry Du Mont.

Joe Witry, former Loyola university star, coaches the lightweights. They'll be seeking their third victory against Lane tomorrow. Capt. Audio Freedman sprained his ankle in the Roosevelt game, but is back again. He and Bernie Ash are the guards, with Nick Vernon at center and Porky Newman, Milt Ritter, and Benny Cohen at forwards.

Like Senn, Lake View can point to the fact that none of their three conquerors has overwhelmed them. They lost an overtime game to Roosevelt and one point games to Schurz and Lane. The regulars are Capt. Dick Athan and Red Miller, forwards; Ed Schoenenberger, center, and Jim Toulis and Fred Ganga, guards. Dick Boyer, who became eligible a month ago, will be graduated in midyear. Bud Schoen became eligible to compete a short time ago and Ray Weary and Ray Green will be on the lists for the second round. Guy Dickerson coaches the teams.

The lights were handicapped in having but two of last year's substitutes, Whitey Hitchcock and Wallie Schwab, both guards, back this year. The others, Ralph Harris, center, and Jim Demaris, Chanoux, and Ansonberger, forwards, and Botsford, center, are all playing their first year.

Waller Teams Optimistic.

Waller has yet to break into the win column, but both teams have promised their coach, John Fredstrom, that they'll come through in the second round. Armin Steinbeck is captain and right forward of the school's first heavyweights, while Paul Hughes is paired with him. Edwin Fisher, center, will be lost by graduation, as will Eddie Kehr, guard. Fred Patzold, the other guard, will play through with Steinbeck and Hughes. Ed Milliker, Leo Gelsomino, and Henry Brezenek are the substitutes. The lightweight team is composed of Capt. Don Parson, center; Cerfez, Al Beck, and Gene Barrett, forwards, and Adolph Hanke and Robert Bond, guards.

BATSON'S LEAP OF 78 FEET WINS ROCKFORD MEET

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Le Moyne Batson, Canton, S. D., ski jumping star, today won the Rockford Ski club's meet with a slide record leap of 78 feet. His point score was 18.662.

Batson's leap bettered the mark of 76 feet set by Roy Mikkelsen of the Norge Ski club, Chicago, in 1928. Batson finished a fraction of a point ahead of Jorgen Johansen of the Rockford club, who jumped 77 feet and scored 18.362. Harold Sorensen of the Norsemen Ski club, New York, was third with a jump of 66 feet for 18.325 points.

Art Westerman Defeats 9 Brothers in Pin Meet

Elgin, Ill., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Competing against his nine brothers in an annual family bowling classic, Arthur Westerman averaged 206 for five games today to win the ninth annual renewal of the event. The victory, his third, gave Westerman permanent possession of the family trophy. The ten boys are sons of Peter Westerman Sr.

KE-NASH-A FIVE WINS.

Kenosha, Wis., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—The Buffalo (N. Y.) Lincolns ended their Wisconsin basketball invasion with a 35 to 16 defeat today at the hands of the Ke-Nash-A Blue Streaks.

Carnera Tips Teacup with Dainty Ease to give up when he was 14. Primo then left home.

Manager Cie discovered him in southern France a year and a half ago. He was working as a carpenter for 25 francs a day. His rough raiment at the time included homemade canvas sandals.

Primo Handy with Teacup.

The giant is a most affable person and his persistent smile in no way seems a part of the cultural instructions which the young man doubtless has received, judging from the nifty way he handles a teacup.

In France, Primo's adopted land, they say the giant has "Je ne sais quoi." And it really seems that he has.

Carnera this afternoon will launch his training for his fight with Elzear Rioux. He will work out at Barry's gymnasium, starting at 3 o'clock.

CASPAR OIMAN WINS SKI MEET AT MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Casper Oiman of Canton, S. D., won first place in the class A events at the central United States skiing championships here today. He took a rating of 153.7 points with leaps of 134 and 129 feet, the latter two feet more than the nearest of 67 other competitors.

Second place in class A went to Russel Froberg, Minneapolis Ski club, who had 145.2 points. Roy Mikkelson, Norge Ski club, Chicago, finished third with 144.

Chicago riders took most of the places in class B. Sverre Engen of the Norge Ski club won first place, getting leaps of 127 and 128 feet, and a rating of 147.5 points.

Primo's Bull Rush Puzzles U.S. Boxers

Carnera and bring him through the unveiling undiminished in the imagination of the customers, and Peterson, with his 209 pounds symmetrically distributed along his architecture which follows familiar human specifications, was a pathetic figure facing a monstrous creature with wads of meat bulging beneath his shoulders and along his arms like the quilted padding formerly worn in football. Moreover, the big boy had been given to understand that nobody expected much of him and consequently it was his privilege to adjourn at any time without prejudice. He was quite conscious when he did retire, and no worse hurt than a football player who has been sprawled four times on springy turf.

The floor of the ring was comfortably cushioned with three inches of builders' fiber board overlaid with an inch or more of mattress wool, so the landings were not as painful as they might have been, and the few aimless swats that grazed the victim's ears were less wicked, if anything, than the stout wallops delivered on a center's head with the heel of a loaded hand in a varsity game.

Weathered Stribling's Punch.

So as a conquest this victory of Primo's means nothing. No man has ever seen a monster so nimble and belligerent in a fist fight with a good prize fighter. He fought Willie Stribling twice in Europe, but they scored a foul apiece, so their bouts disclosed nothing beyond the interesting fact that William put Primo down in London. Primo got up, which was contrary to the habits of fighters raising 250 pounds.

Willard, in the last bout of his career, against Luis Angel Firpo, had an attack of ennui in round seven and calmly sat down without any special provocation, blinkingly sleepily at the customers, who exclaimed, "Get up! You bum!" while the referee repeated the knockdown timer's beat in his apathetic ear.

To expose Primo or confirm him as a genuine prodigy, we would choose George Godfrey, who has succeeded Sam Langford as the victim of Caucasian boycott and is compelled to spend much of his time in idleness. George has many rounds of schooling with Jack Dempsey as a sparring partner, and while he isn't inclined to cause trouble in the ring lest he use up his staff of opponents and go idle altogether, he has developed the knack of stifling trouble when it is brought to him.

The weight handicap would be less pronounced, and I can envision old George taking Primo's rushes obliquely, then tieing up Primo's arms and making a turn as dealer, with disturbing pokes at Carnera's center and his chin.

But, of course, it is idle to propose any fighter above the rank of those prideless and hopeless minute men of the ring generally described as bums as an opponent for Primo this side of July. He has been matched with Elzear Rioux in Chicago and Jack Demaige in Miami, and I suppose that before the ball yard season begins he will have bowled over these two, as well as the full membership of Willie Stribling's rural calling list, a large group of docile tramps who will stand still, fall hard, and lie where they fall.

SPECULATORS IN WHEAT MARKET GROW CAUTIOUS

Foreigners Are Partial to Canadian Grain.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Speculators are disposed to go slow on the buying side of wheat nowadays and are not standing on their holdings. Foreigners, while buying fair quantities of American and Canadian wheat, giving the latter preference, are not following their action on bulges.

Advices from Europe continue to tell about the necessity of buying wheat in North America, but Canadian holders are disposed to sell freely and are taking the market away from America. The Canadian pool is said to have large supplies which it is anxious to sell, and there is a liquidating disposition regarded as general among the Canadian traders.

Messages from there suggest that those who are long Winnipeg May will get the cash wheat when delivery time comes. Argentina and Australia are shipping freely and are expected to continue, which makes European importers backward about buying American wheat, as other countries are selling it cheaper.

Government Activity Increases.

Government activities in American markets are increasing and every day that foreigners fail to buy large quantities to be shipped from this country, leaves the position less favorable for holders. There are men in the trade, however, who are optimistic and believe that supplies will be cut into at an unusual rate during the next five months that will reduce supplies to about a normal basis. Should the visible supply decrease 5,000,000 bu per week for the next twenty-three weeks, there would be a reduction of 115,000,000 bu, which would leave larger supplies than normal on July 1.

Wheat traders are more interested in statistics governing the next six months. They present both sides of the situation. One statement based on a decrease in the visible supply of around 6,000,000 bu or more per week from February until July, presents a bullish situation, and says that supplies will be reduced at a rate that will increase speculative buying, and should materially advance prices.

A review of the season's statistics extending to next July, and at the same time criticising the farm board's position presents possibilities of a burdensome surplus through government agencies' actions, should they be continued on the present basis. Taking the world's requirements by Broomhall as approximately correct, 676,000,000 bu, allowing for 312,000,000 bu shipped the first six months, leaves 364,000,000 bu for world's requirements from January 1, 1930, to July 1, or 14,500,000 bu weekly, as viewed by S. C. Harris.

May Ship 80 Per Cent.

Taking Argentina's surplus of 90,000,000 bu for the season, he believes that with a short crop they are likely to ship 80 per cent in the first six months, or 72,000,000 bu, equal to approximately 3,000,000 bu per week. Australia has a surplus of about 55,000,000 bu of which she will probably ship 80 per cent in the first six months, or 42,000,000 bu or 1,700,000 bu per week. Other countries are estimated to ship about 400,000 bu per week, a total of 5,000,000 bu per week outside of North America, leaving 9,500,000 bu per week to be furnished by Canada and the United States.

Rice-Stix Dry Goods.

E. S. A.—Rice-Stix Dry Goods company, St. Louis wholesale dry goods concern, was incorporated in 1899 in Missouri and is the outgrowth of a business founded in 1861. In 1926 the company acquired Sanger Bros. Wholesale Dry Goods company, Waco, and the Sanger Manufacturing company, Dallas, Tex. All classes of Rice-Stix Dry Goods company stock are listed on the St. Louis stock exchange and the common is quoted on the New York curb.

For the year ended Nov. 30, 1929, the company reported profit of $1,040,487. This was equal to $52.02 per share on 20,000 shares of 7 per cent first preferred [par $100], $32.16 per share on 28,000 shares of 7 per cent second preferred [par $100], and $2.35 per share on 300,000 no par common shares. In the preceding year profit was $1,090,305, equal, after provision for preferred dividends, to $2.51 per share on the common.

As of Nov. 30, 1929, current assets were $14,010,643 and current liabilities were $3,195,801, leaving a net working capital of $10,814,842, which compares with $11,531,499 on Nov. 30, 1928. For the last fiscal year there was surplus, after dividends, amounting to $254,487. At the close of the year undivided profits amounted to $4,457,535.

Profit for the year ended Nov. 30, 1927, was $1,182,414, and for the year previous, $1,123,903.

Dividends have been paid on the common stock at the rate of 37½ cents per share quarterly since Feb. 1, 1926.

Both classes of preferred are high grade, and the common deserves a fairly good rating.

Granby Consolidated Mining.

C. C. P.—Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting and Power C., Ltd., reported total income of $1,071,808 for the September quarter of 1929. This compares with $894,998 in the like quarter of 1928, and is equal to $2.38 per share, against $1.99 per share in the 1928 quarter. These figures, however, represent earnings before deductions for depreciation, depletion and federal taxes. The figure for net income is not available.

For the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1929, earnings were $7.06 per share, before charges, compared with $4.88 per share in the first nine months of 1928.

Dividends are $8 per share. The stock is medium grade and somewhat speculative.

Ohio Power.

W. T. G.—Ohio Power company first and refunding 4½ per cent bonds, series D, due June 1, 1956, are secured equally with the series B 5s, due 1952, by direct first mortgage on the greater part of the company's properties and by a second mortgage on the remaining property, subject to prior liens. Earnings in the five years ended Dec. 31, 1928, averaged 2.5 times interest charges. These bonds are regarded as sound.

NEW YORK PORT GETS 42% OF U. S. FOREIGN TRADE

New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The port of New York authority announced today that foreign trade of the port of New York reached $4,128,000,000 or 42 per cent of the nation's total, in 1929.

This was the largest figure reached since 1920, while only in 1922 and 1925 was the tonnage of 17,389,000 exceeded, the announcement said.

Exports amounted to $1,940,000,000 and imports were valued at $2,188,000,000. Gains were made in the export of automobiles, copper, steel and iron, packing house products and industrial machinery. More than 2,000,000 tons of grains were included in the outgoing freight. Imports of petroleum, sugar and copper for the year aggregated 8,185,000 tons.

The announcement said that 32,000 manufacturing establishments in the port district and 9,000,000 residents fabricate and consume about

HUDSON REPORT REFLECTS YEAR OF COMPETITION

Auto Firm's Profit Shows Decline.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Keen competition in the automobile industry last year and curtailment of production during the latter months are reflected in the annual report of the Hudson Motor Car company. The report, issued last night by President William J. McAneeny, also tells of plans for expansion this year.

Net profits for 1929 were $11,594,854, equivalent to $7.26 a share on 1,596,660 shares of capital stock. After paying dividends totaling $5 a share, the surplus was increased by $3,115,055 to a total of $38,726,126. Net profits for 1928 were $13,457,363, or $8.43 a share. The balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1929, shows current assets of $34,473,838 and current liabilities of $6,861,071, compared respectively with $28,189,565 and $1,581,939 at the end of 1928.

New Car Designs.

"Since our last report we have shipped 300,783 automobiles," Mr. McAneeny says. "During the year we expended a portion of our cash surplus to increase body manufacturing facilities, to increase capacity for production and to introduce two new car designs. We believe these new cars will enable us to further strengthen our position in the industry."

The formal report of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company was issued last night by President Samuel Insull. It shows no change from the preliminary earnings statement for 1929, which was published a week or so ago.

"The total sales of gas during the year were 44,554,141,910 cubic feet, an increase of 8.81 per cent over 1928," Mr. Insull says. "Sales for each month were greater in volume than during the corresponding month of any previous year, a very gratifying record. House heating sales increased 18 per cent over 1928, due to an increase in the number of gas fired central heating plants in use and to the adoption of a plan involving the rental of gas burners for installation in furnaces built to burn solid fuels. Satisfactory progress was also made in sales for commercial and industrial uses and for ordinary domestic use."

Midwest Sales Decline.

Midwest distribution of new automobiles, both at wholesale and retail, continued through December the declining trend in evidence for several preceding months and was considerably under that of December, 1928, according to the monthly review of the Chicago federal reserve bank. Used car sales likewise declined in both comparisons.

Sales by retail dealers in 1929 totaled much larger in number than for 1928, as did those of used cars; wholesale distribution for the year showed little change. Stocks of new cars on hand at the end of the year had declined from Nov. 30, but were considerably heavier than at the close of 1928, and average end of the month stocks in 1929 were much larger than the average for the preceding year.

Ward Profit Off 5 Millions; Sales Decline

A decline of more than five millions in the net profit of Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago mail order house, during 1929 is shown in the annual report of the company released last night by President George B. Everitt.

The report shows net profit for the year ended Dec. 31 was $13,434,935, compared with $17,703,834 in 1928. Profit declined in the face of an increase of nearly $53,000,000 in net sales. Net sales for the year totaled $267,325,503, against $214,350,446 in the previous fiscal period. Gross sales in 1929 were $291,530,621, against $232,354,738 in 1928.

Mr. Everitt in his report assigned the drop in profit to the policy of the company in prepaying all shipments to customers, which was inaugurated last year.

Per Share Earnings.

After deducting dividends on the class A stock, the 1929 net is equal to $2.60 a share on the 4,620,768 shares of common stock outstanding, compared with $4.77 a share on the 3,410,983 shares outstanding at the end of 1928. After payment of dividends and provision for expenses incident to the increase in common stock and premium and other costs in connection with the retirement of bonds of subsidiary companies, $1,195,164 was transferred to surplus, which now stands at $46,793,070.

"The year 1929 can be properly classified as a year of substantial progress, even though the burdens of prepayment disturbed our profit performance," Mr. Everitt said. "During the year we improved our distribution facilities by the opening of new plants in Albany, N. Y., and Denver, Colo.

"Our profit performance for 1929 compares unfavorably with 1928 for one definite reason—the large profit recession in the mail order branch of the business, caused by abnormal expense incurred in the prepayment of all shipments to customers. Our competitors adopted the prepayment policy early in 1929. We withheld prepaying shipping charges for the first six months; however, during that time mail order sales receded so rapidly that we adopted the plan for the second six months without adequate adjustment to the new conditions.

To Offset Expenses.

"Had our mail order profits during 1929 approached normal performance, we would have secured a substantial increase in earnings over 1928. The prepayment plan, which proved so burdensome in 1929, has been modified and changes in our selling and other expenses this year will offset to a very substantial extent, the cost of the present prepayment plan."

The balance sheet of the company shows current assets of $129,219,725 against current liabilities of $11,660,674 as of Dec. 31. Total fixed assets and liabilities amounted to $187,611,693.

For the future, Mr. Everitt expressed optimism. "In my judgement, Montgomery Ward & Co.'s greatest period of growth both in sales and profit lies ahead. Unless the country experiences a severe business depression, which is not anticipated, 1930 should bring us a satisfactory volume of business and an increase in profits," he stated.

During 1929 285 chain stores were placed in operation, bringing the total for the last two years to 532 units.

FITZSIMMONS & CONNELL EARNS $312,750 IN 1929

The annual report of the Fitz Simmons and Connell Dredge and Dock company for 1929 issued last night shows consolidated net profit amounted to $312,750, equal to $5.10 on the 60,432 common shares outstanding. In 1928 the company earned net of $327,785 or $6.43 on the 50,000 shares then outstanding.

President P. G. Connell stated that with the exception of 1928, last year was the best in the company's history. The decline in net profit of 4.59 per cent was attributed by Mr. Connell to the fact that the sandboat Nassau, which was acquired in the spring, did not operate and all expenses incidental to its upkeep were charged off within the period.

As of Dec. 31, current assets amounted to $845,660 against current liabilities of $118,105. Cash and marketable securities held by the company were reported at $424,854. No bank loans were outstanding at the close of the year.

Globe Underwriters Get Control of 7 Companies

Globe Underwriters Exchange, Inc., organized in March, 1929, to acquire stocks in American and foreign companies, announces in its first public report that it has acquired control of seven domestic and foreign companies through stock interest ranging from 65 to 100 per cent. The companies are: Iduna Life bank [Germany], Republic Insurance company of Dallas, Tex., Iduna General Insurance company [Germany], Skandinavien Insurance company, Southern Home Insurance company, Charleston, S. C.; Iduna Transport and Marine Insurance company [Germany], and Savannah Fire Insurance company, Savannah, Ga.

Sparks-Withington Earns $2.40 a Share for 6 Months

Earnings of the Sparks-Withington company for the six months ended Dec. 31, 1929, amounted to $1,639,365 after reserves, depreciation, and federal taxes, equal to $2.40 per share on the 684,606 shares outstanding at the present time, which compared with $2.05 in the same period of the previous year.

DE FOREST HEAD DENIES COMPANY NEEDS RECEIVER

New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—James W. Garside, president of the De Forest Radio company, tonight said the receivership action brought against the company in New Jersey was a "well devised plan to embarrass the corporation at a time when it is assuming a dominating position in the radio tube industry."

"This legal maneuver, based upon a bill of complaint filed in behalf of an alleged stockholder," he said, "is not only unjustified, but absolutely without foundation of fact.

"Facts have been controverted, untrue statements made and a manifestly unfair advantage of the De Forest company and its officers taken late on Saturday when they were powerless to combat statements by a presentation of documentary facts." Garside said the pending application of a receivership would be "vigorously contested."

Orange Crush Co. 1929 Sales Total $1,929,000

Sales of the Orange Crush company for 1929 were $1,929,000 and not $1,129,000 as previously reported, company officials stated yesterday.

Finds Drawback to Mass Production in Agriculture

BY SCRUTATOR.

It may seem a little late to be discussing mass production, but there are certain phases of it that have been little touched on and perhaps deserve more consideration.

It is a self-evident fact that mass production of mechanical goods has been advantageous in the United States. On the other hand, mass production in agriculture has on the whole tended to prove that there is a low limit—higher in some parts than others, but never very high—to the concentration of management that is economical on the land.

The modern industrial age began when Watt made the steam engine, which before him had been a device with application limited to pumping water, a practical means of applying energy to work. The second stage, it has been pointed out by Herbert H. Dow, a Michigan chemical manufacturer, came when machines with interchangeable parts were made and sold on a wide scale.

Advent of Sewing Machine.

First of all such was the sewing machine, which also is given credit for the foundation of the installment credit business as we know it today. It was a comfort to the sewing machine owner to know that if any part of it broke, that part could be replaced at small cost from a factory in New England. A still greater step toward standardization came when the need for arms in the civil war compelled ordnance manufacturers to turn out parts for Springfield rifles in lots of a hundred thousand.

Since that time there has been steady progress. Automobiles are relatively cheap because the making of various parts can be accomplished as separate operations and assembly can follow with full confidence that the parts so made will fit without question.

Mass production in agriculture is now being experimented with on state owned farms in Russia. It was tried with success on the cattle ranches of the west in early days. The evidence now is that this form of animal production is not so good. Mass production was tried on the plantations of the south with slave labor and had about proved itself a failure, except under exceptional circumstances, before the civil war.

Costs Are Prohibitive.

The test may not have been fair. Authoritative observers of a hundred years ago asserted that slave labor in the south was but 60 per cent as efficient as free white labor in the north. The slave had to be fed and cared for whether he worked or not, and interest and depreciation of the investment in him were constant. But the fact remains that such labor could grow even the staples like rice and tobacco and cotton only on land both cheap and fertile to show a profit.

Mass production of goods fits in only when the annual gross income from operations has a high ratio to the capital invested. Even at present prices farm land is too high to meet such a formula. Russia may succeed with 100,000 or 500,000 acre farms if the soviets assume that the land costs nothing. Some experiments in corporation farming are being made in the United States, but it seems unlikely that we shall ever have companies comparable to United States Steel or General Motors cultivating the soil.

Guaranty Trust Sees More Optimism Warranted

New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The current issue of the Guaranty Survey, published by the Guaranty trust, says that the revival in industrial activity in the last few weeks has been "at least as prompt and vigorous as was generally expected" and that, although his recovery has been mainly seasonal, it has been "sufficiently marked to warrant a more optimistic attitude than was possible a month ago."

BOND MARKET GETS STRONG COMPETITION FROM NEW OFFERINGS

New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The process of digesting nearly $500,000,000 in new securities issued since Jan. 1 is apparently incomplete and until these enormous offerings are absorbed by the country's investors little change in the course of listed bonds is expected.

However, the easing price trend, which continued through last week, has been so moderate that students of the market are encouraged rather than discouraged. The undertone has been firm throughout the period of competition with new issues and the list retains most of the advance it has made since the turn in sentiment late in October.

Thus the burden of new financing does not appear to be unduly heavy, observers point out; but they look for a decrease in volume of new flotations, since it seems improbable that investment bankers will risk overtaxing the market's strength.

One of the features of recent sessions has been the improvement in foreign bonds. With a large reparations issue coming relatively soon—probably in the spring—it is regarded as natural that this group should become stabilized in higher ground so as to prepare for the approaching international loan as well as for a considerable volume of other foreign obligations. The latter, to the amount of nearly $100,000,000, may come in the near future. A $25,000,000 loan for Austria is mentioned among the prospective offerings.

Sanderson & Porter Admit 2 New Partners

New York, Jan. 26.—[Special.]—It is announced by the engineering firm of Sanderson & Porter that Guy L. Bayley and Harrison Smith have been admitted as partners in the firm. Mr. Bayley, who has been in charge of the firm's Chicago office, will continue in that capacity. Mr. Smith, who has been associated with the New York office of Sanderson & Porter, will remain here.

Tribune Averages Reflect Change.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 26.—Although every one recognizes that the beginning of a new calendar year is not, so far as regards prevailing influences and tendencies, the beginning of a new financial year, nevertheless there is always something of a change in financial attitude.

It is reflected in the display of something like impatience at reminiscence of the old year. Nobody can have failed to perceive the promptness with which financial interest in "retrospect" or even forecast disappears after New Year's day. On the other hand, reconsideration of the old year's events is indirectly forced on Wall street when the annual company reports appear.

Sometimes these reports are more confusing than enlightening — especially when, as was the case in 1929, the trend of industrial activity in the last few months of the year had been diametrically reversed from its previous trend. This present month has made all of us familiar with summaries of trade reports of company earnings which begin by describing a year of absolute high records and end with a picture of year-end results which fell below a year ago since deflation days.

Iowa Public Service Company

First Mortgage Gold Bonds

5½% Series due 1959

Dated September 1, 1929 — Due September 1, 1959

Interest Payable Without Deduction for Normal Federal Income Tax Not to Exceed 2%

The Company has agreed to refund, upon proper and timely application, the Pennsylvania Four Mill Tax, California Tax not in excess of Four Mills, Connecticut Tax up to Four Mills annually, Iowa Tax up to 6 Mills annually, Maryland Securities Tax not in excess of Four and One-Half Mills per annum and the Massachusetts Income Tax not in excess of 6% per annum, to holders resident in those States.

The following information is summarized by Mr. C. I. Crippen, Vice-President, from his letter to us:

Business and Territory Iowa Public Service Company supplies electric light and power in more than 200 cities and towns in western and north central Iowa, including Waterloo, Charles City, Cherokee and LeMars. Manufactured gas is distributed in Waterloo, Hampton, Waverly and Eagle Grove, and is supplied at wholesale to Cedar Falls. The Company also carries on a small water and steam heat business. The territory served by the Company is one of the richest agricultural sections in the world, and includes a population of approximately 500,000.

Earnings The earnings of Iowa Public Service Company have been as follows:

	—12 months ended— December 31, 1928	December 31, 1929
Gross Earnings (including other income)	$3,962,779	$4,252,694
Operating Expenses (including Current Maintenance and Taxes other than Federal Income Taxes)	2,356,961	2,421,547
Net Earnings	$1,625,818	$1,831,147
Annual interest requirements on $14,115,000 First Mortgage Gold Bonds to be presently outstanding, including this issue, and on $97,500 assumed municipal bonds		722,800

Net earnings for the twelve months ended December 31, 1929 as shown above were thus more than 2.53 times annual interest requirements on all Mortgage Bonds to be presently outstanding, including this issue.

Management The Company is controlled by American Electric Power Corporation, the personnel of which has been responsible for the efficient and successful management of important public utility properties over a long period of years.

Legal matters in connection with this issue will be passed upon by Messrs. Winthrop, Stimson, Putnam & Roberts, New York.

These bonds are offered for delivery when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to the approval of counsel. It is expected that temporary bonds, exchangeable for definitive bonds when prepared, will be ready for delivery on or about February 11, 1930.

Carrying Forward the Torch » Lighted

A Greek game, known as the Torch Race, had for its object the passing of a lighted torch from one runner to the next, and he who raced knew that he must, above all else, carry forward the torch . . . lighted!

The members of this organization cherish ideals, caught from previous runners, and these, above all else, will be kept alive. The enterprising spirit of Lyman Baird, and the vision of Lucius Olmstead; the forthright integrity of William H. Bradley, and the public-spirited outlook of his son, Luther D. Bradley, expressed alike in business and cartoon. The forty-seven years of steadfast dependability of fact-finding Charles Marsh, and the faithfulness of Frederick H. Truesdale. We would carry forward the friendliness and business judgment of Charles T. Gilbert, the rugged honesty of George L. Warner, and we would keep alive the ideal of civic pride and betterment of Wyllys W. Baird.

Members of this organization were in close association with these men for ten . . fifteen . . . . twenty years and more; and they are now sharing the day's work with men who in turn will pass the torch . . . lighted.

THE REWARD OF GUARDED IDEALS

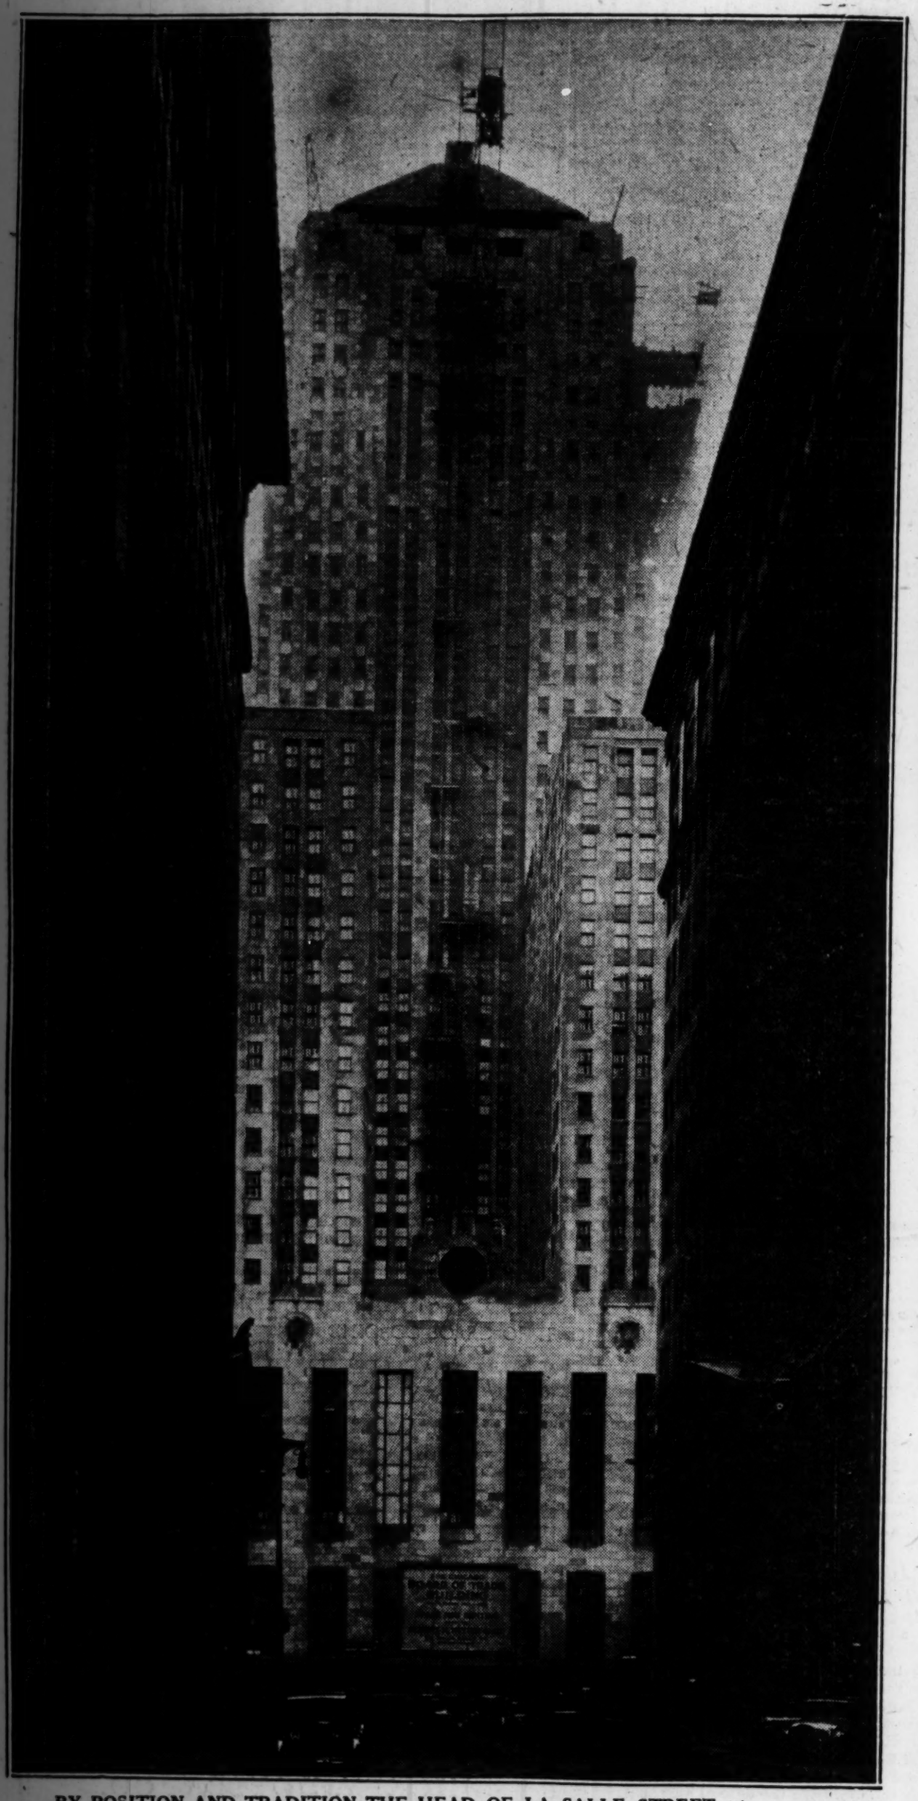
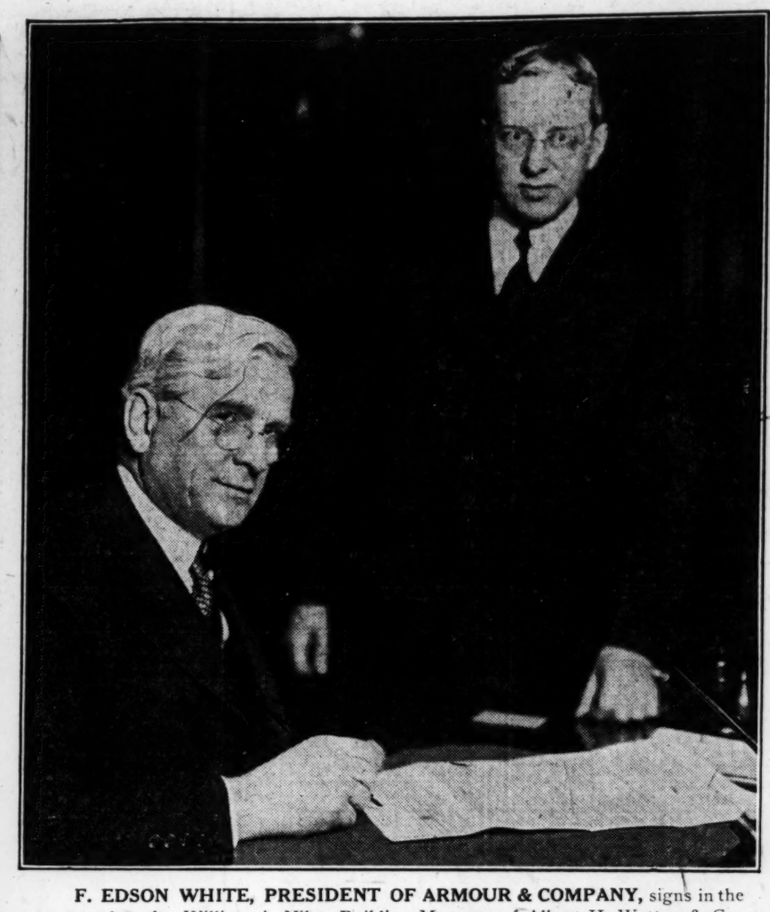
New Chicago Board of Trade Building—The Mid-West's Commercial Capitol—Rapidly Nears Completion



BY POSITION AND TRADITION THE HEAD OF LA SALLE STREET—the new 44 story Board of Trade Building already towers head and shoulders above its distinguished neighbors. 1,254 laborers, craftsmen and engineers are mobilized to insure its completion before May 1st, when the influx of tenants is scheduled.

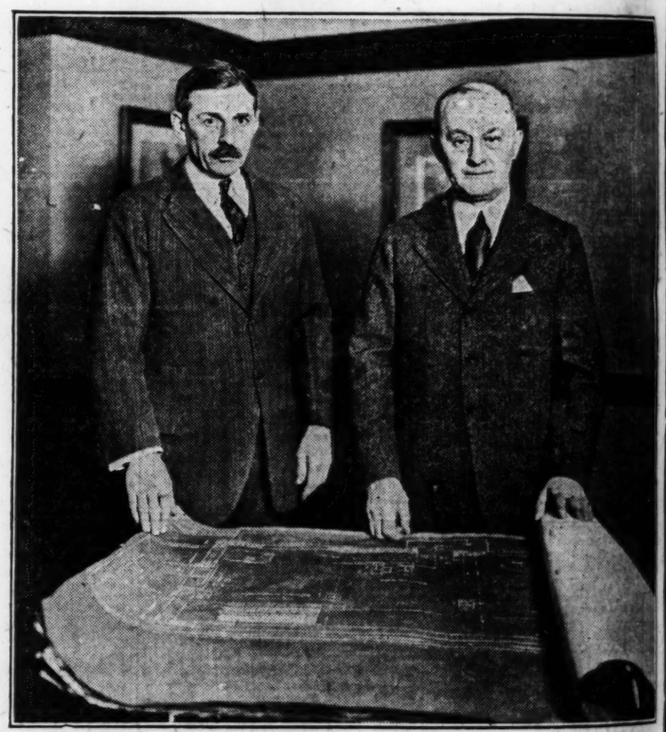


F. EDSON WHITE, PRESIDENT OF ARMOUR & COMPANY, signs in the proper place for William A. Niles, Building Manager of Albert H. Wetten & Co., renting and managing agents for the new Board of Trade Building and the world-famous packing firm becomes a tenant.

THE FINANCIAL BACKBONE of the middle-west. Looking north up La Salle Street from a window in the North Court of the Board of Trade Building. All offices are outside offices with air and light on four sides.

HOLABIRD & ROOT, ARCHITECTS, not only design outstanding buildings but, when desired, furnish them. John H. Hopkins, Manager, Decorating Department, with Miss Ruth Bishop, assisting, is choosing French fabrics for the private offices of the Board of Trade.

"TWO MINUTES FROM OFFICE TO CENTURY!" can be the busy executive's schedule if he is a tenant in the Board of Trade Building, since the La Salle Street Station is but a few steps from its door.



BARRETT WENDELL JR. AND CHARLES H. SCHWEPPE, resident partners of Lee, Higginson & Co., old established Boston firm of Investment Bankers, study the floor plans of their simple and dignified Georgian offices on the second floor of the Board of Trade Building.

"THE LITTLE OLD LADY OF THREADNEEDLE STREET" Britishers term the Bank of England, one of the four outstanding business nerve-centers of the world. The other three, say experts, are The Bourse in Paris, the New York Stock Exchange and our own Chicago Board of Trade.

DAVID SINGER, SKILLED WOODWORKER, proudly displays a removable (and cleanable) back-cushion for the modern dining chairs which will grace the sumptuous and spotless restaurant in the Safe Deposit floor of the Board of Trade Bulding.

JOHN H. STORRS, EMINENT SCULPTOR, sails soon from France to supervise the hoisting of his 37 foot aluminum goddess. The model is shown on the right.

CERES, GODDESS OF GRAIN and harvests, needs no facial features because she will stand 608 feet above Jackson Boulevard atop the metal and glass roof of the Board of Trade Building.

The Ace of Spades

By WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE

INSTALLMENT I.
PREPARATION.

The old cattleman rasped a bristly chin and gazed dubiously at the long, slim youth beside the bed.

"No other way to it, son. I've got to trust you to take these herds up the trail. This dogroned busted leg knocks my plans gallywest. And there's nobody I can send but you. Can't even let one of yore brothers go along. They're too young yet."

"Don't you worry, dad. We'll make the riffle, Sim and I."

Chandler Rutledge frowned resentfully at the limb stretched stiffly in front of him. "Course I had to let myself get stove up right when we were gathering for the drive after sitting around and wearing out the seat of my pants all winter swapping lies with the neighbors. Probably I've been piled fifty times by a bronc before and no damage done. I never saw the beat."

Every visible inch of Rutledge looked the oldtimer. The shrewd blue eyes in the bronzed face, the broad, heavy shoulders beneath the flannel shirt and open vest, the back of the leathery neck divided into geometric figures by deeply indented lines which gave the skin a resemblance to the cracked surface of a sun baked mud hole, all proclaimed him indigenous to the southwest. Unless appearances deceived he was a man of forceful action.

"A stoveup old donkey," he continued in bitter complaint. "I got to lie here and let you take the trail herds through. The contract calls for delivery first of July."

"You always claimed you were waiting till you broke yore leg to read that book 'Ivanhoe' Aunt Nellie gave you," Jim suggested.

The cattleman grinned wryly. "Dad gum yore impudence, boy, if I was as my feet I'd sure work you over for that. How old are you, anyhow?"

"Twenty-one coming grass."

"Which means you are two-three months past twenty. You're too young for this job, son."

"I'm a grown man and I've been up the trail before."

"It's not the drive I'm worried about so much, though that's a man size job. You can wrastle with storms and stampedes and bankhigh streams—you and Sim together. Sim's faithful, and he knows cows. You can depend on him for that. The old squaw-humper has got cow sense—and then you've said it all. You'll have to be the boss of the outfit. Don't get too far out of touch with his herd—especially when you're going through the Red river country, for it's lousy with thieves. They'll stampede yore herds; they'll run off yore saddle stock and set you afoot a thousand miles from home."

"Not if I can help it," Jim replied.

Rutledge ran his eyes again over the trim figure of the youth. Jim was built like a Greek Hermes, slender, supple, and graceful. His form was modeled on long lines deceptive to the casual glance. Long, rippling muscles, true as steel, flowed beneath the smooth skin. His body was resilient as rubber, enduring as a hickory withe. When he moved there was something pantherish in his stride. Unlike most cowboys who have spent a large part of their lives in the saddle he was only slightly bowed in the legs.

"I'm not saying you won't do to ride the river with, son," Rutherford explained. "But I got no right to expect an old head on young shoulders. If you get yore tail in a crack I don't know as I can blame you. What's worrying me is that when you reach the end of the trail yore troubles may just be starting." He hesitated before he continued: "Those cow towns are full of bad characters—gamblers and desperadoes and riffraff from the railroad construction gangs. I saw eight men killed in Newton one night. Course that was in the old wild days before they got tamed, but some one gets loose opct in a while yet."

Jim knew that his father had not yet freed his mind. He had something specific to say.

"Let 'er rip," the young man answered lightly. "I expect we'll be in our own camps attending to our business."

"Play yore hand close to yore belly, Jim. I'm not scared you won't be Kary on the spot if trouble starts, but—don't let it start if you can wiggle out of it." Rutledge blurted out the name of his fears. "I'm thinking of the Moss gang."

The son nodded. "Knew you were. Well, what about 'em? Up to date they've been all bark and no bite, though you've watched for 'em each year."

"Don't fool yoreself, son. Dave Moss has got sharp teeth, and so have those hellion sons he's raised. They'll get you if they can. I've had luck so far that the only time they made a play we drove 'em off. But it wasn't so lucky that we had to kill a nephew of the old man when they jumped us last year. He'll be waiting for you somewhere sure as hell's hot. I know him. And he's slick as a greased pig. Dave's an old fox. When he sets a trap and baits it you'd never guess it for a deadfall. I've always figured some of the younger brood pulled off that attack on us and upset Dave's plan."

"I never got the right of that Moss business, dad. You drove 'em outa the state, didn't you, after they robbed the S. & G. train?"

A film of wariness robbed the cattleman's face of expression. "That was the way of it," he said shortly.

"I reckon they lit out before you got a chance to run 'em down."

"I reckon."

"I don't see what kick they had. You being sheriff, they surely didn't expect you to lie down on yore job."

Chandler looked through the window, eyes opaque as a blank wall. "Dave's not what you'd call reasonable." He paused for a moment before he continued, choosing his sentences carefully. "He'd been my friend—in the old days before we went bad. Fought beside me under Price in the war. He agreed I'd kinda wink at the robbery—not get on the prod too much."

"Then he didn't know you," young Rutledge said with a grin. "If he's a wise I don't see how he come to make such a fool mistake as that."

"Well, look out for him. Play close, like I said. Keep to yore camp trails as you can and stay out of the towns. You'll have to give the boys some rope, of course. But ride herd on them close as you can. They're a good bunch of waddies, but you know cowboys when they hit town. Sho! What's the use of my jawing. If you get in a tight place you'll have to work out yore way out by yoreself."

"Looks thataway," Jim agreed cheerfully. The worries of his father did not touch him. He was at the start of a great adventure.

From a table beside the bed Chandler picked up a small package wrapped in oil cloth. He gave it to his son. "Don't open this, boy, unless you should get in a jam with the Moss gang. I'm not sure it would help you any, but anyhow you'd understand where you're at."

"I'll not open it unless I have to," Jim promised.

Briskly the cattleman came back to the order of the day. "Do you reckon to get through road branding today?"

"Just about."

"Then I'd push off in the morning. Tell Sim I want to see him tonight."

. . . . . .

Sim Hart was a short, heavy set man of forty with a head as bald as a billiard ball. His legs looked like parentheses. He wore a cotton shirt, a vest without buttons, and striped trousers with the extremities tucked into high heeled cowboy boots.

He grinned at Rutledge and asked, "How they comin', boss?"

"Not tolerable. I hate to be tied here while the herds go up the trail. I'm counting on you to watch over Jim, Sim. If he gets into trouble I know you'll be right beside him. If it wasn't for knowing that I wouldn't let him do it contract or no contract."

"Sure. Everything will be all right."

"Keep yore eyes on the boy, Sim. I don't want anything to happen to him, even if I've got four other lads and three girls."

"Bet yore boots."

"Take the upper ford at Wolf Creek. There's no bottom to the quicksand in the lower one. You'll have charge of one herd, Jim of the other. He'll own the outfit. Give him yore advice when he asks for it, but do as he says."

"Rides me down to the ground."

"Everything ready for the start? Wagons greased—saddles all fixed up—cockle burrs outa the horses' manes and tails? I hate a lousy looking outfit."

"All slick as a whistle."

"Good. Then you can shove off bright and early. Drift the herds along easy. Plenty of time. You won't have to drive 'em hard. Keep yore eyes peeled for Dave Moss and his outfit. I feel it in my bones that you're gonna hear from him somewheres on the trip. If you cut their trail send for Jim right off. The idea is to duck trouble long as you can. The best way to do that is to be ready for it all the time."

"Keep yore powder dry an' give 'em merry Christmas if they come a-shootin'," Sim suggested. "Make yore mind easy, boss. Maybe I'm a mite slow in what you might call strategy, but when the stampede's on I don't aim to stay in the drag."

"What I'm trying to drum into yore head, Sim, is that stampedes which don't are the kind I'll be pleased to hear about."

And again Sim answered cheerfully. "Bet yore boots."

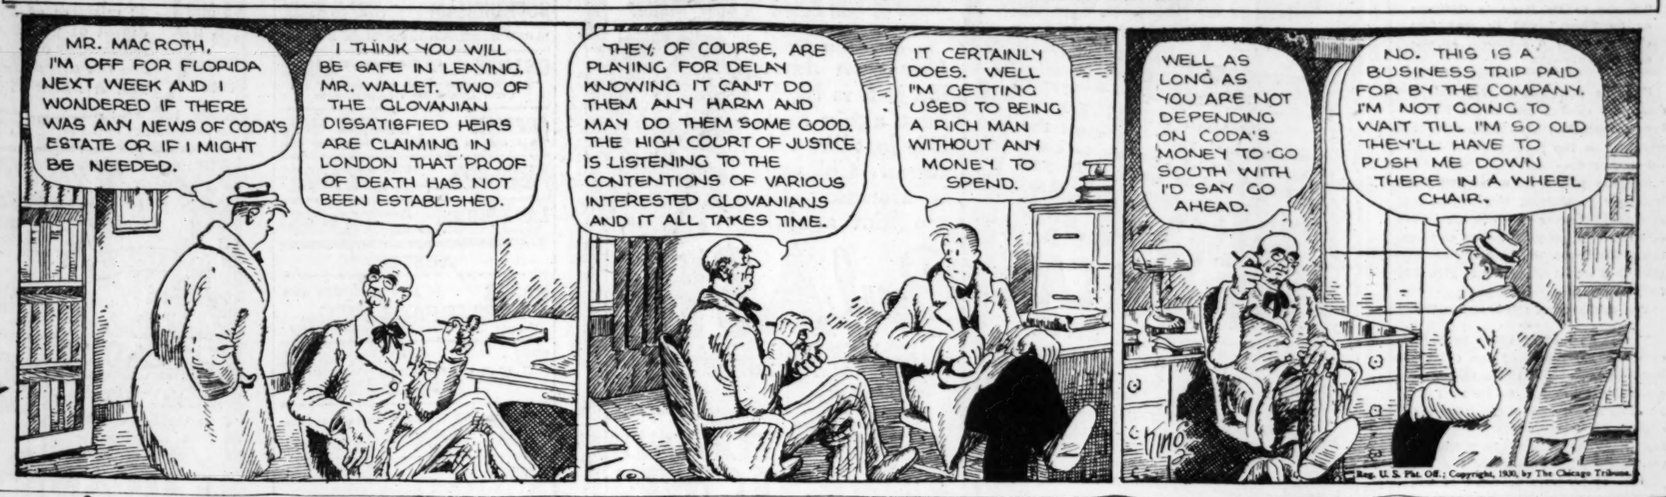
GASOLINE ALLEY—DON'T WAIT FOR THE CHANGE



MR. MACROTH, I'M OFF FOR FLORIDA NEXT WEEK AND I WONDERED IF THERE WAS ANY NEWS OF CODA'S ESTATE OR IF I MIGHT BE NEEDED.
I THINK YOU WILL BE SAFE IN LEAVING, MR. WALLET. TWO OF THE GLOVANIAN DISSATISFIED HEIRS ARE CLAIMING IN LONDON THAT PROOF OF DEATH HAS NOT BEEN ESTABLISHED.
THEY, OF COURSE, ARE PLAYING FOR DELAY KNOWING IT CAN'T DO THEM ANY HARM AND MAY DO THEM SOME GOOD. THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE IS LISTENING TO THE CONTENTIONS OF VARIOUS INTERESTED GLOVANIANS AND IT ALL TAKES TIME.
IT CERTAINLY DOES. WELL I'M GETTING USED TO BEING A RICH MAN WITHOUT ANY MONEY TO SPEND.
WELL AS LONG AS YOU ARE NOT DEPENDING ON CODA'S MONEY TO GO SOUTH WITH I'D SAY GO AHEAD.
NO. THIS IS A BUSINESS TRIP PAID FOR BY THE COMPANY. I'M NOT GOING TO WAIT TILL I'M SO OLD THEY'LL HAVE TO PUSH ME DOWN THERE IN A WHEEL CHAIR.

Good Morning!

Come along out into the wide open spaces with George O'Brien and Sue Carol!

"The Lone Star Ranger," adapted from Zane Grey's popular novel, has been made twice before as a "silent." William Farnum and Louise Lovely appeared in it 'way back when, and, more recently, Tom Mix and Billie Dove played the leads. Perhaps it's been screened other times. If so, you who know everything, can tell me when, how and by whom.

The present altalking version is gorgeous scenically, pleasing synchronically (I guess there's such a word) and quite interesting, but hasn't a convincing tang. Everybody's too refined somehow or other and the film needs a wild, woolly, primitive urge that it hasn't got. However, that's just my idea.

The story's locale is Texas in the days when the "Grizzly Bear" was the "latest" dance and we still spoke with awe of "horseless carriages." A youth, outlawed for a killing that later proves to have been justified, is promised a pardon if he will join the Texas Rangers and help rid the country of a gang of cattle thieves. The girl he loves proves to be the niece of the Man Higher Up, for whom he is laying. . . . And that's enough to tell you of the story.

Mr. O'Brien and Sue Carol are likeable, if not immense, in their rôles. Russell Simpson is okay as Uncle. Texas rangers, cowhands and desperadoes are well enough portrayed, and if you never saw a two-steps, the Virginia reel, or the "Grizzly Bear" demonstrated, here's your chance, for all get their innings at a party given by Uncle for Mary, who has just come from the east to visit him. The best single bit of acting is provided by a dance hall girl whose name isn't given in the cast.

The Monroe is doing a fine business this week, for the name of Zane Grey has a potent appeal.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question David Deutsch, 65 Lewis street, New York City, was awarded $5.

The Question.

How much money would a man have to make a week before you would marry him?

The Answers.

Miss Elsie Gottschalk, 4105 Sheridan road, nurse—I will not be so particular about his money; just so he gives me a nice home and he himself is the right kind of a husband. Kindness and thoughtfulness I am sure I will value as more precious than jewels, automobiles or money.

Miss Cleta Thompson, 1215 East 56th street, beauty culture student—Fifty to $75 a week is about all one could expect from a young man. It depends on the man, you know. Some men I wouldn't marry if they made a thousand dollars; another I could marry if we lived in a tent. I know a man now with whom I'd be happy with a tent as our palace.

Miss Lucille Meyers, 2252 West 14th place, college student—That would depend on what you thought of his ability or opportunity for making more money later? Not many men have much of a salary immediately after leaving school.

Miss Bessie Taruskin, 1501 North Talman avenue, stenographer—Fifty dollars, if he were a $1,000 man. Instead of the man with a million, I want a million dollar man in characfinement and ambition. ter, refinement and ambition. Such a man should be an able provider and make life worth ideal living for the family.

Miss Elizabeth Oswald, 6501 North Hoyne avenue, typist—How can I know? Who's the man? What's he like? Some men poorly endowed with worldly goods make most wonderful husbands. Some wealthy young men crash on the rocks of divorce as soon as they are married. I withhold my opinion until I see the man.

INSTALLMENT XLIII.
THE LONG JOURNEY.

Breathlessly, her cheek against John Andrew's, Anne said, "I love you so," and, as if it were a sacred thing, whispered it again in his ear. John Andrew would have been perfectly content to continue as they were, but Anne, bright eyed now, drew away from him. "We've got to be serious——"

"Nothing doing," said John Andrew. "I'm sick of being serious. It's worn me all out. As a matter of fact," glancing at the clock on the dash, "I wouldn't be surprised if it's even given me an appetite." Grinning, "That's a terrible way to have love affect you, isn't it? Let me kiss your chin, Anne——"

"Consolidated have seen the afternoon papers, John Andrew—why do they come out before noon? And they want me to come back. They'll try me with silent pictures while they are experimenting further with my voice. But I couldn't do that now, could I? The way they want me and—and everything?"

"You," said John Andrew, "are going to be busy getting ready to be married. I wish they didn't have this three day law out here. No sense to it." He bent lower and then began to smile. "Nevada?" he said. "Why—maybe they haven't that law. That's a great idea, Anne. A wonderful idea. It's the best I ever heard in my life. Sheer genius. We'll go pick up your bags and mine and then see what the Mercury's good for."

Anne asked timidly, "Are you—very rich, John Andrew?"

"Now what," Kellogg asked sensibly, "has that got to do with it?"

"Nothing—nothing. I—O, John Andrew, I was so sure you were just telling stories——"

"Where I come from they call 'em lies, woman. You'd better kiss me for that." Anne's lips brushed against his cheek. "But I don't call that a kiss—I call this one——"

"What will I do—in the east—your friends—your people?"

"I'm all the people there are in the Kellogg family," said John Andrew. "It'd serve you right if you had to run the gantlet of irate relations, but there's no one at all, unless you include Craig and old Koto. Now don't start arguing with me," as Anne stirred. "You've said enough about money not meaning anything, and a rule which doesn't work both ways is no rule at all. You're more famous than I am, anyhow. Wait until you read, 'Consolidated star leaves production to marry'—they'll have my name way down at the end of the story——"

"That's why they wanted me back. They thought that with the publicity I'd get—the story must have been exaggerated in the paper about us."

John Andrew asked, "Want to go back?"

Anne's eyes on his made Kellogg's heart leap, although all that she said out of her tangle of thoughts was, "No, John Andrew."

"Good girl. You can kiss me again like you did before, since you had the answer right. And if you don't do a good job look out for me——"

"You can do whatever you want with me, always, John Andrew."

"I think I'll love you," said John Andrew.

Many hours later he was thinking the same thing; he would never, he knew, think otherwise. The sun no longer shone, but through ravines in the high Sierras the moon-trembled with delight in deep forests and snow capped peaks caught the glory. Up the mountain highway the Mercury climbed, humming powerfully, sweeping steadily northward and eastward toward Nevada, where one did not need to wait for three days to elapse before a license might be issued. Anne's head was on Kellogg's shoulder; both of his hands were needed to guide the jade green roadster over the sharp turning road, but Anne's were clasped peacefully about his arm.

It was a long drive [and yet a short one]. When the brilliant headlights of the Mercury flashed upon a sign post and John Andrew read the decreasing mileage remaining to be covered he began to whistle softly something concerning elephants, and bands, and boys who had better keep out of the way—his way, Anne's way.

He thought of many things, did John Andrew, but every time, no matter where the beginning, the path led straight back to the girl at his side. Once he bent and whispered "Sweetheart." He would have said more, since Anne was smiling, and then he saw that she was smiling in her sleep.

THE STAGE

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

THIS is the last week of the Chicago Civic Shakespeare society's season in the gay little playhouse that nestles under the wing of the Civic Opera house. Or Fritz Leiber's last week, if you prefer to identify the company by its star rather than by its auspices. A résumé and a forecast are therefore in order.

To look forward first: The company will go on tour immediately after Hamlet's death (without the Fortinbras ending) next Saturday night. It will march under the civic standard, bearing its full title. Chicago will send its Shakespeare to Pittsburgh for a week; to Washington for a week; to Philadelphia for two weeks, and to Boston for two weeks. The full repertory of ten dramas—six of the immortal tragedies and four of the equally long-lived comedies—will be carried, with the bright, modernized sceneries of Herman Rosse for their decoration. Nightly change of bill will be the practice.

On March 17—the birthday of a popular saint occasionally mentioned in Shakespeare—the company will open in New York, and the keen minds of Broadway will gather 'round, no doubt, to crack their wisest about a city that dares to send the classics to Manhattan instead of something typical, as, for example, O'Casey's "The Shadow of a Gunman." The New York playhouse which will house Chicago's own has not yet been announced. The plan for Broadway will be a new production every week. The booking is indeterminate, but a month has been set aside for the engagement, and Lee Shubert, one of whose theaters will be used, has told Mr. Leiber that he hopes for a three months' run. "King Lear" is under consideration for the New York première.

The season in Chicago has been promising in its indications of a revival of Shakespearean playgoing. There is no groaning of guarantors, so familiar in the history of Chicago's attempts to endow the drama. Harley C. Clarke, the public utilities magnate who underwrote this gallant adventure (not for one season, but for five), is pleased by the general appearance of the box office sheets. He has written checks of important denomination to feather this nest of the Swan, and the ledger accounts are running "in the red," but business has been healthy, nevertheless. With the expenditures for stage settings and costumes spread over the five years of Mr. Leiber's contract, the business for the first season has been sound. A small bookkeeping profit could probably be shown. And this, say Mr. Leiber and Mr. Clarke, is a healthy condition. It means growth.

"I knew that it was a back-breaking, nerve-racking undertaking," remarked Citizen Fritz the other night as he stripped the hoary beard of Lear from his lean cheeks, "to take ten new productions of Shakespeare in stride, week by week. I knew that we would find plenty of grief on the way. But I felt that if we got the plays on and kept them moving the most important part of our work would be done. The future will take care of the flaws.

"Pace is what I have been aiming at. The old days of cumbersome, slow moving Shakespeare that ran until midnight are dead. Look at your watch."

It was 10:50 p. m. "King Lear," according to the prompt book used by Edwin Booth, had been dealt with competently in little more than two hours.

Mr. Leiber plans to strengthen and expand his company for next season. But this is not as easy as it sounds. Shakespearean actors of ripe experience are not as numerous as they used to be in the days when no comic weekly was complete without its sketch of a small town Hamlet in a moulting fur collar. The Chicago Civic Shakespeare society must count, in part, on the development of its own rookies. It has already found a promising actress for the romantic comedies in Vera Allen, whose Rosalind and Viola have been worthy of admiration.

Opening tonight, at the Studebaker: Francine Larrimore, vivid little actress of rampant young sirens, in "Let Us Be Gay," a comedy by Rachel Crothers. Opening tomorrow night, at the Goodman: "The Field God," a play of Carolina white folks and trash, by Paul Green, author of the medal-winning, "In Abraham's Bosom."

Homeopathic Association to Meet Here in May

Preliminary plans for the spring meeting of the Illinois Homeopathic Medical association, to be held in Chicago May 14 to 16, were discussed yesterday by a committee of the association at a meeting at the Stevens hotel. The spring meeting will be devoted to consideration of the problem of "Improving Our Offspring." Other subjects are prenatal and postnatal care and the effect of contraceptive measures on the constitution of subsequent children.

Two Pianos Called 4 Times Good as One

When Played by Maier and Pattison.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

There is something about two pianos and two pairs of hands playing thereon that from a musical standpoint becomes about four times as efficient as one piano and one pair. Numerically the ratio is arithmetical; rather curiously in actual results it is geometrical.

To be sure, something depends upon the players. They were Guy Maier and Lee Pattison at the Civic theater yesterday afternoon, and these gifted two have led the world in this form of musical expression from the time that they first joined forces shortly after the war. They are first in selecting music for the two instruments, and if they cannot find it they compose it or transcribe it. Also, the position that they take in its assembly they continue to occupy in its performance.

It was a treat to hear them. Busoni's transcription of Mozart's "Magic Flute" Overture was the first piece, and their shimmering pianissimos became a surprisingly satisfactory substitute for the strings of the orchestra. Franck's Prelude, Fugue, and Variation followed, said to have been transcribed by one of themselves, and they followed Frank Tinney's former formula of fixing it so that no one else can play it. From this time on, that work, noble and fine as it is, is going to sound a little duller in tone from any solo pianist, no matter how able.

Mr. Pattison wrote a fantasy that he calls "Heroical Fountains," and it made a good bit of a hit. It is in the modern idiom—most pieces are these days—but more important than its manner is the fact that it had lively imagination and a definite musical plot. Two highly amusing Debussy pieces followed, one dedicated to Igor Strävinsky, the other to Serge Koussevitsky. But by this time it was necessary to go elsewhere.

That unbelievable youngster, Yehudi Menuhin, was back at the Auditorium yesterday for a recital of works for the violin which for length and difficulty must have fully equaled Mischa Elman's last week. The word unbelievable is used with full sense of what it implies. It is not so much that a youngster is playing a set of taxing pieces, correct and dazzlingly brilliant though some of them may be. That after all approaches close to Dr. Johnson's remark about a dog walking on his hind legs. The point is that if you listen to Yehudi with your eyes closed, you will inevitably be deceived into thinking that a fully grown and matured artist is playing.

He made use of the Franck Sonata, the Bach Chaconne, and the Dvorak Concerto. Then, to top off, he played a group of smaller pieces, and close to 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon he was still playing. The section of his program too many years, either, but who being played as a man would play it, with a man's breadth and poise and ability, including a man's musical viewpoint. Be it added that he had an accompanist, Hubert Giesen, who did not look as though he could claim any too many years either, but who came about as near making an orchestra out of the piano as any of the recent pianists.

George Lee Marks, who appeared recently with the Washington [D. C.] Opera company in "Il Trovatore" and "The Barber of Seville," gave a song recital in the Auditorium recital hall yesterday. He was assisted by Sophie Chmelar, soprano.

They Can't Make Headway with Poor Utensils

by Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bowans

A booklet by Mrs. Bowans on "Books to Be Read to Children or by Them" will be sent free on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Suppose you had a real flair for designing clothes and never had the lovely materials that are, after all, essential to the production of beautiful garments—

Suppose you were a natural cook, but your pocketbook was so flat that you couldn't ever use enough butter or eggs, or keep your icebox and cupboard filled with the kind of food supplies that would allow you to give rein to your talent—

You couldn't get the best results.

The same sort of thing holds true of a certain phase of the children's development—though analogies and generalities are apt to be as full of holes as a sieve. If a child has a talent for drawing—or even just a longing for it—he can't make much headway with a hard pencil and any old paper. If he likes to work in color, the cheap hard cakes of paint and rough brushes will tend to discourage him, and also produce wretched results.

There are two ways to encourage children to use their hands and their talents. One is to observe their leanings—or perhaps merely their longings—and to see that they have good materials with which to express them. This does not always mean more expensive materials—a soft pencil, for instance, costs no more than a hard one—though sometimes it does. Where expense enters in, try to get less in quantity, but have it of good quality.

Three cakes of good water color, choosing only the three primary colors, are infinitely more valuable than eight or nine cakes as they come in cheap boxes. Dull, loose scissors get a child nowhere in paper cutting, while in sharp, round pointed ones he can have pride and get results—and, incidentally, you can use them.

The other way to encourage children to use their hands and their talents is not even to wait to see whether they are deft or talented—but have the materials there in case! A simple but well rounded supply of art and craft material should be accessible to all children—drawing and painting materials, clay, tools, wood, fabrics, sewing utensils, etc. A simple but well rounded supply and the opportunity to use it tend to make a well rounded, all around child, and sometimes to develop a gifted one.

In a Street Car.

My face burns even now when I think of a horrible moment in my life. It was in a crowded street car. Seeing that it was nearly time to get off, I decided to start, so I would surely be at the door when my stop came. When I was nearly out of the car my coat got caught on something, so I thrust my hand back to loosen it, and, lo and behold! I made a mistake, put my hand in some man's pocket, got tangled up in his watch chain, and pulled out his watch.

Hey! Hold on!" he shouted, and then every one who hadn't noticed it looked. The conductor thought some one wanted the car to wait, and held it. When I finally restored the watch and tried to slink away the conductor shouted:

"Well, aren't you going to get off?"

I managed a weak "No." When the car finally stopped at the next corner I bounded off and out of sight. Will I ever forget that? No! B. K.

In an Elevator.

I was standing in a department store elevator and thinking that I had to get some cigars for dad when the elevator boy called, "Floors, please."

As I wanted to get off on the sixth floor, which was next, I called "Cigars, please."

All the people in the elevator started to laugh, and then it dawned on me. Wasn't I glad that my floor was next, because even after I got off the elevator I heard some of the people giggle. J. S.

Miss E. Henley, W. H. Dupee Jr. to Wed Feb. 25

BY THALIA

The engagement of Miss Elizabeth Stuart Henley to Walter Hamlin Dupee Jr., son of Mrs. Florence Kennett Dupee of Coronado, Cal., formerly of Chicago, was announced recently. Their marriage is to take place on Feb. 25.

Miss Henley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Beisel Smiley, who, like Mr. Dupee and his mother, are former eastern residents, having resided in New York City and Huntington, L. I. The ceremony is to take place at Dias Felices, the Smileys' palatial Spanish place at Point Loma.

Miss Henley attended Mrs. Dow's school at Briarcliff, N. Y., and Miss Spence's in New York City, and is a good horsewoman. She has won blue ribbons with her horses at shows in and near New York and in California.

Mr. Dupee was educated at one of the eastern universities and is a nephew of Mrs. Frederick H. Rawson. Mrs. Dupee was in Chicago to visit the Rawsons at Christmas time, but the latter will doubtless be unable to return the visit or attend the wedding, as they are to be in Florida then. Schoolmates of Miss Henley, Miss Grace Ford and Miss Marietta Buggey of Toledo, O., and Miss Betty Bloss of Titusville, Pa., are to be her wedding attendants.

The marriage of Mr. Dupee's sister, the former Evelyn Dupee, to Lieut. George L. Castera took place in 1926 at Coronado Beach, Cal. The Casteras are now residing in Los Angeles.

Lake Foresters turned out in large numbers on Saturday evening to see two of their townsfolk, McPherson Hilt and Mrs. Richard Bentley, in the leading rôles in "The Return of the Soldier," presented by the Circuit Theater association at Durand hall on the university campus. It was the closing performance of the association's annual tour of the north shore towns.

The Friends of Opera will be the guests of the Chicago Civic Opera company this afternoon at a musical and tea in the red lacquer room of the Palmer house. Samuel Insull will preside and a program of songs will be given by Claudia Muzio, Alice Mock, Charles Hackett, Richard Bonelli and Chase Baromeo.

The first of the lectures being sponsored by the Junior League arts and interests committee will be this afternoon at the Drake hotel at 3:30 o'clock. Henry P. Shaw is to speak on the "Fundamentals of Investments and Banking." Following the talk, tea is to be served in the Junior League office. Mrs. Stephen Y. Hord is in charge and Mrs. Louis Sudler is to arrange the tea table.

Mrs. H. G. B. Alexander of 1500 Lake Shore drive is giving a dinner this evening for 20 guests, later taking them to the opening performance of "Let Us Be Gay" at the Studebaker theater.

The Junior Friends of Art will hold a meeting tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock at the Knoedler galleries at 622 South Michigan avenue.

The Tavern's latest communique in Charles Collins' inimitable phraseology runs thus: "Announcing a dinner-dance. 'There is nothing,' said the learned Dr. Samuel Johnson to the inevitable Mr. Boswell, 'by which so much happiness is produced as by a good tavern.' In order to live up to his lofty utterance this Tavern of ours has got to be on its toes. Therefore, the entertainment committee originates another dinner-dance. The date is Saturday night, Feb. 1. Manager Colin's minions will begin balancing their trays at 6:30. Wild Arabian musicians will swing into 'Hello, Baby,' and other incitements to rhythmic ecstasy at 9 o'clock." The annual meeting of the club is to be on Feb. 10.

Mrs. Harry Holloway is enjoying some of the experiences that befall the director of preparations for a rummage sale. The contributions unearthed from attic corners tend to be most amusing. Mrs. William H. Scripps has donated a set of dolls in period costumes. The sale is being engineered by the Woman's City club on Thursday and Friday on the third floor of the London Guarantee and Accident Company building. Mrs. Holloway's daughter, Ruth, and some of her friends are to read character from handwriting as an added attraction.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Fairbank arrive tomorrow from New York City for the wedding of Miss Marion Farnsworth, daughter of the George J. Farnsworths, to Fairbank Carpenter, Mrs. Benjamin Carpenter's son, to take place tomorrow afternoon at the Farnsworth residence. They are to be house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Murry Nelson of 44 East Elm street.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Blossom sailed on Saturday from New York City for the trip through the Panama canal to California.

Countess Cardelli of 209 Lake Shore drive arrived in New York City last week and is on her way to Chicago.

May Fix Date of Flood That Made Noah Famous

The date of the great flood in which every living thing that didn't get a place among the elect on Noah's ark was destroyed, according to the Bible, soon may be definitely determined as a result of findings made by the Field museum-Oxford university joint expedition to Mesopotamia. This was announced yesterday by Stephen C. Simms, director of the museum, who said the expedition is now in the seventh year of its excavations on the site of the ancient city of Kish.

Mr. Simms says a report of the current operations of the expedition has just been received from L. C. Watelin, the field director. It states, he says, that a number of inscribed tablets have been discovered which, it is believed, will indicate the exact year the biblical deluge happened. These tablets, the report states, were found far down in the lower strata of the Kish ruins, where traces of the flood, confirming in substance, the biblical story, were discovered last year.

$50,000 Gift from Rosenwald to Aid Education in South

New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The social science research council, of which Prof. Edwin B. Wilson of Harvard university is president, today announced a grant of $50,000 from the Julius Rosenwald fund for a new series of southern fellowships in the social sciences.

It also announced that it had submitted to Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior, a plan it had worked out for a nation wide governmental survey of the health and welfare of the American people in relation to the way in which they spend their incomes. It urged that the proposed survey be made as soon as possible.

Negro Rail Employes Give $750 Toward Provident Hospital

Stimulus was lent yesterday to the opening of the last week of the campaign to raise $3,000,000 for Provident hospital as a modern Negro medical center, by a communication F. E. Williamson, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, sent to other railroad presidents in his group of the drive.

That letter contained the information that eighteen colored employés of his company had subscribed $750 to the campaign. Dining car, coach yard and commissary employés have not yet been solicited, he added.

A luncheon at the Hotel La Salle at noon today will start the final week of work. Already $2,300,000 have been collected. A balance of $700,000 must be raised by the conclusion of the drive.

Civic Orchestra of Chicago Proves Merit During Sunday Concert

BY HAZEL MOORE.

One of the most vital and truly civic features of music in Chicago is exemplified in that eager young organization known as the Civic Orchestra of Chicago, for the development of symphony players.

Judging from their first concert of the season at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon some ninety young persons are being exceedingly well trained in the ways and routine of symphonists, by Frederick Stock, Eric DeLamarter, who conducted the first half of the program, and by Franz Polesny of the violin section of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, who took the baton for the second half.

Mr. Polesny has not heretofore appeared in the guise of director, but proved himself both alert and routined. Under his leadership the young players produced excellent results in the charming suite from Massenet's opera "Esclarmonde" [which, incidentally, had all the effect of a novelty as it has not been done here since the first season of the regular symphony orchestra], and in Liadow's "Danse de l'Amazone." The orchestral tone was especially good, and the musical intention of the conductor was obeyed with precision and understanding.

Mr. DeLaMarter's share of the program was devoted to Weber's overture to "Euranthe," Vivaldi's Concerto Grosso, D minor, and dances from Borodin's "Prince Igor." He also accompanied the young soloist of the day, Florence Kirsch, who played the allegro movement from Grieg's A minor piano concerto. She pleased so well that she was encored, playing the Liszt-Paganini "La Campanella."

Harold Samuel, pianist, believes with many others that this is the day of specialists and has applied this belief to his concert giving. For to hear Mr. Samuel one must hear Bach, though the reverse is not accurate fact.

Therefore his program at the Playhouse yesterday contained Bach and yet again Bach. This specialization has its advantages and perhaps also a few drawbacks. Certainly there is a Bach ease to his playing that is frequently lacking in the Bach of the non-specialist. Yesterday, however, this listener seemed to detect the flaw, that the continual practice of the beautifully brittle harpsichord music has rebounded a bit to produce a somewhat brittle and hardened tone. One rather longed for a bit of succulence, a softened phrase. Yet Mr. Samuel is the compleat Bach player.

His program contained the Chromatic Fantasia and fugue, the English Suite in F major, six preludes and fugues from the Well Tempered Clavichord and a group of shorter works.

La Argentina by now needs no explanation. This flaming Spanish dancer and her seductive castanets have four times lured capacity houses to the Studebaker theater this year, which is something of a record for any recitalist. Curiously, she has accomplished this with practically no change of program. Yet such is her allure that it is a pleasure to see and to see again each item of her répertofre, and to hear again the marvelous nuance and the emotional power of those two little clickers animated by her own two vitally alive hands. Here is combined music and drama, a perfect welding of sight and sound.

Dr. Gladys Dick Describes Work of the Cradle Home

Dr. Gladys Dick, one of the discoverers of the anti-toxin for scarlet fever, last night addressed the Cradle society at the Cradle home for babies at 2039 Ridge avenue, Evanston, on the proper care of infants. The Cradle home, with a mortality rate of less than 2 per cent, has the lowest death rate of any of the institutions caring for new born babies in the Chicago area, Dr. Dick said.

When we children were little it had become the established thing for father to come out and play hide-and-go-seek and the other popular games with us. Every evening a crowd gathered in front of the house to play.

One evening, as we were eating supper, the doorbell rang. Mother answered it. A childish voice piped up: "Please, can Mr. C—— be out?"

Churches Start Census of Chicago as Part of New Evangelism

First instructions as canvassers were given to thousands of religious workers yesterday in the Chicago Church federation evangelistic drive just begun. Workers were met in various centers throughout the metropolitan area by leaders of the campaign, who explained methods in taking the religious census. The Rev. L. E. Ripley, who is in charge of the census, instructed several groups in different parts of the city, while other leaders under his direction went to other divisional meetings.

Mr. Ripley stated that he and his assistants had met with great enthusiasm.

More than 300,000 families, totaling 1,500,000 persons, will be listed. From past experience in similar campaigns he stated that from 40 to 60 per cent of all prospects called on by the workers in the evangelistic drive which follows the canvass will align themselves with churches of their choice.

Hoosier Salon Gains Yearly in Quality; Exhibition Now Open

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Hoosier Salon again is the center of attraction in the Marshall Field galleries. This is another annual event which is lingered over long both in anticipation and in retrospect. Year by year the level of workmanship creeps up and the exhibit becomes more and more interesting. This year there are a number of fine canvases to be seen and a smaller but possibly better group of sculpture than last year.

Among the paintings certain ones stand out. For example, no one could miss the beautifully painted canvas by Wayman Adams "Little Old Mexico." He gives us an ancient pedler sitting against a wall and at his feet a bundle of woven rugs and scarfs. The "Chinese Horse" by Richard Pretz is well done. The water colors by W. C. Musick are unusually spirited, colorful, and fascinating. The "Farmers and Gardeners Market" by George Adams Dietrich is an amusing rainy day in Negro life. "Helen and Gobba" by Ada W. Schulz is delicate in color and a natural and simple page from childlife in the country.

"Bargaining" by Wood W. Woolsey has its points and "From Hanover Campus" by Frank V. Dudley is one of the strongest pictures Mr. Dudley has given us recently. It also takes us away from the dunes, the usual happy hunting grounds of Mr. Dudley's brushes. The "Portrait-Helen" by Lyla Marshall Harcoff is distinctive, a woman's head against a red background. The "Autumn Pageant" by Lucie Hartrath is a gorgeous painting rich in color and the mysterious frosty beauty of the fall.

"The Faculty Club" by Guy Brown Wiser is one of the most amusing paintings in the room and it is very well done. The "Indian Still Life" by Bertha Baxter is good in texture, color, and composition. The "Winter Landscape" by C. E. Woolsey has a somber beauty. Delicate and charming is "The Costume" by Murry Wickard. The "Mountaineers" by Marie M. MacPherson catches the eye. "Hills of Kelp" by L. O. Griffith ranks with the painting by Wayman Adams as being one of the best in the exhibition.

The woodblocks by Gustave Baumann, of which a large group were invited, are perfectly charming. He has an exquisite sense of color and a perfect sense of form. The prints are well composed and beautifully expressed and you turn from them with a sigh of utter joy in their priceless perfection. From these to the suggestive and fantastic work of Olive Rush is but a step. Her "Judging Horses" is the third outstanding painting in the galleries. A charming little girl by Mary Anderson closes the exhibit to us with a smile.

Salvation Army's Chief Hints Own Retirement

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Gen. Edward J. Higgins, head of the Salvation Army, in a speech tonight said he proposed to establish an age limit for his officers, and hinted the time soon would come for his own retirement. He favored the idea that the Army's assets should be intrusted to those who would remain as trustees, no matter who was general, and no future general should appoint a successor.

FARMERS TOLD TO LIMIT CROPS; WHEAT SURPLUS

1930 Forecast Warns of Price Outlook.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Limitation of the production of all farm products, wheat in particular, during 1930 is urged upon American farmers in the annual agricultural outlook report issued today by the bureau of agricultural economics of the department of agriculture.

"Farmers must plan their production this year particularly in view of the outlook for prices of each product during the next marketing season and adjust expenditures carefully to maintain farm incomes," the report states, adding that "the domestic market may improve later in the year, but it is unlikely that the demand for farm products in the summer and fall of 1930 will be as good as during last summer and fall."

The bureau of agricultural economics recently was taken over by the new federal farm board and its advice upon crop control as a means of reducing surpluses is in line with the farm board program.

Warn of Wheat Surplus.

Emphatic warnings against overproduction always have been broadcast by the board to cotton growers and dairymen as a part of an educational campaign in this direction. Although no formal acreage control advice has been issued to wheat producers, Chairman Alexander Legge has made it clear in interviews that the board will do all in its power to pursuade wheat producers that they can expect no marketing miracles from the farm board if they continue to flood the market with surplus grain.

Conservative production of farm products is particularly desirable during 1930, because of the uncertainty in the business world, the outlook report pointed out.

"The demand for some farm products already has been affected by the decline in industrial activity since last June," the report shows.

Time to Make Improvements.

The wise farmer this year, the report continued, will be the one who not only holds down his production but who takes advantage of the opportunity to procure labor and supplies at a reduced cost and goes forward with permanent improvements on his farm, such as buildings fences, ditches, and orchards.

"The long time tendency for prices of agricultural products to advance in relation to prices of nonagricultural products will probably continue," it is predicted. "During the period 1921 to 1925 prices of farm products advanced, while prices of nonagricultural products have tended to decline throughout the period since 1922."

The bureau reports that there is little to indicate that prices for the 1930 wheat crop will differ much from those prevailing for the 1929 crop, unless fall sown wheat suffers severe winter damage or the spring wheat acreage is reduced.

"Unless adverse conditions develop between now and harvest time, another large crop of winter wheat will be produced," the report continued.

Corn Prices May Be Lower.

With the prospect of a 2 per cent increase in acreage and a 5 per cent increase in yield, prices for the 1930 corn crop are likely to be lower than for either the 1928 or 1929 crops, according to the bureau's outlook. Beef cattle raisers also are faced with a downward price trend, but hog prices are expected to stay as high as in 1929 or go higher.

"Unless dairy herds are closely culled and more heifers sent to slaughter there will be a further increase in the size of dairy herds in 1931 and 1932," the report explained.

Among the other products listed in danger of being overproduced are wool and mohair, poultry and eggs, oats, grapes, peaches, cantaloupes, potatoes, lettuce, sweet potatoes, cabbage, peanuts, cotton, and tobacco.

Elmer Happy Over Musical Day on Radio

Prominent Persons Are on Programs.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Yesterday was an eventful radio day, with many prominent persons of the musical world on the air.

In the New York concert, through W-G-N, 8:15 to 9:15, Albert Spalding, violinist, was the guest soloist and Oskar Straus, conductor and well known composer of the operettas, "The Chocolate Soldier" and "The Waltz Dream," was guest conductor of the studio orchestra. The orchestra played many excerpts of these two one time popular operettas.

Mr. Spalding was nothing less than glorious yesterday. He could not have made better use of his time, so far as program building was concerned, and his playing of the finale of the Mendelssohn Violin Concert was the high musical moment of the day.

The concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Frederick Stock conducting, through W-G-N, 2 to 3 o'clock, was particularly important because of the "Scenes de Ballet" suite by Glazounow.

Alfred Wallenstein, cellist, was announced as the surprise soloist on the New York concert through KYW, 6:30 to 7. We admire Mr. Wallenstein. However, his selections were not as technically spectacular as were those on his first radio appearance some months ago. One dazzling number was Popper's "Spinning Song." Daniel Ericourt, pianist, co-soloist on this concert, offered an enjoyable program. We are sorry to learn that this was the final concert of the series.

REAR ADMIRAL W. W. KIMBALL DIES, AGED 84

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Rear Admiral William Wirt Kimball, retired, died of heart disease today at his home here.

Admiral Kimball was 84. He is survived by the widow, the former Miss Esther Smith Spencer of Maryland.

After his graduation from the Naval academy in 1869 Admiral Kimball was torpedo officer of the first torpedo craft of the navy in 1874, and commanded the Atlantic torpedo boat flotilla in the war with Spain. He commanded the Nicaraguan expeditionary squadron in 1909 and, although retired early the following year, was not relieved of duty until several months later when the squadron was withdrawn.

Burial will be at Arlington cemetery here, but the body later will be removed to his old home at Paris, Me., where he was born.

LOUIS SWAN, WHO OWNED FAMOUS CAFE, IS DEAD

Louis Swan, for many years the proprietor of Swan's restaurant, at one time a famous eating place, at 62 East 22d street, died on Saturday in a hospital at Dallas, Tex. Word of his death was received here last night. He was 73 years old.

He had retired from the restaurant business about four months ago and in October had started on an automobile trip to California but became ill on the way and stopped for a time at Hot Springs before entering a hospital at Dallas. His wife and son, Albert, were with him when he died.

Mr. Swan's restaurant was one of the best known in the city in the days when the near south side was the most fashionable residential section. He had made his home there until his retirement, when he moved to 6411 Lakewood avenue. Besides his widow and his son, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Emmett Graham of Chicago, and Mrs. Tracy Blake of Rockford. Funeral services will be held from the residence at 3 p. m. Wednesday.

JOHN W. LOW, PIONEER PRODUCE MERCHANT, DIES

Word of the death of John W. Low, pioneer Chicago produce commission merchant, in his winter home at St. Petersburg, Fla., was received by his relatives and friends last night. Mr. Low, who lived at 1207 Michigan avenue, Evanston, was 79 years old. The body will be brought to Chicago and funeral services will be conducted in the First Baptist church of Evanston at 2:30 p. m. on Wednesday. Burial will be in Rosehill cemetery.

Mr. Low came to Chicago from the farm on which he was born in Lake county, in 1872. He at once entered the produce commission business and in 1876 became a member of the firm of Wayne & Low. He had been president and treasurer of that firm since 1914. He was also president of the Chicago Cold Storage Warehouse company. He was a director of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and a member of the Westmoreland Country club. His wife, Mrs. Jennie Taylor Low, died in 1909.

MARTHA PETRIE, WIDOW OF FIRE OFFICIAL, DIES

Mrs. Martha Ann Petrie, 89 years old, widow of the late assistant fire marshal, Charles S. Petrie, who was secretary of the fire department for many years, died yesterday at the home of her son-in-law, Dr. J. E. H. Atkiesson, 3136 Logan boulevard.

Mrs. Petrie was born in Nashville, married during the civil war, and came to Chicago in 1865. While her husband was helping in the battle of the great fire of 1871, Mrs. Petrie erected a field kitchen in her back yard at State street and Walton place, serving food and coffee for the refugees.

Besides her daughter, Mrs. Atkiesson, she is survived by another daughter and four sons. Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow at the chapel at 2483 Milwaukee avenue, with burial at Rosehill cemetery.

Newspaper Artist Dies in Automobile Accident

Cleveland, O., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Irving S. Knickerbocker, staff artist for the Newspaper Enterprise association, known in the cartoon world as "Knick," was killed in an automobile accident today.

J. B. RUSSELL, 70, SCHOOL LEADER IN WHEATON, DIES

J. B. Russell, 70 years old, for thirty years superintendent of schools at Wheaton, died at his home there yesterday. Mr. Russell, who was an outstanding figure in the community because of his efforts for civic betterment, retired as superintendent six years ago, to become a member of the school board. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Isabel Russell, one daughter, Edna, and one son, Everett P. Russell.

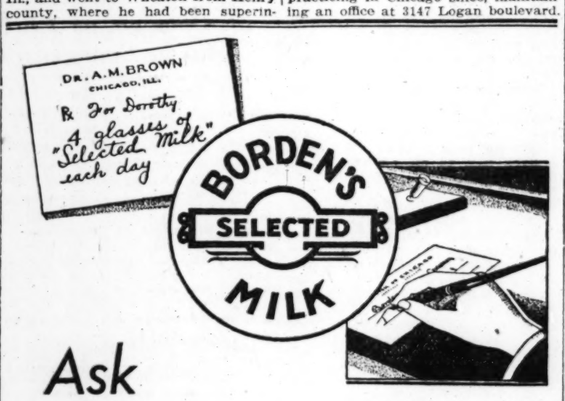
Mr. Russell was born at Woodhall, Ill., and went to Wheaton from Henry county, where he had been superintendent of the public schools. His first position in the western suburb was as professor of science at Wheaton college, after which he became superintendent of schools. He was a member of the Round Table of Illinois, an organization of Illinois school superintendents in which membership is achieved because of special merit.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the chapel of Wheaton college. Burial will be at Wheaton.

DR. JAMES H. GENTER, 43 years old, a dentist, was found dead last night in his room at 3041 Logan boulevard, apparently a victim of a heart attack. Dr. Genter was graduated from the dental school of Northwestern university in 1912 and had been practicing in Chicago since, maintaining an office at 3147 Logan boulevard.

Andrew M. Langwill, 59, Dies at Home in La Grange

Andrew M. Langwill, 59 years old, vice president of the Stead & Miller company of Philadelphia, died yesterday at his home at 322 Blackstone avenue, La Grange, after an illness of three months. Mr. Langwill was a native of Scotland. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Alice Jean Donnal of Elizabeth, N. J. Mrs. Langwill died last March. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at the residence with burial at La Grange cemetery.



Ask YOUR WIFE to change to "SELECTED"

"Here's one bill I'm glad to pay," said Dad, signing the Borden check. "'Selected' Milk, 4 glasses per day per child, was the best prescription old Doc Brown ever wrote for this family."

Every mother knows that children need milk—every day—4 glasses at least—for normal growth and development. But in winter, the children, less thirsty perhaps, often forget to drink it unless watched.

Here, again, "Selected" comes to the rescue. Children are so fond of it that they drink it eagerly. They never tire of this special drinking milk because they like its "Sweet Natural Taste."

It tastes better because of the extreme precautions taken in its production on 105 model dairy farms near Lake Geneva, Wisconsin, with healthy herds, modern barns and efficient cooling equipment. Special bottling, an extra Borden cap, and speedy delivery bring you "Selected" with the "Sweet Natural Taste" fully protected.

Using "Selected" is assurance that children will drink their needed ration of milk each day, regularly, and little bodies will receive the nourishment that only milk a plenty can give.

Let "Selected" tickle the palate and fill the tummies of your youngsters. The first of the month is a good time to change to "Selected." Here's a coupon for your convenience.

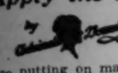
Cold, Clear Light Is Best When You Apply the Makeup



Because putting on makeup is now one of the things that everybody does is not any reason why it should be put on as though one were out to show the world how much red rouge one facial area can hold.

The fact of the matter is that women want to look as if they knew all about makeup. But they do their making up in a badly lighted room. At night you can get away with more face paint than you can in the daytime simply because the light you make up by is kin to the light you visit under later on. Not so with the daylight outdoors and the light behind darkly draped windows or when working under electric light in the daytime.

This matter of light is awfully important to a daytime reputation for smart makeup. Before you put on the hat to go outdoors you and a hand mirror ought to walk over to the window and get a good, unobstructed, hard daylight on the face. Even then you are still a few degrees off in the actual lighting that will fall on your face in the broad outdoor light.

If you ride in a bus, being more or less on a level with women on the street, you catch side views and front views of makeup that are pretty startling. Out of a group of women standing on the corner waiting for the bus you are in or another one there will be one or two horrible daubs confronting you. First you gasp: "How could she!" Then you charitably remember about the house lighting under which her toilette was made.

At least, I think this is the reason why more women aren't deceptively charming with their makeup. Even the shade of rouge you put on shows up a tone or two brighter in the clear noonday light.

So often, however, the dressing table is tucked away in a corner with its back toward the window upon which you have to put most of your dependence for light. From this position you cannot get a true view of the touched-up face. You need that same good light coming over the left shoulder to put your makeup on well as you do to keep your eyes well.

Those charming draperies at the window to soften the boudoir cast disconcerting shadows upon the light struggling to get through. Anyway, try the window-clear-hard-light just to make sure your job is what you think it is.

New Suits from Paris Fitted Like Dresses

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—[Special.]—Things are getting mixed up in the new fashions. Capes are entering the coat world. Suits are entering the dress world. The result is novelty, a pleasing prospect. The very newest suits seen in Paris are fitted like dresses, are worn like dresses, and yet they have blouses underneath the tunic jackets so that when you peel off your wrap you have a new dress scape. This is a nice kind of costume for the woman in business, and she who shops, for it can cope with the style etiquette that is pernickity about suiting your style to the hour.

Naturally, the materials for such suits are featherweight woolens and a favorite fabric in Paris is screen mesh wool crêpe. Naturally, also, the jackets look very little like what we know under that name. They are without collars or revers, and many of them have capelets over the shoulders or at the back.

One of the best of these dress suits is shown in our sketch. It is a creation of Renée and is made of black square weave crêpe. The jacket is fitted like a directoire waistcoat, and like it, buttoned down the front. It is slightly cutaway at the bottom and has capelets on the shoulders, half covering the sleeves which are quite closely fitted. Of course, there isn't any collar, but the pink crêpe circular bib with pointed border that collars the pink blouse is worn outside the jacket to make it look more than ever like a dress.

The black skirt of this suit is a new type. You will notice that it is a straight tube to the knees, where a bias band outlines the double points at the front and the squared dip at the back. Below this, what is left of the skirt is box plaited on a slightly circular piece of the material so that it flares. It gives to the whole ensemble a princess effect.

The black felt cloth hat that is worn with this suit dress is cut into irregular scallops around its edges, a new feature of Paris hats, and one you will see and hear more of later.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Lamb Kidney Stew.

Among the least expensive and absolutely the most quickly made of stews or gravies, if the work is rightly done, are those made with lamb kidneys. We might ask why these stews and gravies are not more universally used. Perhaps one reason is that there are so many aspects of the question, or its ands and ands.

But suppose we follow a more or less conventional method of making a little lamb kidney stew for two people. This stew is really a sort of gravy, excellent for serving with potatoes cooked separately and preferably cut up in blocks, or we may make it fine enough to pour over new potatoes which will enhance the whole dish.

To emphasize this piece of quick cooking, let us put it in another way. Lamb kidney when correctly prepared needs no more than five minutes of real cooking. When it is incorrectly treated lamb kidney stew is cooked for two hours, and perhaps that is not too much.

First, then, we will buy two lamb kidneys only, or three for good measure. They will probably cost five cents apiece, and with their thick shell of fat will weigh half a pound. Next let us dispose of the fat, skin it, trim it of bloody parts and break it up into the upper section of the double boiler to be rendered, or put it aside for other uses, like that for making mock lamb stew. Now with the kidney proper in hand pull off the thin skin and split the piece of meat, cutting it from the convex side toward the root, and for the stew split the root and remove it. It is an exceedingly fibrous thing.

Scald the two pieces—or you may have broken the meat into more than that but it does not matter—with water which on the stove is boiling but which is allowed to lose a degree or two of heat before being turned over the meat. Do this a second time, or instead of this method pour cold water over the kidney, put the whole on the stove and let it almost boil but never boil, because it hardens the meat. Take from the fire, drain and cut the meat into small pieces and treat in the same way again.

Now for the sauce basis. Brown one tablespoon of butter in a small thick-bottomed stew pan, then brown in the butter two scant level tablespoons of flour. To this roux add either one cup of meat stock or one cup water, or, for the best seasoning effects, use for part of this liquid a rather strong celery water or a finely flavored vegetable stock. Stir and cook after it has thickened for ten minutes. Put in the kidney and cook for five minutes without boiling.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

L. C.: IT IS NATURAL FOR blonde hair to grow darker as one grows older. There is nothing you can do to prevent it. I recommend the egg shampoo made by beating up the whites of three eggs, and adding a tablespoonful of water for each egg white. Use this as you would soap. Rinse the hair thoroughly, adding lemon juice to the last rinse water.

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

The normal waistline of this smart dress is indicated by plaits at the underarm seams, and shirring at the center front which gives prominence to the flat hipline. The shoulders are tucked on the front, and the collarless neckline has sunburst tucking at the center back. The dipping back hem of the circular skirt accentuates slenderness and gives the figure length. Flat silk crêpe, Canton crêpe, chiffon, fish net, crêpe satin and crêpe marocain are all lovely materials to use for this dress.

The pattern, 3141, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material with ⅜ yard of 39 inch contrasting, and 1 yard of binding.

Flattery Is a Tonic That Invigorates Both Man 'n' Woman

BY DORIS BLAKE.

To which sex belong the most voracious flattery appetite?

"Not mine!" say the men.

"Not mine!" says the girls.

"Where do we get a chance to develop an appetite for flattery?" ask the men.

"Yeah, and where do WE?" sass the women.

One of those foolish questions—but when you read the confessions of a certain class of high priced feminine wage earners, as could be read in a recent publication, and hear how the "Ain't You Wonderful" act will pull down a contract, a big insurance prospect, or a swell bond order, you just sit back and wonder all over again about that appetite question.

Then, when you hear a wife tell how her big, strong mate who can put on a wonderful wrestling show with big business rivals, shrivels up into a knot no bigger than a small bundle of baby at her slightest word of criticism—again you wonder into which Who's Who you must put the answer to the question.

We're not trying to solve the riddle, really. Like a lot of other problems, the less you question them and the more you practice them, the happier for everybody concerned.

Anyway, it does not matter so much which sex can partake of flattery with the heartiest gusto as that each gets its decent quota. It's such an all-around needed panacea for discouraged moments, such a boost for faltering courage, and aren't we all just making a lot of noise to keep our courage up, after all?

It never seemed to us to be a grave problem, either taking or dispensing flattery in generous portions. And though we cannot say that we have been the most profitable practitioner in the world, ourselves, for we've let a lot of good opportunities slip by—still we have observed with relish the advantages that can accrue to persons whose tongues unhesitatingly roll off a boost instead of a knock.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Must Work at Home.

"Dear Miss Brown: I am the father of four children and have heart trouble. The doctor informs me I could improve my condition a good deal if I could remain at home to work. I am handy with tools and would like to make ship models and other home work of an artistic nature, as I have some training in that line.

"Have some of your readers any plans, books, or materials regarding model making or home work they could donate or loan me, as we are unable to buy any and it would help out a lot. F. C. H."

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

It's Up to You.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a girl and she loves me. But she goes out with other fellows. Please advise. Thanking you, JOE."

If you want her for your own you'll have to pop the question, Joe. That's the only way to shut out competition.

Obey Your Parents.

"Dear Miss Blake: My parents won't allow me to go out with my boy friend. Please advise. ROSEMARIE."

You'll have to be content with seeing each other at your home until your parents give their consent to your going out together.

Tang!

Perhaps this year the sun gave a richer, riper tang to our tomatoes.

Anyway, it seems as if Heinz Tomato Ketchup has a more tantalizing taste right now than ever before.

You ought to taste some today on a tender, juicy steak!

SOME WOMEN ALWAYS ATTRACT

You want to be beautiful. You want the tireless energy, fresh complexion and pep of youth. Then let Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help free your system of the poisons caused by clogged bowels and torpid liver.

For 20 years men and women suffering from stomach troubles, pimples, listlessness and headaches have taken Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, a successful substitute for calomel, a compound of vegetable ingredients, known by their olive color. They act easily upon the bowels without griping. They help clease the system and tone up the liver.

If you value youth and its many gifts, take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly. How much better you will feel—and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

DRUGGIST PICKS REM FOR HIMSELF AND OTHERS

Mr. A. Matera, Jr., is a druggist at 8136 Baxter Ave., Elmhurst, N. Y., and has a whole storeful of various remedies at his disposal. Therefore it's significant that he chose REM when he himself had a cold and a cough. Mr. Matera says: "REM is a very good expectorant, loosens the phlegm in the throat, soothes the tissues, and promptly checks the coughing." This prompt action of REM is partly due to a special ingredient not found in ordinary cough remedies. Harmless itself, it helps produce the quick soothing effect so noticeable when it is swallowed. Then he adds: "It's an easy remedy to give children because they like to take it, and I've noticed that it always does all that is claimed for it."

REM is quicker. Clings to the throat. Starts relief immediately

Charged with Laziness—

Guilty Simply of Acidity!

More than one man today is misjudged and unjustly penalized because of a not understood physical condition rather than any lack of willingness or ability.

So many of us are only half ourselves, only fifty percent efficient, because we are victims of an insidious condition of acidity! That persistent tired feeling—that clouded mind—that lack of dash and fire—that missing punch that decides so many situations in business—are all usually due to an acid system.

Acidity is brought on by your unnatural eating, excessive smoking and irregular hours. It impairs digestion, and causes fermentation and putrefaction in the intestines and drags us down physically and mentally.

A remarkable new corrective of acidity has been developed by a famous 100-year-old pharmaceutical house in Germany.

This new, improved magnesia comes in the form of small white tablets called Magnesia Oxoids which do not have to be chewed, but may be swallowed whole.

Magnesia Oxoids, upon contact with the acid in the stomach, generate nascent, or active, oxygen. Now, active oxygen, as any doctor will tell you, when generated within the digestive tract does just the things required for acidity. It stimulates the secretion of the alkaline mucus. It checks the putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal. It exercises a stimulating effect upon the activities of the intestinal walls and aids the movement of the bowels.

All three effects are necessary to the true relief of acidity and Magnesia Oxoids supply them in a perfect natural manner.

5-Day Acid Test

See for yourself how much acid has to do with your run-down condition and that persistent feeling of tiredness. Make this 5-day acid test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxoids from Walgreen's Drug Stores and Economical Drug Stores or any other druggist on our money-back guarantee. Take two after each meal for five days. Note the pick-up in your pep and vigor. Mark the new peace of your stomach and nerves. If five days' test doesn't show you a decided improvement in your health, return the balance of the Oxoids to your druggist and he will refund your money.

A SPECIALTY

We have a DOLLAR DOWN sales set-up on a popular priced household necessity that means sales. Being a salesman, YOU are naturally looking for something of MERIT that will SELL.

Answer this question to yourself: If you had two articles that ARE IN GREAT DEMAND and were in a position to SELL THEM for HALF of what any other merchant would care to offer them, how many ORDERS a week do you feel YOU could write at a DOLLAR DOWN and a dollar per week?

JUST ONE MEASLY ORDER A DAY WITH A DOLLAR DEPOSIT PAYS YOU $54 A WEEK IN PETTY CASH. DETAILS OFFERED, and WE GET YOU INTO THE HOME at our own expense and pay you on all other purchases that your customer makes.

IF YOU ARE SEEKING A GOOD, LEGITIMATE, STEADY INCOME AND WANT SOMETHING THAT SELLS—WE HAVE IT! Interviews between 10 a. m. and 3 p. m. only. See Mr. Mackerman.

SALESMEN

AMBITIOUS TO EARN $10,000 TO $15,000 A YEAR.

The oldest investment house in Chicago, doing a gross business of over $100,000,000 a year, is now expanding its business and has a number of very desirable positions open to men who have a knowledge of the fundamentals of selling, and who are ambitious to make a permanent place for themselves in the field of finance.

AN IMMEDIATE INCOME.

By joining our organization now you can make from $100 to $200 a week, beginning with the second week, and build a clientele of satisfied customers in a short time which should insure you an income of from $4,000 to $15,000 a year. THE AVERAGE ANNUAL INCOME OF 110 MEN WHO HAVE BEEN IN THIS DEPARTMENT OF OUR BUSINESS FOR THE PAST TWO YEARS IS IN EXCESS OF $15,000 A YEAR.

QUALIFICATIONS:

You don't have to have experience in security selling to qualify for one of these positions, but you do have to be the right kind of a man; between ages of 25 and 40, with sufficient business experience to enable you to contact with intelligent buyers.

For personal interview call between 11 a. m. and 2 p. m., Monday or Tuesday at H. O. Stone & Co., 6 N. Clark-st. (3d floor), and ask for Frederick S. Dudley.

SALESMEN

REAL EFFORT WILL PAY BIG DIVIDENDS IN 1930.

We will train you to apply your effort intelligently in our business. We have the ability to furnish the co-operation.

MASON'S PLAN

of compensation is the most unusual and profitable in the United States.

SALESMEN.

We are interested in three men who are honest, reliable, and can use their leads to advantage. These men are to be introduced to a new project and salary will depend entirely upon themselves. If accepted they must be able to furnish references and be acceptable for a surety bond. Preferably with sales experience; however, will instruct beginners who will appreciate learning. Write, giving full particulars.

Household Loans
$100 to $300
By reason of the large volume and by limiting our service to the largest loans from $100 to $300, "Household" has been able to reduce its interest rate to almost one-third less than the charges permitted by law.

Here Is the Cost
On 20 Month Payment Plan:

$100 average monthly cost	$1.32
$200 average monthly cost	$2.63
$300 average monthly cost	$3.94

Other amounts at same rate.
